La Jolla's star is reborn

By

When Dan Tarnoveanu was awarded the challenge of restoring the exterior mosaic on the west-facing wall of Mary Star of the Sea Catholic Church in June, he knew it would be a demanding job. The entire mosaic was covered with a layer of soot and dust and had suffered deterioration from the elements, as well as having undergone what Tarnoveanu called "inappropriate past repairs." Cracks and large gaps between tiles were visible where the tesserae (mosaic tiles) had been hastily arranged in a haphazard manner. Worst of all, the mortar originally used to adhere the tiles to the wall was a pure Portland cement — not the special modified lime mortar traditionally used in Roman and Byzantine mosaics.

Tarnoveanu soon discovered the task would prove more difficult than he had anticipated. Upon closer inspection, he realized the Portland cement, which crumbles over time, had attributed to the deterioration ("The old tiles were crumbling because of the type of cement used and the exposure to the sea air," he said) and that large portions of the mosaic "puzzle" hadn't been arranged correctly — meaning the restoration, if it was to be done correctly, would require a lot of attention to minute detail.

"The amount of disintegrated tesserae was almost double than predicted through visual investigation and photo documentation," he said. "Plus, the gaps between the parts of the mural that were not put together correctly were larger and much more numerous than anticipated."

The mosaic was erected in 1962, a replica of the original fresco titled "Our Lady, Star of the Sea" by prominent Mexican artist Alfre-

Seuss the great celebrates 108

By KENDRA HARTMANN | VILLAGE NEWS

Theodor Seuss Geisel, better known as Dr. Seuss — that ubiquitous purveyor of children's literature and one of La Jolla's best-loved claims to fame — would be turning 108 years old on March 2. Though he died in 1991, his legacy lives on through his timeless books (and the growing number of movies being adapted from them, including "The Lorax," set to release on his birthday), his art and, at least locally, a number of buildings that bear his name. In honor of the great rhyming master, the La Jolla Village News spoke with his wife, Audrey Geisel, about life with Dr. Seuss.

La Jolla Village News: How did you meet Theodor Geisel?

Audrey Geisel: We met on a whaling boat. It got rather rocky and unsteady. I was pitched in his direction and we collided. That was the beginning.

LJVN: What was your role in his professional life? Were you involved in the books at all?

AG: I was very involved in the books, particularly in the color choices. It was always his book, but I was there as kind of a collaborator.

LJVN: "The Lorax" is now coming out. Have you seen it?

AG: Oh, yes. We went up and saw [the premier] and it's quite good. We approve it.

LJVN: Were you consulted at all on the movie?

AG: Yes, the [producers] came down and we met here. I know [producer] Chris Meledandri real well, so there was a collaboration. It's a nice movie.

LJVN: "The Lorax" focuses on environmental concerns. Was that a topic Dr. Seuss felt strongly about?

Art offers glimpse of the future

By KENDRA HARTMANN | VILLAGE NEWS

Colosseum Fine Arts sees the future — of art, that is. The art gallery, located at 7946 Ivanhoe Ave., is bringing a series of exhibitions to La Jolla, bridging the seaside community with a distant neighbor — and an immersing force in the art world — across the Pacific: China.

"China's government may not have always been receptive to art, but it's opening up now," said gallery president Floyd Elmore. "Artists have traditionally been guarded by the powers that be, and expression has not always been what the communist party was about. [Art] used to be very state sponsored, but it's different now. It's an amazing time period to be involved in this."

Between now and August, Colosseum will open five different exhibits showcasing different Chinese contemporary artists. The first show, opening with a reception on March 3, will be "The Future of the Future," with 11 works by the Beijing-based Liu Zhonghua. The exhibit, which will be on display throughout March, will follow Zhonghua's work back to 2008 — a series of paintings that depict elements of innocence like childhood and playfulness mixed with uncertainty for the future. Zhonghua will be present at the March 3 event to discuss his inspiration and life as an artist in a communist country.

"Some of these guys were the definition of a starving artist 10 years ago," Elmore said. "Now, they're experiencing a great level of success. The message behind it is so powerful. It's really flourishing."

Elmore said the gallery worked very closely with the artists and several curators to bring the exhibits to La Jolla — a feat in itself, he said.

"Some of this kind of art has been shown through a few traveling exhibitions or at a handful of galleries in the U.S., but you still really have to go out of your way to find this stuff," he said. "Unless you happen to end up actually in China or at one of those rare exhibitions, you have almost no way of seeing it."

