Freedivers do it 'au naturel'

Students in Mark Lozano's Jan. 30 freediving course make their way into the water at La Jolla Shores to practice their technique of holding their breath and descending head first. Lozano teaches his students to always dive within reach of a partner, because loss of motor control and blackouts are always possible.

By KENDRA HARTMANN | VILLAGE NEWS

Mark Lozano's students all have different reasons for wanting to learn how to freedive. Some of them want a new hobby, some want to get some exercise and some want to dive for lobsters. But all understand the importance of safety, because Lozano makes it clear that the only way to pass his course is to know the right way to do the sport.

"Freediving can be compared to driving a car," he said during a recent Level 1 training course at La Jolla Shores. "If you get into a car with absolutely no training, no practice and no license, it's likely you're going to get into an accident."

Lozano has been teaching the sport, in which divers hold their breath and take short dives without a tank, through his company, Lozano's Freediving Instruction, since 2009. He said the majority of instruction in his Level 1, 2 and 3 courses is focused on the safest way to engage in the sport. Popularized by the 1988 Luc Besson movie "The Big Blue," the sport has often garnered criticism because of fatal accidents involving freedivers. Last October, San Diegan Luke Ausdemore died while freediving for lobster in Mission Bay. Lozano said the only reason for such a tragic accident is not following the No. 1 rule: always be within an arm's reach of a diving partner.

"Like with most things, freediving is 10 percent physical and 90 percent mental," he said. "You have to know the risks and know how to deal with them. Blackouts

The SeaWorld Animal Rescue and Rehab Program rescued an abandoned and sick harbor seal pup from the Children's Pool in La Jolla on Feb. 17.

"This animal had been on the beach and didn't seem to have mom anywhere around," said Kelly Terry, a SeaWorld public relations manager.

After keeping a close eye on the struggling pup, rescuers decided to go in and take the seal back to SeaWorld for testing.

"He was in OK body condition but he was definitely dehydrated and he hadn't nursed in a while," said Dr. Hendrik Nollens, a SeaWorld staff veterinarian. "His initial blood work showed he had a very acute infection. His parameters came back pretty degenerate."

This time of year marks the beginning of pupping season and it's not uncommon for baby seals to get separated from their

Jessica Aszodi

• Jessica Aszodi, 24, of La Jolla was the first-place winner in the vocal category of the Jan. 29 La Jolla Symphony & Chorus (LJS&C) Young Artists Competition. The soprano is a graduate student of music at the University of California, San Diego and recent transplant from Australia, where she has performed as a soloist with the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra, Royal Melbourne Philharmonic Orchestra and Victorian Opera, among others.

"It is wonderful for me to have this opportunity to get involved with the La Jolla Symphony, as it is my first connection to a musical organization beyond UCSD here in the states," said Aszodi. "I think it's really important to put down roots in the wider community when one lives in a place. It helps establish a feeling of home."

Winners also include La Jolla horn player Nicolee Kuester, 23, who was awarded first place in the instrumental category. Kuester is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory in Ohio and now studies music at UCSD on a full-tuition graduate fellowship.

First-place winners received an award of $1,500 each, along with an opportunity to perform as a soloist with the LJS&C on a future concert season.

Second place in the instrumental category went to clarinet player Curt Miller, 23, of La Jolla.

Michael A. Marletta, Ph.D.

• Renowned biochemist Michael A. Marletta, Ph.D., was recently named the next president of The Scripps Research Institute. He will succeed President Richard A. Lerner, M.D., who has led the institution for 25 years.

Marletta has held many titles: former chemistry department chair, co-director of the chemical biology graduate program, Aldo DeBenedictis Distinguished Professor of Chemistry and professor of biochemistry in the molecular and cell biology department at the University of California (UC), Berkeley. He will join the Scripps Research faculty on July 1 and take on the seat of president and CEO on Jan. 1.

"We are thrilled Michael is assuming this important role," said Dick Gephardt, president and CEO of Gephardt Government Affairs and lead trustee of the Scripps Research Board of Trustees. "We are confident Michael's leadership and vision will ensure the Institute's continued preeminence in biomedical research and graduate education."

Like the Scripps Research Institute as a whole, Marletta — a former recipient of the prestigious MacArthur Fellowship — has focused his research on the intersection of chemistry and biology. He is acknowledged as a pioneer in discovering the role of nitric oxide, a critical player in communication between cells.

Melani Pheasant, a hair stylist at Haute Heads salon, located at 7760 Fay Ave Suite S, had an unusual but heartwarming client experience on Feb. 15. Brandon Hales, a fifth-grader at Dana Elementary School in Point Loma, came to her to have his long, blonde locks cut off to be donated to Locks of Love, a nonprofit that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children suffering from long-term medical hair loss.

Hales said he got teased and mistaken for a girl for more than a year, so he happily parted with his tresses, which Pheasant tied into braids and snipped off to ship off to the organization.

"Some kids have cancer and other people may make fun of them because they don't have any hair, so I want to help with that," said Hales, who grew his hair specifically for this cause.

Pheasant was recommended to Hales' mom,

Jay Jay, who said she was delighted when the stylist had an opening at her La Jolla shop.

"It's incredible," said Pheasant of Hales' persistence in growing his hair longer than 10 inches, the minimum donation length. "We should all be inspired."

