Passion in the Village: Christians mark their faith

By ADRIANE TILLMAN | VILLAGE NEWS

Churches in La Jolla are preparing to celebrate the most important weekend in the Christian faith. Each denomination will venerate Jesus' sacrifice in its own way, but ministers from four local churches shared the same sentiment: Easter is a time to celebrate new life and renewed hope in Christ.

The following is a peek into the hearts and doors of four churches in the Village as they commemorate Holy Week.

The crosses and statues are shrouded in purple cloth at St. James by-the-Sea Episcopal Church on Prospect Street in sacred remembrance of Holy Week.

The priests are preparing themselves and the church for the most important liturgies of the year.

"All of it is a sacred remembering," said The Rev. Eleanor Ellsworth at St. James. "Holy Week is not supposed to be business-as-usual. We restrict regular business to a minimum so we can spiritually prepare for each of the great liturgies that we put together and participate in."

Tonight, the congregation will share a simple Middle Eastern meal at 6 p.m. to honor Christ's last meal when he broke bread and blessed the wine to share with his disciples.

The Eucharist — the bread and wine symbolizing the body and blood of Christ — will be placed in a lit chapel and will not be taken again until Easter morning.

The priests will then strip the altar bare. The Episcopal Church believes a mysterious transformation occurs after the Eucharist, where the bread and wine becomes "the Real Presence of Christ."

"That does not say ... that it literally is the body and blood [of Christ] as it was 2,000 years ago," Ellsworth said. "... But when you bless that bread and do it in the context of worship, something changes. The ordinary becomes sacred."

On Good Friday, beginning at 10 a.m., the priests will carry a heavy, wooden cross into the sanctuary for people to kneel before to pray for the world and to remember those who have departed.

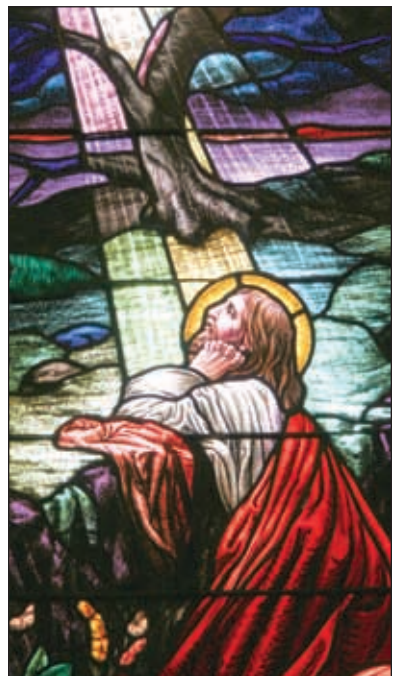

The church remains open until 3 p.m. for people to pray and meditate upon Jesus' suffering on the cross.

Stations of the Cross follows at 4 p.m. This is when the congregation proceeds past 14 carvings and pictures depicting the events from Jesus' condemnation to his crucifixion. This year, the devotion is geared toward children; the ceremony will be abbreviated and lively.

St. James concludes Good Friday with a reenactment of the Gospel of John at 7 p.m.

Saturday will be a quiet day until dusk when the Easter vigil begins and the church moves from solemnity into joy. St. James will not host a vigil this year, and encourages people to head to St. Paul's Cathedral downtown or to St. Peter's in Del Mar.

The vigil begins at dusk with the lighting of the "the primordial fire," symbolizing the beginning of creation, and read-

Law regulating medical pot shops emerges

By ADRIANE TILLMAN | VILLAGE NEWS

A law to control medical marijuana shops in San Diego is beginning to take shape without a cap on the number of cooperatives allowed to operate in the city.

City Council members instructed the City Attorney's Office to draft a regulatory ordinance during a March 24 meeting of the city's Land Use & Housing (LU&H) Committee.

The item is not yet ready for a City Council vote.

District 4 City Councilman Tony Young dissented because he said he wanted the ordinance to limit the number of dispensaries in the city.

San Diego currently has about 80 medical marijuana cooperatives, according to San Diego police Capt. Guy Swanger.

Los Angeles recently capped the number of medical marijuana cooperatives at 70, but exempted those that registered with the city in 2007, according to published accounts by the Los Angeles Times. City officials estimated between 800 and 1,000 dispensaries are currently operating in Los Angeles, according to the Times.

Meanwhile, the floodgates may open to legalize marijuana since Californians will now vote on a ballot proposal in November to legalize marijuana for personal use, cultivation and transportation.

The draft ordinance:

District 1 Councilwoman Sherri Lightner, who represents La Jolla, made a motion to impose stricter requirements than proposed by the Medical Marijuana Task Force set up by the city.

Under the draft ordinance, dispensaries would be banned from areas designated as commercial neighborhoods and commercial visitor zones, as well as from residential areas. In La Jolla, dispensaries would likely only be permitted to open along Girard Avenue because of zoning restrictions in the planned district ordinance.

Lightner also called for a more oner-

Lightner prefers shared use at Children's Pool

District 1 City Councilwoman Sherri Lightner has announced her plan for the Children's Pool: keep the existing arrangement of joint-use between the seals and swimmers.

Lightner agreed the beach should continue to be partially roped off during pupping season from Dec. 15 to May 15.

Lightner said the city should hire a full-time city ranger or lifeguard to patrol the beach to ensure visitors can access the water and to protect the seals from harassment.

She also wants the city to set up a volunteer docent program.

Lightner said the city should not have to pay for the plan. She hopes to identify private funding as well as set up a system for visitors to donate to the cause.

The City Council will ultimately vote on a plan for the beach.

Meanwhile, the creation of a plan for the Children's Pool stalled last week at the city's Natural Resources and Culture Committee. The committee will take up the issue again at a special meeting Monday, April 5 from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Fire damages retail, office building on Girard

A fire swept through the basement of a three-story, brick building at 7722 Girard Ave. — a landmark known for its slanted, steel beam that runs across the façade — at around 6 p.m. on March 29.

Flat-screen televisions and other appliances were ruined at the ground-floor retail store Bang & Olufsen, according to Deborah Marengo, who works at fire under control, said Maurice Luque, spokesman for the San Diego Fire-Rescue Department. The fire breached the walls and burned into the ceiling of the basement. The blaze caused an estimated $200,000 in damage to the building and contents, Luque said. Electrical wiring in the basement is believed to have caused the fire, Luque said. Nearby buildings were not affected.

Recreation center hosts egg hunt

Children can hop on over to the La Jolla Recreation Center for a free egg hunt on Saturday, April 3. Spring basket decorating and photos with Peter Rabbit takes place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Egg hunts are arranged by age group: 2 year olds at 10 a.m.; 3-4 year olds at 10:30 a.m.; 5-6 year olds at 11 a.m.; 7-9 year olds at 11:30 a.m.; 10-12 year olds at noon. Bring your own basket. For more information call (858) 552-1658.

Birch Aquarium features marine eggs

Spring has arrived and the eggs are hatching at the Birch Aquarium. Children are welcome to view shark eggs, squid eggs, fish eggs and snail eggs now through April 4 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the aquarium with paid admission.

Visitors will be able to touch the eggs, inspect them through microscopes and may see some hatch. Children will make their own shark eggs during craft time, and can hear a story from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"I think it's really interesting to learn that there are so many different types of eggs in the ocean and they may not all look like your typical chicken egg," said Charina Layman, public programs coordi-

The Children's School lands matching gift grant

The Children's School, an independent school for toddlers through seventh graders in La Jolla, received a matching gift grant to support its new Nelson Middle Years program for sixth and seventh graders. The gift from the C and M Nelson Foundation will match at least $250,000 annually in donations made to any of the school's operating and capital fundraising efforts that benefit the program.

In the spring of 2009, The Children's School secured about $2 million in its first capital campaign and used the money to launch the Nelson Middle Years program and upgrade Early Childhood program facilities. Funds from the matching gift grant will be used to support the facilities, programs and personnel needed to continue to run the program.

Vans loaned to The Preuss School

On March 25, South Bay Volkswagen loaned two vans to The Preuss School UCSD through a one-year, no-cost lease arrangement. The school will use the vans to transport student athletes to off-campus sporting events and matches. The school previously relied on volunteer drivers to transport students to their meets.

The Preuss School provides "intensive college preparation for motivated low-income students" in middle and high school, according to a press release.

Scripps hospitals win awards

Two Scripps hospitals in La Jolla have earned recognition from the California Hospital Assessment and Reporting Task Force (CHART) for having "superior and above-average quality scores."

Scripps Green Hospital and Scripps Memorial Hospital La Jolla both received Certificates of Excellence from CHART, which ranks hospitals on 50 different performance indicators, including cardiac care, pneumonia and maternity services. In order to earn a certificate, a hospital must score "above average" or "superior" in five of eight measure sets and not receive a "below average" or "poor" designation in any category, according to the release. The rating is based on February 2010 CHART update, which is available online at www.calhospitalcompare.org.

Camp Jaycee turns 65

Camp Jaycee will kick off its 65th year when its 2010 session begins June 14. Registration is now open for all day camps, serving children from nine months of age to 12th grade. The camps take place on the Jacobs Family Campus at the Lawrence Family Jewish Community Center. Participants can choose from sports and theater camps, arts and crafts classes, aquatics lessons and science and computer classes. ous permitting process than suggested by the task force. Dispensaries will need a Process 4 permit, a decision made by the Planning Commission, but which can be appealed to the City Council.

However, the cost of a Process 4 permit may be too much of a burden for small cooperatives, argued some members of the task force.

The city charges an $8,000 deposit for a Process 4 permit, but costs can quickly escalate if the project is controversial and more staff time is required, according to Glenn Gargas, a project development manager with the city's Development Services Department.

Gargas said he's seen controversial permits for single-family homes in La Jolla escalate to $60,000.

To accommodate small cooperatives, the task force had proposed a two-tier system: collectives with fewer than 100 members would need a Process 2 permit, and those with more than 100 members would require a Process 3 permit.

Lightner said she is aware of the potential problems of a Process 4 permit, and said the City Council should review the permitting process after a year.

The draft ordinance also includes the following provisions:

- Collectives must obtain non-profit status.
- Collectives are permitted to have long business hours, and may operate from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.
- Dispensaries cannot be located within a 1,000-foot radius of schools, playgrounds, libraries, childcare facilities, youth facilities, parks and places of worship.
- Dispensaries cannot be located within 1,000 feet of each other.
- Dispensaries must obtain a conditional use permit, wherein the hearing officer determines on a case-by-case basis "whether and under what conditions the use may be approved at a given site."
- Signage for the dispensaries must comply with city code and be limited to the name of the establishment and two colors.
- A security guard must be present at all times during business hours.
- The city must be able to recover the cost of dealing with the dispensaries so the city isn't financially burdened by their operation.

LCPA official: Ditch $$ incentives

Joe La Cava said the city must get rid of the financial incentives for medical marijuana dispensaries to run major operations.

Mandating non-profit status still allows owners to make handsome salaries, La Cava noted.

La Cava is president of the La Jolla Community Planning Association, which makes land-use recommendations to the city.

"It would be very good if [the city] could place operating controls so there is no money-making incentive," La Cava said.

The Medical Marijuana Task Force will now turn its attention to regulating the operation of the dispensaries.

La Cava also doesn't favor placing a cap on medical marijuana dispensaries. "If you cap it, you're kind of saying that we want bigger dispensaries rather than a lot of little dispensaries," La Cava said. "I don't think that's a good thing to encourage."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Highway to the danger zone

Luckily, the recent emergency landing at MCAS Miramar, the second threatening La Jolla and University City that we know of in the past 16 months, did not result in any deaths. This means we can talk freely about what these incidents signify without getting side-tracked into talk about fuel levels and degrees of patriotism.