Students play to pay for programs

By CLAIRE HARLIN | VILLAGE NEWS

Funding cuts to educational programs have many worried, and local visual and performing arts (VAPA) students have decided to do something about it.

In an effort to raise funds for the La Jolla High School (LJHS) and Muirlands Middle School music programs, the LJHS band joined forces with the Harvard Cookie Girl Cooking School, located at 7441 Girard Ave., to put on a community tea party and brunch on Feb. 13. Almost $2,000 was raised to support VAPA programs.

"The recent budget proposal that passed for the 2011-2012 school year scales down the central VAPA office dramatically and is now burdening schools with the cost of maintaining their art programs, where the central office took care of them in the past," said Michael Fiedler, an instrumental music teacher at LJHS and Muirlands Middle School. "There are a lot of things that we as a program potentially stand to lose."

Fiedler said there are more fundraisers tentatively planned for the remainder of the school year.

"We are out to show everyone that the community of La Jolla supports its art programs and is committed to a society where art and music education is encouraged, not undervalued," Fiedler said.

Student musicians provided the entertainment for the Feb. 13 event, which coincided with the La Jolla Open Aire Market. Harvard Cookie Girl provided fresh baked goods and beverages. About 200 people showed up.

and loss of motor control are possible, so it's important to know how to do things right."

Jeff Griffiths, one of Lozano's Level 1 students, added, "It's only dangerous to those who don't know the dangers."

Lozano said freediving has become more popular recently in conjunction with the green movement, because it is generally regarded as diving "au naturel." The bubbles created by breathing from a compressed air tank often scare fish, he said, so freedivers sometimes have a greater chance of observing marine life than scuba divers.

For some of Lozano's students, the idea of participating in a sport sometimes considered extreme was the impetus for them to get out of bed early on a Sunday morning and head into the 58-degree water.

"I wanted to push myself and see what my capabilities were," Griffiths said.

His classmate, Ryan Gierlych, said the prospect of getting closer to lobsters than he might be able to with a traditional scuba tank was the only incentive required.

"Lobster tacos," he said. "What more motivation do you need?"

Lozano's next freediving course in La Jolla is his Level 2 course, March 19-22. Students are not required to pass the Level 1 course before participating in Level 2. For more information, email Lozano at mark@freedivinginstructors.com.

Mark Lozano drags equipment into the surf on Jan. 30. His students practiced "saving" him in mock rescue situations. Lozano said learning how to freedive safely is "mostly psychological." Divers have to learn what their limits are and how long they can hold their breath. DON BALCH | Village News

Public, planners given voice on beach-advertising concept

By SEBASTIAN RUIZ | VILLAGE NEWS

Mayor Jerry Sanders continues to float the idea of selling advertising space on lifeguard towers and other beach properties to help generate municipal revenue during a time of fiscal crisis. City Councilmembers are now trying to gauge public opinion while awaiting feedback from various planning leaders before moving forward.

While some local planners say they wouldn't be against the idea, they stress the plan would have to be done right.

"If there's a very good plan, then [people] might go for it. But if it's in-your-face advertising, then it might be sunk," said Ocean Beach Planning Board Chairman Giovanni Ingolia.

City rules limit the scope of advertising on public property. Only 15 percent of any advertisement can be used for such things as a company logo, while at least 85 percent must be used for public-service messages. With eight lifeguard stations stretching between Ocean Beach, Mission Beach, Pacific Beach and La Jolla, any such proposal would have to go before the appropriate planning boards.

As of yet, no company has come forward with a proposal to move the idea forward, said Tony Manolatos, a spokesman for District 2 City Councilman Kevin Faulconer. Manolatos estimated that advertising could generate up to $500,000 per year for each lifeguard station, resulting in potentially $4 million each year for city coffers.

But Manolatos said money isn't the only consideration.

"Kevin [Faulconer] is not going to support it if the communities aren't behind it," Manolatos said.

District 1 City Councilwoman Sherri Lightner is also awaiting reaction from local groups, including the La Jolla Shores Association, La Jolla Parks and Beaches Committee and the La Jolla Community Planning Association, according to a statement from Lightner's office. Members of La Jolla planning groups have been invited to stakeholder's meetings with the Mayor's Office in recent weeks to hear ideas.

City officials said even with the promise of revenue, any proposals for advertising on public property must satisfy the needs and adhere to the identities of the individual communities.

Pacific Beach Planning Board Chairman John Shannon said beach advertising for restaurant bar chains in the community probably wouldn't garner much support. In a world where marketing and advertising saturate everyday life, he added, many may resent blatant ads.

"[The lure of] the beach is to feel you are escaping from all of that, and I don't think people will want advertising broadcast [on lifeguard stations and other city property]," Shannon said.

What do you think?

mothers for short periods of time. In this case, it became clear the mother wasn't coming back.

The male pup was so young that he still hasn't had enough time to learn how to survive on his own. For now, he's getting around-the-clock care, including bottle feeding, which he caught onto quickly.

"We'll gradually transition him to fish," Nollens said. "Once he has proven he can catch live fish and can maintain his weight and is fully off of medication then we return him [to the ocean]."

The pup weighed in at 16.5 pounds when he arrived at SeaWorld, about 1.5 pounds less than normal. In his first few days under care he gained 10 percent body fat, Nollens said.

SeaWorld officials in San Diego County rescue an average of 200 to 400 animals per year. They often work closely with lifeguards in monitoring animal safety situations along the coast.

Baby seals might look cute and cuddly but the public should not touch them under any circumstance, SeaWorld officials said. Seals can carry infectious diseases and human handling can potentially disrupt relationships within the pack.

If you think a marine mammal is in serious danger, call the stranded animal hotline at (800) 541-7325.

Bishop's celebrates a milestone with 100th birthday of former headmistress

By CLAIRE HARLIN | VILLAGE NEWS

More than 200 people, Bishop's alumnae and faculty as well as friends of Rosamond Loomis, attended a 100th birthday party for the former headmistress on Feb. 12, marking a major milestone in the school's 102-year history.

Bishop's spokeswoman Suzanne Weiner described the gathering, held on the school's campus, as "fantastic."

"The hall was full and Rosamond's energy was amazing," she said. "Rosamond was headmistress of Bishop's from 1953 to 1962, and most of the alumnae present were from these years — 'her girls,' as she calls them."

Rosamond shepherded Bishop's through a major transitional era, successfully managing a school that more than doubled in size from 140 students in her first year to 303 students in her last, according to the school's centennial history book.

"Our traditions are 102 years old and generations of families have attended and graduated from Bishop's," said Weiner. "We consider ourselves a family and families celebrate the good times — and birthdays."

Born on Valentine's Day in 1911, Loomis's mother told her St. Valentine gave her lots of love that she must give away — and she has her whole life.

Loomis served on an inter-racial committee at the age of

La Jollan brings together 'orphan' car owners

Several dozen "very special" vehicles were lined up Feb. 13 in the 7900 block of Girard Avenue for the Annual Orphan Cars and Handcrafted Vehicles Meet.

"By the time shops and eateries opened in the morning, hundreds of people crowded the sidewalks in a happy scene that was reminiscent/nostalgic for many La Jollans," wrote volunteer and local business owner Egon Kafka in an e-mail. "Encouragingly, a tangible boost was felt by many businesses all over the Village."

An orphan car is one that is no longer being made, and the event boasted a long list of very sought-after makes and models. La Jollan Howard Singer organized the event and said he plans to hold another event in the near future.

As spring rolls in, it's once again time for the Audubon Society's annual Bird Festival — and local bird fans are in luck because this year's fest features a couple La Jolla events.

The Birch Aquarium at Scripps has been added to the society's list of field trips, giving birders a behind-the-scenes tour of the aquarium, as well as a presentation on the North Pacific Gyre and the impact of ocean trash on marine life on March 4. Then, birders will descend the hill to observe birdlife at the Scripps campus, ending up at La Jolla Shores. From the Shores, the group will travel by bus to the Cave Store, then bird down the hill to the La Jolla Cove, Boomer, Shell Beach and the Children's Pool, ending up at La Jolla Rocky Shores.

In addition, Birch is co-sponsoring one of the Audubon Society's many pelagic birding boat trips on March 3. Birch personnel, including Director Nigella Hillgarth and Catie Fyfe, will be aboard helping guests spot and identify exotic pelagic birds, as well as marine mammals such as whales, dolphins, sea lions and harbor seals. The Birch's co-sponsor is Shearwater Journeys founder Debi Shearwater, known as the "Queen of Pelagic Birding."

As always, the Bird Festival will feature the Pacific Rocky Shores Trip on March 3, which will take place along the rocky shores of La Jolla (south of the Children's Pool). The leader will be Stan Walens, who has spent more than 30 years scanning La Jolla's waters and amassing extensive knowledge of birds found along the rocky shores.

"The San Diego Bird Festival has been a popular annual destination for birders for 15 years, and this new partnership with the Audubon California Assembly means that San Diego in March will be the place to be for bird and nature enthusiasts," said Chris Redfern, executive director of the San Diego Audubon Society. "If you care about birds — either as a recreational birder or as an environmentalist — you can't miss this event."

The festival's keynote speaker is Peter Harrison, a world authority on seabirds.

Several Sunday events are planned especially for kids, including a free exhibit of posters created by children to "Share the Shore" with endangered western snowy plovers. Other kids events on Sunday include a bird artwork workshop for $25, a free bird-calling workshop and the workshop "Birds & Youth: The Future of Conservation."

The festival's non-refundable registration fee is $20 per person (free for children 12 and under). Events prices vary, with some being free. Registration information and a schedule can be found at www.sandiegoaudubon.org/birdfest.htm or by calling (858) 273-7800.

But when breeding season starts, striking plumes and facial coloration appear. Right: A Brandt's cormorant cares for its chick at the La Jolla Cove. The parents share duties, taking turns attending the nest and fishing.

National Engineers Week hold competition in La Jolla

National Engineers Week, organized by a formal coalition of more than 100 professional societies, major corporations and government agencies, is making a stop in La Jolla on Feb. 26 for its MATHCOUNTS competition.

The competition is a national enrichment program that promotes middle school mathematics achievement through grassroots involvement in every U.S. state and territory. The MATHCOUNTS program has also received two White House citations as an outstanding private-sector initiative.

The competition will take place at the University of California, San Diego Center Lecture Hall (located at Gilman Drive and Library Walk) and organizers invite the public to come out and support San Diego's youth.

The National Engineers Week Foundation's goal is to increase understanding of and interest in engineering and technology careers among young students by promoting pre-college literacy in math and science.