Descending into Miramar over La Jolla and University City is prohibited in flight safety rules currently in place in California. The landing pattern is incompatible, to paraphrase the official language, with the land-use development that lies below it. The Marines and Airport Authority know this, which is one reason why the route is scarcely used and why it does not appear in the current Airport Land Use Compatibility Plan — a state-mandated plan governing things like airport arrival and departure paths.

The fatal 2008 crash brought to light a tragic loophole in this governance; the Marines can keep the route open because it existed before the current rules were put in place. What is considered too unsafe to put in place now is considered okay if it already exists. Unlucky for us, the value of the route is in its proximity and orientation to the Pacific. It is ideal for emergencies commencing at sea; better than other approaches to Miramar that may require more maneuvering than a trainee in a distressed plane can do.

This signals that, while rare, it is likely that planes descending over La Jolla and University City on their way to Miramar are planes in danger of crashing. Our communities must live with the reality that if it's overhead, the chances are good it's a plane in extremis hoping to avoid a crash.

There is no logic in formulating landing route safety guidelines and then ignoring them because of historical patterns any more than there is in telling a 6-year-old they have to wear a bike helmet while their 9-year-old sibling does not because they were born before the helmet law existed. The Marines and the Airport Authority know this pattern is unsafe. They keep it open to protect one plane and one pilot over any number of civilians on the ground. It may be legal but it isn't right.

UCSD in turmoil

The latest in the string of race-related incidents at our prestigious UCSD university was the KKK-style hood foisted on the statue of the revered late Dr. Theodore Geisel, who died in 1991.

While I vehemently agree with Chancellor Marye Anne Fox's statement that "the vast majority of students are the greatest," I respectfully would like to make a suggestion she could convey to them.

The nonprofit volunteer program founded by President Eisenhower to promote international friendship and understanding between American communities and those overseas through educational and humanitarian exchanges would allow bored or racist students a new perspective and chance to make a difference. San Diego's Sister City in Spain is Alcalá de Henares, and has a 500-years-old university.

Stick to the plans

Some background is needed on the creation of Calumet Park. When the properties along the cliff were being built, residents realized that the development threatened to wall off the ocean and prevent community access. The community, the developer and the city accepted Calumet Park as a compromise. The agreement promised ocean access via a stairway, and this stairway clearly shows on the plans for Calumet Park. Calumet Park was never meant to function as a front lawn for the adjacent residents, most of whose occupants have moved in since the park was created. Calumet Park was meant to be a community park and when the City Council approves a "community park" you can be sure they include Clairemont and University City as part of the community. In effect, the city has already approved the stairway although it was never built by the developer.

But should ocean access be provided? Look at the La Jolla Community Plan under goals. It says, "Enhance existing public access to La Jolla's beaches and coastline areas ... in order to facilitate greater public use and enjoyment of these and other coastal resources."

You can find the La Jolla Community Plan online.

The letters to the Village News editor were not without humor, however. One letter asks "... why would they (the Coastal Commission) allow the lovely natural cliff path to be cemented with stairs?"

It is difficult for me to believe the writer has ever been down this "lovely natural cliff path." The path is always wet and slick, and has a 4-foot drop at the end. There is rope to repel down the last four feet, but I noticed the bolt holding the rope wobbles — no thanks.

Also, the actual staircase proposal made to the Bird Rock Council called for natural wooden stairs rather than cement.

The City should stick to the plans and commitments it has made and improve the ocean access at Calumet Park.

Outside the norm

The commercial district in La Jolla Shores has always been a quiet enclave of shops and restaurants that exist to serve the community within a village atmosphere. Small-scale development has been the norm and it is clear size does matter when it comes to a village.

The proposed Whitney Building on Avenida de la Playa is larger, taller, less landscaped and architecturally out of character with the surrounding La Jolla Shores atmosphere. It is outside the norm.

La Jolla Shores is a community developed with a fabric of common need and use. It has taken years of community input and struggle to obtain the current ambiance. The Whitney project is not cut from the same cloth and does not add to the village character. The Whitney Project creates a different feel and context and is more urban and metropolitan than the vicinity.

Following the business district west along Avenida De La Playa from the intersection at La Jolla Shores Drive to its termination at Camino Del Sol, there are 13 corner parcels. Currently, there are seven two-story structures and six one-story-or-less structures on these corner lots. The general configuration at the corners is a composition of low rising stepped back from the sidewalk edifice creating an open visual environment. The Whitney Project would be the first and only three-story element introduced into the setting. The height and bulk of the proposed building would create a direct contrast to the openness of the surrounding area corners.

The proposed design utilizes architecturally out of scale and context arches which are claimed as homage to the popular Irving Gill architecture. This is nothing more than an overused developer's gimmick. Poorly designed and executed imitations of Gill's empathetic designs exist around La Jolla, most created in an effort to influence and sway decision makers. This mimicry is more mockery than honor — Mr. Gill had more sense than to impose an out of context, over-sized structure on a tiny lot.

In the years to come, redevelopment will occur in La Jolla Shores. Now is the time to set the bar and create the scale on which future projects will be marked. To allow deviation from the village atmosphere today will sanction the destruction of the village ambience in the future. The permit approval being sought is a discretionary decision that should be based on the desires of the community to maintain the current neighborhood character. A simple concurrence with UBC or zoning code ordinances which do not take into account the discretion of the decision maker is not sufficient to grant approval. The decision maker must positively infer and affirm that the proposed project complies with section 1510.0101 of the La Jolla Shores Precise Plan.

Smell is coming from bird guano

The stench that people are smelling around La Casa beach in La Jolla is not coming from the harbor seals, it is coming from the bird guano on the rocks below the green shade hut above the east end of the beach.

Pelicans, cormorants, gulls of several species and pigeons all roost in this area. (I know exactly what harbor seals smell like, having studied more than one wild population at close range and having done rehab with them.)

Not once have I smelled the La Jolla harbor seals from the sidewalk area. I have certainly smelled the bird guano and also occasionally the fumes from the portable bathrooms near the lifeguard entrance.

No clear-cut policy

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) has no clear-cut or adequate policy and implementation of that policy in human-pinniped interactions on U.S. Beaches.

Let us simplify the issue by taking as an example the La Jolla coastline. For many years, pinnipeds have been using a 1.5-mile stretch of La Jolla coastline (beaches and rock formations) regularly, to haul out or to give birth to their pups. Are there sufficient, visible and easy to understand NOAA signs posted along the coastline to warn the public not to harm or harass pinnipeds? No there are not. The few signs that are posted at the Children's Pool (CP) seal rookery are completely invisible at night, and inadequate in giving the public an idea of what a "safe distance" from a pinniped is.

Moreover, is the NOAA office really enforcing the 1972 MMPA at CP seal rookery or at La Jolla Caves, where a small colony of sea lions are constantly harassed (flushed, poked, hit by rocks and even shot) despite numerous reports to your hotline? The answer, again, is negative.

Every year, unwary visitors pick up stranded baby seals (it happened this year, too) or sea lions without even realizing that touching marine mammals is illegal. There are no signs posted along the coast warning visitors or informing them what to do in case they encounter a marine mammal in distress.

You argue: "The reason that there does not need to be special provisions by local authorities is because human interaction with pinnipeds is already prohibited by the overarching federal legislation of the Marine Mammal Protection Act, which is NOAA's mandate for dealing with human-pinniped interactions."

How in the world is the general public supposed to know all that if there are no signs to warn and inform them?

The Congregational Church of La Jolla on Cave Street has evolved from a stern, Puritan background into a liberal-minded denomination with a simple form of worship. Now part of the United Church of Christ, the Congregational Church was the first to ordain women into the ministry, oppose slavery and openly ordain gay and lesbian ministers.

At one time, the Puritans didn't celebrate Easter or Christmas.

"Sunday was the Lord's day so it was like a weekly Easter," said pastor Sam Greening.

Parishioners are no longer Puritans and have since adopted mainstream customs.

Tonight, the church will commemorate Jesus' last supper with a light meal of bread, soup and fruit at 6:30 p.m. The pastor will read psalms foreshadowing the sacrifice and betrayal of Christ. The congregation will also take communion, consisting of bread and grape juice.

The pastor views the communion as spiritual, not physical, but welcomes parishioners to draw their own conclusions. In Greening's view, "the sacrament of the Lord's Supper does not bring Christ's body down to us; rather, the sacrament lifts our hearts and minds to Christ."

Later that evening, Greening will place a bare, wooden cross and a bucket of flowers on the lawn in front of the church for the community to decorate throughout the weekend. People are also welcome to bring flowers from their own garden.

Good Friday will be commemorated with a 45-minute service at noon.

Easter morning service is held at 10:30 a.m.

La Jolla Presbyterian Church offers an Easter morning service that leaves behind tradition entirely. A contemporary service is held in the Life Center building at 10 a.m. where there is no cross, no pulpit and no hymnals. Participants may grab a coffee and come dressed as they are.

"It's the informality that people appreciate, that there's more focus on worshipping God," said pastor Paul Cunningham.

A traditional service will be held in the sanctuary on tonight at 7 p.m. to commemorate Jesus' last supper, and communion will be taken. The service will end in darkness.

No Good Friday service is planned.

On Sunday, a traditional Easter service will also be held in the sanctuary at 7:30 a.m., 8:45 a.m. and 11 a.m.

"Easter reminds us in a very profound way how Christ came to live amongst us, the suffering he endured for us and the hope we have in him," Cunningham said.

Mary Star of the Sea on Girard Avenue has the most extensive plans for celebrating Holy Week.

Tonight, the church will hold its Maundy service from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Priests will wash the feet of parishioners as Jesus washed the feet of his disciples. The priest will bless the bread for parishioners to take home to share. After the priest has consecrated the bread, it will be placed in the tabernacle for the church to honor and guard.

"The bread is no longer bread but the body and blood of Christ," said Martin Magana, director for Hispanic ministries.

Good Friday is a day of fasting, beginning with prayer at 8 a.m. The church proceeds through Stations of the Cross, as seen through the eyes of Mary, at 1 p.m., with a Spanish service at 5 p.m.

A reading of the events leading up to Christ's death will follow at 2 p.m. in a ceremony called the Celebration of the Lord's Passion.

At 7:30 p.m., Catholics will show affection for Christ by kissing a crucifix in a ceremony accompanied by readings and a cappella singing.

Death will give way to life at the Saturday vigil, held from 8 to 11 p.m. The laity will enter the church carrying candles. The priest will announce three times, "Christ: Light of the world."

New converts to Catholicism will take their first communion and first baptism.

"It's a very high, happy, joyful time," Magana said.

On Easter morning, lilies will adorn the church and organza will be draped across the altar. Mass will be held at 7:30 a.m., 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and noon.

Tuxedo shop proudly wears 'Best of La Jolla' designation

By HILLARY SCHULER-JONES | VILLAGE NEWS

For the second year in a row, A Better Deal Designer Tuxedos and Suits, located at 369 Bird Rock Ave., has received a "Best of La Jolla" award in the Tuxedos and Suits category from the U.S. Commerce Association (USCA).

Each year, the USCA recognizes companies nationwide that "enhance the positive image of small business through service to their customers and community," according to a press release.

Owners Jerry and Janet Klein have been in the tuxedo business for more than 30 years, and they have spent half that time at their present location. Jerry said that the duo's personal attention to customers and control over their products sets their business apart from their competitors, which are primarily large chain stores.