Robber of La Jolla Chase bank gets 19 years in prison

A La Jolla bank robber was sentenced Feb. 17 to 19 years in prison and ordered to pay restitution to three banks, one being the La Jolla Chase Bank he held up in 2010.

Primitivo Martinez's term will run consecutively with a five-year prison term he recently received for another crime, said Deputy District Attorney Allison Worden.

Martinez, 51, had been on probation for a road-rage incident in East County, in which he assaulted a Marine. His probation was revoked when he committed the bank robberies.

Martinez, also known as Mario Bilba, robbed the bank on Villa La Jolla Drive on Aug. 30. He also admitted to holding up two other Chase Bank branches in Bonita and Scripps Ranch. He showed tellers a note which read "put money in bag, no red dye."

Court records say Martinez was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon in July, and he has other prior records for burglary, receiving stolen property and possession of illegal drugs. The plea form Martinez signed says the maximum sentence is 90 years, which is what the prosecutor asked for.

San Diego Superior Court Judge Theodore Weathers told Martinez when the man pleaded guilty that he would limit the prison sentence to no more than 19 years. Martinez was arrested Oct. 6 in the college area, and was given credit for already serving almost five months in jail.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Country Day falls to Francis Parker
Team clinches No. 2 seed in CIF playoffs

By ROB STONE | VILLAGE NEWS

Six-foot-five-inch junior Frankie Bamford scored 14 points, but it wasn't enough as the La Jolla Country Day (LJCD) Torreyes suffered a tough 55-53 loss to the eighth-ranked Francis Parker Lancers in a boys Coastal League basketball game played at LJCD on Feb. 18.

"Lately, we've been coming out kind of flat," said Country Day coach Ryan Meier. "We were like that again tonight."

Despite not being at full strength, the Torreyes (15-11 overall, 5-5 in the Coastal League) still jumped out to a quick 15-13 lead at the end of the first quarter behind the play of Bamford, six-foot-three-inch senior Ryan Watt, 6-foot-2-inch senior Alex Perez and 5-foot-10-inch senior Jake Hershfield.

"We didn't have any energy this evening," said Meier. "No energy at all."

In its defense, Country Day did muster up enough energy to go on a 9-4 run to close out the second quarter, knotting the contest up 27-27 at half-time.

Seven of the nine LJCD points came on free throws from the charity stripe by 6-foot-6-inch sophomore Ziad Damanhoury, 5-foot-five-inch senior Max Hershfield and 6-foot sophomore Sage Burmeister.

After the intermission, Francis Parker (19-7 overall, 9-1 in Coastal League play) outscored the Torreyes 17-11 to open up a 44-38 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

Down by two points in the final seconds of the fourth quarter, Country Day had a chance to tie it up, but a jump shot by Bamford didn't fall, sealing the victory for the Lancers.

Burmeister finished with 10 points for LJCD. Meanwhile, Francis Parker was led by a game-high 25 points from 6-foot junior guard Dalante Dunklin and 5-foot-10-inch sophomore guard Connor Polk added 11.

"Hopefully by the time the playoffs start, we'll have figured out how to win and play completely the opposite from the way we were tonight," said Meier. "Maybe we needed to get it out of our system. We don't want any part of playing the way we did this evening."

The second-seeded Torreyes will play host to the winner of the Guajome Park Academy-Imperial game in the CIF Division IV quarterfinal playoffs on Feb. 26.

Scores from other games:

Boys: The Bishop's School 64, Army-Navy Academy 63; Mission Bay 52, La Jolla 38; Scripps Ranch 55, University City 54

Girls: La Jolla Country Day 90, Francis Parker 24; The Bishop's School 78, Horizon 56; Mission Bay 75, La Jolla 21; University City 53, Scripps Ranch

BOYS SOCCER

Vikings head to playoffs despite loss

By LEE CORNELL | VILLAGE NEWS

The La Jolla High School boys soccer team continued its recent slide with a 5-0 loss to Cathedral Catholic High School on Feb. 17.

The Vikings (9-8-3 overall, 5-4-1 league) went on a tear from Dec. 11 through Feb. 2, going unbeaten in 11 games during that stretch. But they've dropped four regular season games since then, possibly heading into the playoffs with very little momentum.

"[St. Augustine] is probably one of the best teams in the county, and for us to beat them we need to have everyone playing as a team. Unfortunately, we didn't do that," said LJHS head coach Tony Bruce after the Vikings' 3-0 loss to St. Augustine on Feb. 15.

That game was scoreless early in the first half when Saints' forward Connor Keefe delivered a perfectly struck ball from 22 yards out to the top right corner of the net, giving his team a 1-0 lead.

In the second half, it was Keefe who came calling again. He gave St. Augustine a 2-0 cushion with his second tally of the contest.

Daniel Johnston all but ended any chance of a La Jolla comeback moments later when he scored what proved to be the game's final goal, giving the Saints an insurmountable 3-0 lead.

The Vikings stepped up the pressure toward the end of the match, developing several nice scoring chances, including a laser of a shot by Isaac Miselewicz that easily beat the Saints' keeper but rang off the crossbar.

LJHS hasn't had much time to bounce back from its recent slump. It's had to play a flurry of games to end the season and begin the CIF D-3 playoffs.