"You don't need to make a dozen calls to get ahold of someone at our store — I answer the phone," Jerry said. "We are here six and seven days a week to make sure the store is operated as it should be and that our customers are pleased with our product."

Klein said that he has roughly 3,500 suits on site, and he makes sure that he and his employees have everything customers need to make their tuxedo rental experience enjoyable and convenient.

"We are a small business — we have one location here that is family-owned and operated," Jerry said. "We don't order from out of town, we have tailoring available here ... we are in control of our product, and that is unique. There is no possibility of our customers showing up [at an event] looking like yesterday's newspaper."

The Kleins take their status as a family business seriously, as they currently employ two of their grandchildren at the store. They are also actively involved with the community. Jerry is a founder of the Nice Guys Organization and a past president of the Bird Rock Community Council, and he and his wife frequently donate tuxedos and suits to local organizations for fundraisers and events.

"I came from humble beginnings in Chicago, where I was born and raised, and I believe that you get back what you give," Jerry said. "It is a very normal thing that you should do in life as you become successful. Part of the joy of having that success is that you can help people."

The USCA Web site states that the association conducts its own research and also relies on third-party information to choose companies for a "Best of Local Business" award; businesses do not apply for the program, and there is no voting process, which makes the award unique from other "best-of" distinctions, Klein said.

BUSINESSbriefs

Sports clubs merge

Two sports club on Fay Avenue merged into one March 21. The La Jolla Sports Club at 7825 Fay Ave. purchased Club La Jolla a few blocks away.

Nearly all the 500 members have transferred to the La Jolla Sports Club and the Club La Jolla property across from Jonathan's Market is available for rent.

The property owner, Gains Investment Trust, is marketing the 11,183-square-foot space to another health club, women's spa or restaurant.

Club La Jolla owner Gary Rubin said the buy-out was a win-win situation.

"It just made a lot of sense both from a business point of view and from a point of view of growth opportunity for my staff and myself, and a great opportunity for my members to get a nice upgrade," said Rubin, who owned Club La Jolla for 15 years and is now a stakeholder with the La Jolla Sports Club.

A trainer provides support during a workout routine at La Jolla Sports Club.

Nearly all the 500 Club La Jolla members — minus 5 percent — opted to continue their memberships at the La Jolla Sports Club, which now boasts 1,700 members.

La Jolla Sports Club is a larger facility than Club La Jolla with more sophisticated equipment, like cardio equipment with private TV screens, plus offers more group exercise classes, Rubin said.

In addition to the La Jolla Sports Club, San Diego Sports also owns the Sporting Club at Aventine on La Jolla Village Drive.

ClubXcite Launches nanny service

ClubXcite, a San Diego-based youth mentoring organization for children with special challenges, has launched a new nanny service that matches children who have behavioral, emotional or academic difficulties with nannies who have experience handling their unique needs.

The organization already provides mentoring and tutoring programs for children who have learning and developmental disabilities, social and emotional issues, mood disorders and other challenges. While the cost for those services ranges from $35 to $50 per hour, the nanny program is $20 an hour with a minimum of 20 hours per week.

Athletes from all over Southern California will compete at the Campus Rail Jam Tour on April 8 on the UCSD campus.

Rail Jam brings snow to UCSD

The third annual Campus Rail Jam Tour Mobilized by Cricket Wireless and Ford will stop at the University of California, San Diego campus April 8, bringing enough snow to build a 100-foot-long, 25-foot-tall ski and snowboard rail at the Sun God lawn.

Dozens of skiers and snowboarders will compete for cash and prizes, and attendees will be treated to DJ performances, mobile game stations and demonstration booths from participating action sports companies. Festivities begin at 5 p.m.

The urban snow sport competition is billed as "the first tour to take snowboarding and skiing off the slopes and into the hearts of college campuses." This year marks the second time that the tour has come to UCSD. Dan Genco, marketing director for Galvanic Design, the company that produces the tour, said organizers were impressed with the location last year, particularly because the campus has many student clubs devoted to snow sports.

"The students seem to really love the event ... it's just a really good festival-type vibe with the students there, and they have really solid student organizations," Genco said.

UCSD will be the only tour stop in California this year, Genco said, so the event will attract athletes from all over Southern California. While some of these athletes are professionals, Genco said that many of the riders "are on the cusp of blowing up."

UCSD is one of 10 stops the tour will make in eight states by the time it wraps this spring. Genco noted that at other tour stops, organizers truck in snow from area mountains, but at UCSD it was easier to create the snow on site. Several trucks will haul ice blocks to the event and a snow machine will spend the day grating the blocks and blowing the resulting snow onto the Sun God lawn to create the rail.

Joey Moreno, sophomore catcher at The Bishop's School, has a reputation for his quick reflexes and strong arm behind the plate. DON BALCH | Village News

Bishop's Moreno: a catch-all behind the plate

By LEE CORNELL | VILLAGE NEWS

If baseball is a game of stats, then the catcher's position is undoubtedly the most unheralded in the sport. The Bishop's School sophomore Joey Moreno is learning those humble qualities every day this season as the starting catcher for the varsity baseball team.

"Last year he stood out as a freshman because of his poise," Knights head coach Al Gomez said. "He doesn't get too high or too low, he has very strong leadership qualities and he doesn't get rattled in tense situations. As a result, he's made some big plays and gotten us out of some pretty tough situations."

Pitchers rack up strikeouts, victories and saves, but it's the receiver who helps make them look good. A called third strike can be the result of a firm snag without flinching, forcing the umpire to make a split-second decision.

"Some guys will lose you strikes by not catching it firmly," junior pitcher Kyle Gantz said. "But Joey's real firm catching it every time."

Moreno is in only his second year at The Bishop's School but he has already developed a reputation for his quick reflexes and strong arm behind the plate.

"He's the best at getting guys out trying to steal in our league, for sure," Gantz said.

Moreno grew up watching Jorge Posada play for the Yankees and picked up his favorite defensive play by studying the legendary catcher.

"I like throwing out guys backdoor when they're least expecting it, pick them off real quick," Moreno said.

Catchers have been labeled the quarterbacks on the defensive side of the baseball field. That comparison works well for Moreno since he has been the starting quarterback on the Knights varsity football team for the past two seasons. Despite the demands of taking snaps on the gridiron, Moreno has never lost sight of his catching duties.

"I try to be a leader on the field," he said. "I try to play my position the best I can and help out my team."

This year, Gomez is letting Moreno call most of the pitches throughout the games, a sure sign of his increasing confidence in the young catcher. Moreno's calm demeanor and quiet leadership have rubbed off on the team's pitching staff as well.

"It's really relaxing out there to be able to pitch my game and do my thing and know that my catcher always has my back," junior pitcher Estevan Gomez said. "I always feel comfortable when the other team gets hits or walks off me because I know Joey's back there."

Bishop's upcoming schedule

April 6 Bishop's vs. Escondido Charter at Spanos Field

April 8 Bishop's vs. The Army and Navy Academy at Spanos Field

"Jomo," as Moreno is affectionately known to his teammates, is making waves in and around the La Jolla community with his athletic prowess.

Unfortunately, Moreno suffered a serious ankle injury playing football in the fall. He is going through some pain and stiffness right now but it is only a matter of time until he gets back to top form.

"I'm not a full speed and I'm not 100 percent, but I'm still getting back," Moreno said. "So far it's been six months (since the injury) and I'm not sure when I'll be 100 percent. I'm just taking it day by day."

LJHS is packed with tennis talent

By LEE CORNELL | VILLAGE NEWS

La Jolla High School has racked up 42 CIF championships in boys tennis since 1955. As one can imagine, expectations are great for this juggernaut program that has won more titles in the sport than any other high school in California.

The Vikings have had amazing success in the past including reeling off 13 consecutive titles from 1970 to 1983 and most recently earning eight straight CIF trophies from 1999 to 2006.

After losing in the semifinals of the playoffs last season and claiming only one championship in the past three years, the Vikings are hungry to get back to their winning ways. Leading the charge this season is rookie head coach Matt Previdi. He comes all the way from Connecticut to take on this opportunity.

"The expectations are very high," Previdi said. "The support of the local community has been a little overwhelming to be honest. It's been exciting to see people in La Jolla treat tennis as a priority."

There has been talk of this year's team going undefeated but Previdi isn't only concerned with his team's play on the court. He is stressing to his players to work as hard as possible but also to remember to have fun.

"My goal is not to win a CIF championship or anything like that, it's really to see all these guys reach their potential"

Previdi said. "I think once we do that, winning at CIF is very realistic. If this team reaches its potential there really isn't any goal we can't accomplish this season because the amount of talent we have is pretty much unparalleled to any other team I've seen in my coaching days."

At such a prestigious school, just making the team can prove to be a challenge. As many as 30 boys were turned away this year because there simply was not enough room on the roster.

Junior Blake Cummins has been on the squad since his freshman year. When he was a young boy starting to play competitive tennis, he soon turned his thoughts to making the La Jolla High tennis team.

LJHS tennis upcoming schedule

April 6 LJHS at Cathedral

April 8 LJHS at Scripps

"When I was growing up, everyone knew how good of a legacy we had here," Cummins said. "By about sixth grade I knew I wanted to play for the La Jolla High tennis team."

Winning titles has become expected in the community, but this year's team is trying to put the hectic events of the end of the season out of its mind and focus on every match and every practice. Once the playoffs finally roll around in May, you can bet the Vikings will be looking to do some serious damage and ultimately win another championship.

Yoga center brings back Happy Back

By HILLARY SCHULER-JONES | VILLAGE NEWS

When Rachel Krentzman closed her Embody Yoga Therapy studio in Bird Rock this February, she knew that loyal followers would miss the unique Happy Back class she created, which incorporated movements and traction exercises that at times had students hanging upside down on a yoga wall. So, Krentzman teamed with Gerhard Gessner, owner of Prana Yoga Center in La Jolla, to continue offering the class to students.

Krentzman specializes in a form of yoga called Purna, which encompasses a wide range of yoga postures, as well as focusing on philosophy, nutrition and meditation, Krentzman said. The Happy Back class uses Purna yoga sequences that are designed to open the hips and lengthen the spine, and students use props like the yoga wall for better alignment and traction.

Krentzman started her career in physical therapy in 1996, and she was introduced to yoga by her sister several years ago. Yoga helped her relieve the pain she experienced as a result of scoliosis, she said. As she learned more about her yoga practice, she began to understand the benefits of combining yoga with physical therapy movements to not only alleviate back problems but also promote overall body health.

"We can all benefit from being upside down, 'unweighting' the spine and taking pressure off the disks," Krentzman said. "You don't have to have back problems at all. Everyone benefits, especially people who are active and tend to be tight; the people who tend to push themselves. It is a safe yoga for people with back problems and it's also a really good class for overall body health."

'Light and space' Quint Gallery opens Robert Irwin exhibit

By WILL BOWEN | VILLAGE NEWS

A large throng spilled out of the Quint Gallery into the alleyway at 7739 Drury Lane in La Jolla on March 19. The occasion was the opening of an installation or series of light sculptures by internationally-renowned artist Robert Irwin (b.1928) called "Works in Progress."

Irwin, a proponent of the "Light & Space" School of Art & Architecture, had installed five sets of long, colored neon or fluorescent lights vertically upon the walls of the gallery. A very hip and beautiful crowd mingled and conversed in the glow of colored lights of the display which bathed each room of the gallery in a different hue and feeling set. At first it did not seem like there was much to see art-wise but people were slowly reacting to the lighting effects.