"You can't rest on your laurels. We're not good enough to do that," Bruce said. "We won (earlier in the season) by working hard, by being organized and by being focused. We've kind of lost our focus the second half of the season."

MUSTREAD

World-renowned guitar manufacturer Bob Taylor will be at Warwick's, located at 7812 Girard Ave., on March 3 at 7 p.m. to discuss and sign his new book, "Guitar Lessons: A Life's Journey Turning Passion into Business."

Taylor mixes the details of his experience as a tradesman and cofounder of Taylor Guitars, a world-famous acoustic and electric guitar manufacturer, with philosophical life lessons that have practical application for building a business. From the "a-ha" moment in junior high school that inspired his very first guitar, Taylor has been living the American dream, crafting products with his own hands and building a successful, sustainable business. In "Guitar Lessons," he shares the values that he lives by and that have provided the foundation for the company's success. The event is free with book purchase.

MUSTSEE

As part of "Fronteras," a festival of Chicano art, politics and theatre at the University of California, San Diego Art Gallery, the Patricia Rincon Dance Collective will present "Re-Remembering Fronteras" at 8 p.m. The presentation is a collaboration with video artists Paula Zacharias and Natalia Valerdi, along with dancers Keely Campbell, Kenna Crouch, Sarah Larson, Sammy Mitchell and Justin Viernes and will feature a dance performance and dance documentary about immigration. Both pieces are based on research and interviews conducted in central Mexico, Los Angeles and San Diego about immigration to the United States and various ideas about the American Dream. This project was funded in part by a grant from the University of California Institute for Research in the Arts, the UCSD Latino Studies Initiative, the San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture and the University Art Gallery.

FEBRUARY & MARCH
Spring Nights in Old Town

Every Night through Sunday in Feb. and March

All through February and March, the cool spring nights will warm up with live entertainment and vibrant performances bringing a festive evening atmosphere to Old Town San Diego State Historic Park.

Presented by Fiesta de Reyes, exciting shows take place every evening in February and March in the Fiesta de Reyes courtyard from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. With authentic outdoor furniture imported from Mexico, patio umbrellas and fire pits, the courtyard blends California history and modern flavor to create a festive ambience that will make everyone want to celebrate.

On Mondays, visitors can expect a historic drama presentation by actors who will reenact stories from 1850s. Tuesdays will be Potpourri Performance night with a variety of groups ranging from folkloric dancing to performing arts schools. On Wednesdays, the plaza will celebrate the Jalisco traditional dance of Folklorico and will feature folklorico troupes from all around San Diego County. On Thursday and Friday, live music will be performed by various Andean and Latin music groups, respectively. On Saturdays and Sundays, Los Rios will entertain the crowd with Mariachi Fusion music.

Aphrodisiacs, a dynamic duo, and an Austrian celebration

Starry, starry nights

with Vincent Andrunas

With 27 chapters across the United States and Canada (and now a new one in London), Les Dames D'Escoffier International (LDEI) is a worldwide philanthropic society of professional women who are leaders in the fields of food, fine beverages and hospitality. Their invitation-only membership is highly diversified, reflecting the multifaceted fields of contemporary gastronomy and sociability.

Shortly before Valentine's Day, LDEI's San Diego chapter — always striving to disseminate new knowledge and skills to its constituents — held a very special cooking class and luncheon for its members and guests at Macy's School of Cooking in Mission Valley. Titled "An Aphrodisiac Dinner for Your Valentine," the event tickets (available only to those over 21) were quickly gobbled up, leaving no unsold seats and barely any standing room. The audience was mostly women, and just a few men.

The guest presenters for this event were from La Jolla's Marine Room: Executive Chef Bernard Guillas (who teaches more conventional cooking classes at Macy's school thrice monthly) and his chef de cuisine, Ron Oliver. (Together, the pair authored the acclaimed "Flying Pans" cookbook, with recipes inspired by their travels to forty countries.) Their presentation showed that there's much more to preparing an aphrodisiac dinner such than just spiking the sauce with Viagra.

As the class began, the "students" were given a small plate of food samples and a glass of Prosecco. Further samples were distributed as each dish was prepared. The chefs instructed with clarity, authority, skill and a healthy dose of humor. Several LDEI members also contributed relevant information. Attendees learned that in various parts of the world, many diverse foods are considered to have aphrodisiac qualities, including artichokes, asparagus, cherries, chilies, chocolate, ginger, honey, seeds, vanilla and even tuna (at least in Japan). Everyone went home with concise recipes and a well-stuffed goodie bag. Event proceeds will support LDEI's culinary arts education programs.

Eight consecutive times, the mother and daughter team of Yolanda Walther-Meade and Yolanda S. Walther-Meade chaired the Dos Aguilas/Two Eagles binational gala at the San Diego Natural History Museum. At the ninth iteration of this event, held earlier this month, the "dynamic duo" (known collectively as "The Yolandas") was honored for outstanding service to the region, binational cooperation and the environment.

Led this year by co-chairs Eleanor Navarra and Marie Tahan Daniels, the event began with a VIP reception amid the museum's spectacular "All That Glitters" collection of gems and minerals. Delicious taste treats and libations from both sides of the border were available at food stations there, as well as upstairs in the third floor gallery (where a band played with great enthusiasm).

Later, Malashock Dance performed and a dinner was served (for those not already totally sated). A program — presented in both English and Spanish — celebrated the honorees, a live auction was held, and another high-energy band played for dancing. A reduced-price ticket admitted more partygoers at 10 p.m. to enjoy dancing and the sumptuous dessert buffet at the After-Party Soiree.

Mainly Mozart started off its 2011 Spotlight Series with a Feb. 11 concert at the Neurosciences Institute in La Jolla. It began with a pre-concert Austrian wine celebration (but a California Chardonnay was available for anyone who might find the Austrian white too dry for their taste). Complementing fruits and cheeses were also served. Guests seemed reluctant to end their socializing to enter the Institute's acoustically-superior auditorium, but once inside, they enjoyed an excellent performance. Violinist Stefan Jackiw and pianist Max Levinson, well-matched musicians who frequently perform together, gave masterful renditions of sonatas by Aaron Copeland, Richard Strauss and (of course) Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

La Jolla turns construction scraps into art

By WILL BOWEN | VILLAGE NEWS

During the day, India-born Mohan Sundaresan works around La Jolla, restoring and refinishing the interior of many fine houses. But when he comes home, after a short break, he goes out to his studio, located at 523 Genter St., and takes the same industrial building materials, like aluminum sheets, particle board, plexiglass, wood and paper, and transforms them with his true passion — art — until the wee hours of the night.

One of Mohan's specialties is grinding and polishing aluminum sheets by hand or with a Dremel rotary drill, creating swirling three-dimensional patterns and illusions, which are further touched up with automobile paint, a technique he learned from a five-year apprenticeship with Andreas Nottelmann in Marin County. Mohan also likes to paint abstract florals and geometric patterns on particle board, wood and poster board (which he wets and wrinkles), with acrylics.

Mohan forgoes brushes, preferring to paint with his hands and fingers.

Mohan Sundaresan works restoring homes by day, and transforms construction scraps into works such as this aluminum piece by night.

"I paint like a pig playing in a pool of mud," he said. "In India, we eat with our fingers. We basically do everything with our hands. So why not paint? It gives me more of a tactile connection with my medium."

Mohan draws the inspiration for his art from several sources, including his dachshund "Dizzie," who he walks daily at the Cove.

"Dizzie is my philosopher," said Mohan. "He believes he is part of everything and everything is a part of him. Dizzie inspires me to realize my

Big Oil takes on new meaning

By CLAIRE HARLIN | VILLAGE NEWS

Olive oil is all the craze these days. Besides its common uses in cooking — TV cook Rachel Ray is famous for sticking by her "EVOO" (extra virgin olive oil) — people have started treating their hair, nails and skin with it, and oil from olives is said to have once been used in medicines and ointments of the ancient Mediterranean. The Food and Drug Administration even proclaimed in 2004 that two tablespoons a day can prevent heart disease — the country's No. 1 cause of death.

Now the craze has come to La Jolla, with the opening of exclusive olive oil retailer We Olive, located at 1158 Prospect St.

The business endeavor started with owner and managing partner Frank Mercurio's passion for olive oil — he's Italian — mixed with his knowledge that California provides the perfect climate for producing that oil.

Maybe his medical knowledge also had something to do with the endeavor. We Olive is actually a side project for the Rancho Santa Fe resident, who is the chief scientific officer at San Diego-based drug developer BioTheryX.

Christine DeMates helps customers fill bottles of olive oil at the Feb. 17 opening event for We Olive.

CLAIRE HARLIN | Village News

But he said it's his wife, Ruth, who's the real oil scientist.

"She's the one who chooses all the oils and makes sure the ones we sell here are the best quality," Mercurio said.

This isn't Mercurio's first store

UCSD offers a spectacular 'Hedda'

By CHARLENE BALDRIDGE | VILLAGE NEWS

The University of California, San Diego Department of Theatre and Dance currently presents Henrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" as a showcase for student directors, designers and actors in its acclaimed, three-year master of fine arts program. After 130 years since its conception, the play remains enigmatic. Its two female protagonists, Hedda Gabler and Mrs. Elvsted, respectively played by Zoë Chao and Sara Garcia, represent the evolving status of women in society, making it even more poignant that the two literary types they are involved with, George Tesman (Kyle Anderson) and Eilert Lovborg (Hugo Medina) are rivals in the academic field of history.

When the play opens, Hedda and George have returned from an extended honeymoon abroad and are attempting to adjust to married life in the fishbowl townhouse provided by Tesman's Aunt Julia (Ngozi Anyanwu), who is concerned for her nephew, his bride and their marriage. Tesman is nerdy and distracted; and the beautiful and vain Hedda is bored, resentful and already not in

HOT PICK

Yoga on the cheap

The benefits of incorporating yoga in one's lifestyle are inarguable, but sometimes joining a studio can be pricey.

Three local yoga spots, however, are part of a promotion that offers 19 classes for $30.

It's called Passport to Prana, and it's a better deal than the usual $10- to $15-per-class price.

This is how it works: A $30 card bought from the website, www.passporttoprana.com, entitles interested yogis to one class at each of the 19 participating studios in and around San Diego. If one wants to join a studio after giving it a try, price options would vary, of course. But the deal at least lets those who practice yoga assess some of the many offerings around San Diego.

oneness. My father's words are also important to me. He taught me that at some point you have to teach yourself. You have to grow and evolve on your own."