Louis Chavez, a security guard remarked, "I am just an average Joe ... the lights bring me warmth and clarity, and bring a feeling of completion to myself."

Irwin is considered to be a master of subtlety and it takes a while to understand what he is doing with his work.

"At first I wasn't able to pay much attention to the lights but after a while of looking and talking to people I was able to look at the lights differently and realize that each piece reflects on the others," said Clare He, a viewer who was originally from Mainland China.

Admittedly, with all the attractive people on hand, it was easier for the eyes to be directed to people-watching rather than contemplating the artwork.

Brian Dick, a local community college art teacher captured it well when he said, "Robert Irwin is all about 'light and space,' so all the people here negate the experience somewhat."

Irwin was on hand for the event, wearing blue jeans, black windbreaker, tennis shoes and baseball cap. In addition to being an artist, Irwin is considered to be a "philosopher of seeing."

His maxim: "Seeing is savoring."

"I am trying to get people to perceive how they perceive ... my strength is that I have spent a lot of time working with my perceptual understanding," Irwin explained.

"To be an artist is not a matter of making paint-

March went out like a lamb when La Jolla Music Society continued the 2010 Frieman Family Piano Series with a luminous piano recital by Richard Goode on March 26 at Sherwood Auditorium. During a heady interview prior to the concert, Goode and composer/conductor Russell Steinberg discussed the repertoire, which comprised J.S.

Bach's Partita No. 4 in D Major, Franz Josef Haydn's Piano Sonata in B Minor, Johannes Brahms' Four Pieces for Piano, Opus 119, and Franz Schubert's Piano Sonata in B-flat Major.

Steinberg called it a monumental program, each piece a world. Goode said he originally planned to perform Chopin and then, because of the Music Society's focus on Chopin this year (played by other pianists and chamber groups), he was asked to play works of other composers.

Currently, Goode said, he's become entranced with the Haydn, which he finds the darkest and most surly Haydn he's encountered thus far. Adding to the challenge for all pianists is the fact that the score contains no dynamic markings.

"I call this 'the Bear,'" he said. "It's grumpy and demonic."

The work may be challenging and out of sorts compared to one's ideal of Haydn, but Goode made its performance sound like a piece of cake, even the devilish fourth movement. As for Brahms, Goode believes that the B Minor, which he played from memory, is the harbinger of the 20th century harmonically and tonally. He pointed out that Brahms always played tennis with a net, but his admirer, Arnold Schoenberg, did not. The Brahms is bittersweet in nature, alternately expansive, grandiose, passionate, poignant, poetic and melodic in the extreme.

The Bach Partita was sublimely played, and perhaps the Schubert, which closed the program, was the most enjoyable to those familiar with his (and Brahms') supreme vocal literature. Each of the four movements literally sings

Of Jewels and Bees

Starry, starry nights

with Vincent Andrunas

It was a glittery, sparkling late-March evening when Phyllis and John Parrish chaired the Jewels of San Diego gala, giving a big publicity boost to the host organization, The Arc of San Diego. Founded in 1951, Arc is the largest, most comprehensive nonprofit service provider for people with disabilities in San Diego County, empowering the disabled and their families by creating opportunities for them to achieve their individual goals within the community.

Despite its long history, Arc has kept a relatively low profile — but this gala, attended by 300 socially-prominent guests, has brought them to the fore. The top-class black-tie affair was announced with a bejeweled invitation and the very unusual touch of three billboards showing some of the beautiful and influential women behind it (Joye Blount, Jeanne Jones, Sandra Maas, Phyllis Parrish, Sandy Redman, and Sally Thornton), and the celebrity chefs contributing to the live auction (Jeffrey Strauss, Bernard Guillas and Jean-Michael Diot). John and Phyllis Parrish chaired, and Hon. Pete and Gayle Wilson lent their names as honorary chairs (but were unable to attend).

It all happened at the U.S. Grant, where stunning arrangements of large red roses topped the tables while guests savored a dinner featuring filet mignon and an exceptional seared salmon. A video detailed Arc's services, and proclamations from Mayor Jerry Sanders and County Supervisor Pam Slater-Price lauded the worthy organization and the event chairs. In spirited live-auction bidding, Joe and Chan Pike became the new owners of an adorable Multi-poo puppy. A custom-made dance floor bore the event name and hundreds of huge gemstones, and Society Beat's music kept it alive with dancers. Guests enjoyed a memorable evening and The Arc of San Diego gained some significant exposure.

The North Coast Repertory Theatre held its recent celebration in a somewhat more informal manner. It was the organization's 28th Annual Bee Benefit Gala — themed in connection with its July production of "The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee." The atmosphere was reminiscent of our adolescence (everywhere but the bar, that is).

Event invitations decreed "Dress Code: Semi-Formal — No baggy pants, exposed midriffs, or baseball caps."

"Principal" Phil Johnson patrolled the area in his gaudy prom wear (green and white plaid jacket and orange ruffled shirt trimmed in black), enforcing the dress code and ensuring that all the "kids" were behaving properly.

The event began outdoors at the theater's facility. There were bee things everywhere, including garden items, honey jars, and even bee watering cans, to which a real bee had taken a liking and wouldn't leave. (Turns out, a swarm of local bees happened upon the event and took up temporary residence in a nearby bush. Most left shortly, apparently dissatisfied with the pollen count.)

Student Body Presidents Julie Sarno and Dori Patterson ran the successful event, for which Jeff and Sheila Lipinsky were honorary chairs. After a live auction and surf and turf dinner in a big tent, elegant musical entertainment in the theater and an outdoor dessert buffet concluded the enjoyable evening.