Music is also important to Mohan. He listens to a number of artists while he paints: Beethoven, Rossini, Miles Davis, Neil Diamond, Paul Anka and Willie Nelson, to name a few. He said he is inspired by painters William Turner and Zao Wo-Ki.

Mohan calls his artwork "invitation to openness." His goal is to help people see beyond the norm, to see things from new and different vantage points, to see the patterns in nature, and to see how everything is interwoven. Mohan said his art work began as a hobby, then became a habit and a passion, and is today an obsession.

"I can't go a day without painting," he said. "It is such a release. I used to travel all over the world, but now I travel when I paint."

Mohan was born in 1945 in Bangalore, India, which he calls "the pensioners paradise" because so many of the British civil servants and military who wanted to remain in India bought homes and retired here. Mohan was raised in a large colonial estate surrounded by mango trees. His parents, though from the Hindu Brahmin class, converted to Christianity by way of the Danish Mission. Mohan's father was an aeronautical engineer who earned his degree as a young man at Tri State College in Indiana.

When Mohan was 20 years old, his father insisted that he go to England to work. After five years doing various jobs in London, his cousin invited him to Vienna, Austria, and taught him the fashion design business, in which he worked for 28 years. It was in the United States where Mohan met his American wife, Anna, and in the late 1990s they moved to La Jolla.

Steve Medoff is Mohan's best friend and also his agent. Medoff befriended Mohan during a restoration of Medoff's building on Prospect Street. Medoff, who is a semi-retired corporate broker, an art collector and an avid big-game fisherman, became fascinated by Mohan's artwork and decided he wanted to help promote him.

"I think Mohan is a fantastic artist and is La Jolla's best-kept secret. I want to help people get to know him and his work. He is an important cultural treasure for our area."

For further information, visit www.mohansundaresan.com, call Mohan at (858) 692-7397 or e-mail mohan@mohansundaresan.com. Medoff can be reached at sbmedoff@gmail.com or (760) 212-3771.

opening. There are 10 locations across the state — seven franchises, two corporate-owned stores and one affiliate store. Mercurio and Ruth own the Paso Robles and San Francisco stores and are partial owners and managing partners of the new La Jolla location.

The La Jolla store is unique in that it will soon feature small plates and a wine bar, which is currently in the licensing process, making it the only one of their location to serve alcohol.

We Olive customers can fill reusable, self-serve bottles with bulk oils of their choice, and they can also purchase high-end tapenades, mustards, pestos and balsamic vinegars.

Part of We Olive's mission is to educate consumers about California extra virgin olive oil, and each shop has an extensive tasting bar staffed by very helpful "oil specialists."

We Olive works closely with scientists at the University of California, Davis's Olive Center, a university/industry coalition that provides research and education to olive growers and processors. The center released a study in June that revealed 69 percent of imported oils boast an

"extra virgin" label, even though they are merely "virgin."

While this exposé may have been a surprise for many consumers, the concept was far from virgin for We Olive, whose products all bare a California Olive Oil Council stamp of approval, earned by strenuous testing and tasting.

For olive oil-inspired recipe ideas, from shortening-free cookies to roasted turkey to tomatillo salsa, visit www.weolive.com/blogs.

La Jolla Country Day School's (LJCDS) cast of "The World Goes 'Round" opened the Rotary Club of La Jolla's "Stars In Our Eyes 2011" at La Jolla High School's Parker Auditorium on Jan. 28. Its rendition of Kander and Ebb's "All That Jazz" (from "Chicago") will be featured in three full-length performances of "The World Goes 'Round," to which the community is invited. ## Life is subject of free student production

Country Day performance is open to the community

By LESLIE SIMON | SPECIAL TO THE VILLAGE NEWS

Compassion and comedy vie for center stage in La Jolla Country Day School's production of "The World Goes 'Round," with three performances open to the community on the evenings of Feb. 24, 25 and 26.

The subject is life itself — its dreams and despair, love and loss, troubles and triumphs.

On the 20th anniversary of its Broadway premier, "The World Goes 'Round" was selected to showcase the extensive talents of LJCDS' Upper School students involved in its drama, dance, musical theater and music departments. By featuring a surprisingly enchanting assemblage of 21 numbers by John Kander and Fred Ebb, an applauded team that collaborated for more than 40 years on shows for stage and screen (among them, "Chicago," "Cabaret," "Fosse," "Zorba," "New York, New York" and "Kiss of The Spider Woman"), the musical revue provokes staging by the student crew and allows for a multiplicity of student performers with lead roles to appear in the spotlight.

The audience will be treated to a collection of beloved standards like "All That Jazz" and "Money Money," juxtaposed with lesser-known gems such as the sultry, sassy "Arthur in the Afternoon" from "The Act," and a rendition of "How Lucky Can You Get!" from "Funny Lady."

Performances on Feb. 24 at 6:30 p.m. and Feb. 25 and 26 at 7 p.m. are open to the community at no charge, with open seating offered on a first-come, first-served basis. Early arrival is encouraged.

WHAT: La Jolla Country Day students' performance of "The World Goes 'Round'"

WHERE: Four Flowers Theater at La Jolla Country Day School, 9490 Genesee Ave.

WHEN: Feb. 24 at 6:30 p.m. and Feb. 25 and 26 at 7 p.m.

HEDDA

love with him, if she ever was.

Two other men are interested in Hedda. First is the couple's old friend, the well-connected Judge Brack (Scott W. Patteson), who lusts after Hedda deliciously and suggests a triangle might ease her loneliness. The other is Hedda's former intimate, the intensely romantic Eilert Lovborg (Hugo Medina), whom she long ago banished at pistol point. Lovborg, an alcoholic who's been rehabilitated by their longtime friend, Mrs. Elvsted (Sara Garcia), is Tesman's academic rival. With Mrs. Elvsted's assistance, Lovborg has written a highly successful book and has the manuscript for an even more brilliant second, the publication of which will make it impossible for Tesman to succeed in their mutual field, sociological history. The conflicted Hedda sets about retribution. Her motives are subject to debate. In the end she destroys lives, including her own.

MFA director Anthony Luciano, utilizing Rolf G. Fjelde's translation, seems bent upon banishing the Nordic darkness and the oppressive patriarchy of the period and along with them Hedda's numerous and possible motivations. Maybe the babe is just pure-D nuts.

Luciano indulges his directorial vision principally through the design team. Kathryn Lieber creates a lofty and airy scenic framework, extending upwards from the playing platform, festooned with white sheer drapes. After the first act, a separate scenic island accommodates Hedda's retreat, where she keeps the piano that doesn't fit into the décor of the townhouse provided by Tesman's aunt. This island and the presence of an enormous goldfish tank at stage left may indicate Hedda's feeling of constriction. When one adds Alina Bokovikova's lovely costumes, especially for Chao, Wen-Ling's lighting and Omar Ramos' sound design, the sum is a spectacular, transparent physical production; all the rest, still rife with questions, as "Hedda" has been all these years.

"Hedda Gabler" continues at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Feb. 24 – 26, at the Mandell Weiss Forum of UCSD's La Jolla Playhouse. Tickets are $20, and discounts are available for affiliates, seniors and students. Information is available at <http://theatre.ucsd.edu> or (858) 534-4574.

Playhouse announces new musical, 'Finding Neverland'

By CLAIRE HARLIN | VILLAGE NEWS

La Jolla Playhouse can now boast three world premieres for its 2011/12 season, as the venue has announced the production of "Finding Neverland."

The play is based on the book by Allan Knee and scored by the Grey Gardens writing team of Scott Frankel (music) and Michael Korie (lyrics). "Finding Neverland" will be directed and choreographed by Tony Award-winner Rob Ashford, who also directed "Cry-Baby," and "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

"The addition of this new musical enhances our already astonishing season," said Playhouse artistic director Christopher Ashely. "We're delighted to bring back to the Playhouse Rob Ashford, one of the most sought-after directors on Broadway, as well as welcome this new, award-winning creative team to the Playhouse family."

The musical tells the story of the boys who inspired the literary masterpiece "Peter Pan." In "Finding Neverland," Scottish playwright J.M. Barrie is threatened by crippling writers block and he meets a woman, whose spirited young boys provide the inspiration he needs.

The play is based on the 2004 Academy Award-nominated film, which was adapted from librettist Allan Knee's play, "The Man Who Was Peter Pan."

Subscriptions to La Jolla Playhouse's 2011/12 season are available by calling (858) 550-1010 or by visiting lajollaplayhouse.org.

Guarding Against Elder Abuse Possibilities

What can a person do to minimize the risk of financial abuse or other elder abuse when you are looking for a caregiver in the home? The following list will give you ideas on what to be aware of. Talk to your mother or elderly relative about your concerns about protecting them from financial or any harm. Ask for their help, if they are capable. Remind them to not sign any document a caregiver might give to them without talking to you first. Visit them frequently or if that is not possible, hire a geriatric case manager to make unannounced visits. Keep all important documents in a safe deposit box. Let the bank know that a caregiver is in the home and ask them to monitor anything unusual. Monitor the checkbook, bank and credit card statements for expenditures that appear "fishy". Never provide an ATM P.I.N. to a caregiver or if you must, keep only a small balance in the account that you monitor.

Although we would always like to guarantee that our elder will never be at risk, hiring an insured and bonded home care agency is perhaps one of the best ways.

pet services

K9 PHYSICAL THERAPY/REHAB CUTTING EDGE K9 REHAB www.cuttingedgek9.com We have Been Featured On Local And National News, Radio And A Number Of Local Papers And Magazine Articles. Swimming is one of our strongest recommendations for most K9's. It is an ideal form of exercise for a number of reasons. We offer assisted swimming in a warm water environment. The benefits are: • Non-weight-bearing (reducing stress on joints) • Facilitates full use of the front and hind legs vs. partial use as seen with underwater treadmills • Dogs are often able to actively swim although unable to move their legs on land (due to stroke/ spinal injury) • Allows manual techniques by therapist/ manual resistance to an affected limb • Swimming in a controlled environment is the safest way for clients to exercise. • Speeds recovery following injury/ surgery • Improves function and quality of life • Works reciprocal muscle groups throughout the session (helps correct muscle imbalances) • Reduces pain and inflammation • Reduces canine obesity thus decreasing the risk of other health-related problems • Increases strength, range of motion and cardiovascular conditioning • Prevents overheating through proper water temp • Increases tolerance for extended cardiovascular training • Decreases recovery time • Reduces post-exercise soreness • Provides good cross training for the competitive, athletic dog (619) 272-7802