The Arc of San Diego:

- 1 Standing: Lorraine Slack, John Whitney; seated: John and Sally Thornton
- 2 Doug Hoehn (Arc of SD board chair), Phyllis and John Parrish (event chairs) with county supervisors' proclamation
- 3 Jim and Ruth Mulvaney, Jim Mulvaney Jr., Lisa Norton

The North Coast Repertory Theatre:

- 4 Jay Sarno and Julie Sarno (event chair), David Ellenstein (NCRT artistic director), Sheila and Jeff Lipinsky (honorary chairs)
- 5 Leonard and Elaine Hirsch, Terri and Jonathan McMurtry, Judy and Allen Moffson (NCRT board president)

Ocean Experience Surf & Skate Camp

Ocean Experience offers boys and girls age 6 to 16 the most comprehensive surf and skate camps available. Since our first session in 1990, we have maintained the highest standards of instructional integrity, safety and supervision. Ocean Experience develops skills and confidence while empowering students to surf for life.

Campers spend the week in small groups with professional coaches, teachers and surfers receiving individual attention and instruction. Our staff/student ratio of 1:4 ensures safety and security allowing students to progress at their own rate and comfort level. Through surfing, our students learn oceanography, and water safety while gaining respect for the coastal environment. Friday afternoon BBQ and awards provide a unique closure to a week of exciting events and accomplishments. Our goal is for each camper to have a meaningful and memorable

Playtime at Claytime

Claytime Ceramics Camps offer a good balance of indoor and outdoor activities. Children begin their day with a walk by the tidepools (one block away from the studio), followed by warmup exercises at the studio.

On Mondays and Wednesdays we work on ceramic painting projects in which children learn ceramic painting techniques (color blending and use of puffy paints).

On Tuesdays and Thursdays the kids work on mosaic projects. Children create their own patterns, learn to apply adhesive and grout their own pieces.

On Fridays we include fabric painting or sketching or jewelry making.

And the week ends with an ice cream party in which the kids get to use the ice cream bowls they painted on Monday.

All supplies are included.

K9 PHYSICAL THERAPY/REHAB CUTTING EDGE K9 REHAB http:// www.cutingedgek9.com Cutting Edge K9 Rehab Has Been Featured On Local And National News, Radio And A Number Of Local Papers And Magazine Articles. Swimming is one of our strongest recommendations for most K9's. It is an ideal form of exercise for a number of reasons. Our rehab services offer assisted swimming in a warm water environment. The benefits are: • Non-weight-bearing (reducing stress on joints) • Facilitates full use of the front and hind legs vs. partial use as seen with underwater treadmills • Dogs are often able to actively swim although unable to move their legs on land (due to stroke/ spinal injury) • Allows manual techniques by therapist/ manual resistance to an affected limb • Swimming in a controlled environment is the safest way for clients to exercise. • Speeds recovery following injury/ surgery • Improves function and quality of life • Works reciprocal muscle groups throughout the session (helps correct muscle imbalances) • Reduces pain and inflammation • Reduces canine obesity thus decreasing the risk of other health-related problems • Increases strength, range of motion (ROM) and cardiovascular conditioning • Prevents overheating through proper water temperature • Increases tolerance for extended cardiovascular training • Decreases recovery time • Reduces post-exercise soreness • Provides good cross training for the competitive, athletic dog (619) 227-7802

CASE NUMBER:
37-2010-00151082-PR-PW-CTL
1. To all heir's, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of (specify all names by which the decedent was known): ELSE H. DURHAM
2. A Petition for Probate has been filed by: ROY DURHAM in the Superior Court of California, County of : SAN DIEGO
3. The Petition for Probate requests that : ROY DURHAM be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
4. The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
5. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estate Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
6. A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:
a. Date: APR 15, 2010 Time: 9:00 A.M. Dept: PC -1 b. Address of court SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO, 1409 Fourth Ave. Third Floor, San Diego, CA. 92101 Central Division, Probate Court, Madge Bradley Bldg.
7. If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
8. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
9. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. 10. Petitioner: ROY DURHAM, P.O. Box 671, La Jolla, CA. 92038

YOU ARE BEING SUED BY PLAINTIFF: (LO ESTA DEMANDANDO EL DEMANDANTE)
JUDITH O'REILLY, an individual

NOTICE! You have been sued. The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond within 30 days. Read the information below.
You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the
California Courts online Self-Help Center
(www.courtinfo.ca.gov selfhelp), your county library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court. There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the
California Courts Online Self-Help Center

Save It Forward at SuperCamp

You've probably heard the term "pay it forward." When you enroll your middle school or high school student in SuperCamp this summer you can "Save it Forward."

Parents who enroll their kids in a SuperCamp summer enrichment program improve the chances that they'll go to college and receive a scholarship. In a recent study of college-age SuperCamp graduates 77 percent reported they went directly into a four-year college, compared to the national average of 46 percent of high school graduates.

Even more impressive, 41 percent of SuperCamp grads reported receiving some scholarship money and an incredible 57 percent of them indicated they received over $10,000.

Is college in your kids' future? How about a college scholarship? If your answers are "yes" and "I hope so", then you should look into SuperCamp for this summer.

SuperCamp's 7- and 10-day sessions are held at such great schools as Stanford, UCLA, Brown and Cal State San Marcos.

Visit www.SuperCamp.com to view videos and learn more.

SUMMER CAMPS

Junior Theatre

Come experience the magic of theatre arts! Spend the summer learning music, dance and acting skills with San Diego's premiere theatre for youth. Junior Theatre camp faculty are artists who hold degrees in the arts and education. Three locations to choose from! Balboa Park is a wonderful setting that includes a supervised lunch period each day near the Botanical Gardens, where campers participate in games and tournaments. We are proud to offer camps at our La Jolla YMCA Firehouse location and at the Women's Club in Chula Vista. Students, ages eight and above, who have enrolled in camp are eligible to audition for Disney's My Son Pinocchio and Fame. JuniorTheatre.com (619) 239-1311