One reason the artists are starting to experience the increase in publicity

Sushi chefs teach the fine art of delicious fare

By MARIKO LAMB | VILLAGE NEWS

Expert sushi chefs at Roppongi restaurant and sushi bar will share their valuable knowledge about the art of sushi making in a hands-on monthly “Saturday Sushi School,” complete with a live sushi demonstration, student preparation of their own hand-crafted rolls, and an exquisite three-course lunch with sake pairings to follow at the award-winning Asian fusion restaurant in the heart of La Jolla village.

Guests in the Saturday afternoon class, which starts March 3, will get the chance to dig their hands into delicate and fresh ingredients and transform them into a few of the edible works of art offered on the restaurant’s bold and flavorful menu, which combines the best of traditional Asian cuisine with a refined French-style delivery.

The class isn’t all work and no play, of course.

After indulging in their own, freshly-made California and spicy tuna rolls, guests will get to kick back and let the experts do the work as they are served an amuse bouche of spicy tuna on crispy wontons, a miso and sesame glazed salmon entree served with furikake rice cakes and cucumber shiso salsa, and green tea ice cream dessert for a sweet finish.

Each course of the meal will be complemented with refreshing sake pairings to sum up a uniquely delicious afternoon of fun learning and fine dining in an intimate, upscale setting inspired by the colorful nightlife district of Tokyo.

After completing the fun-filled course, students will receive a sushi rolling kit and certificate of completion signed by one of the award-winning sushi chefs at Roppongi.

The entire course, including the live demonstration, sushi preparation, three-course meal and sake pairing, is $25 per person plus tax and gratuity. Reservations are recommended.

Roppongi is located at 875 Prospect St. For more information or to sign up for the course, call (858) 551-5252. Saturday Sushi School will take place on the first Saturday of every month.

Gas prices

have been starting to give drivers anxiety, and prices don’t show signs of coming back down any time soon. According to a report by AAA and a study by the Lundberg Survey, San Diego motorists are paying some of the highest prices in the nation. By mid-week, prices averaged $4.32 a gallon for unleaded, up 23 cents from the previous week. A sampling of La Jolla gas stations Sunday showed the Mobil station on La Jolla Village Drive and the 76 station on Pearl Street as having some of the highest prices for petrol around. To get the latest on prices, visit www.sandiegogasprices.com.

Don’t Buy a Home Unless You’ve Read This Free Report

SAN DIEGO, A new report has just been released which identified the 6 most common and costly mistakes that home-buyers make before buying a home.

Mortgage regulations have changed significantly over the last few years, making your options wider than ever. Subtle changes in the way you approach mortgage shopping, and even small differences in the way you structure your mortgage, can cost or save you literally thousands of dollars and years of expense.

Whether you are about to buy your first home, or are planning to make a move to your next home, it is critical that you inform yourself about the factors involved before you buy. In answer to this issue, industry insiders have prepared a free special report entitled “6 Things You Must Know Before You Buy.”

Having the right information before hand can undoubtedly make a major difference in this critical negotiation.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report, call toll-free 1-800-896-3787 and enter 1004. You can call any time. 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Get your free special report NOW to find out what you need to know before you buy a home.

Bishop's and La Jolla duel it out for water polo finals

By DON BALCH | VILLAGE NEWS

The Bishop's School's girls' varsity water polo squad fought off a spirited effort by La Jolla High School and captured the San Diego CIF Div. III Championship by a 9-6 margin at Coggan Pool on Feb. 25. It was the 15th straight finals appearance for the Knights and their ninth title during that time. It was also a rematch of last year's teams, which Bishop's also won.

The Knights' Stanford-bound senior goalie Gabby Stone made 15 saves, including 11 in the second half to help secure the win. Freshman Hannah Carrillo scored four goals to lead the team with Jill Bushman adding two goals.

La Jolla was led by seniors Ariel Arcidiacono, Scarlett Hallahan and Sarah Young with two goals each, while sophomore goalie Lauren Silver stopped 12 shots in the net.

The match was tight in the first half with Arcidiacono staking La Jolla to a 4-3 lead, but Bishop's responded with quick, inside-scoring passes by Bushman and Carrillo to take a 5-4 half-time advantage.

"They are a very confident group and kept responding," said Knights' coach Doug Peabody after the match.

A half-court lob shot by Carrillo and an inside-scoring pass by Bushman were followed by Jessica Webster's lob into the corner net that gave Bishop's an 8-4 lead. When Stone stopped a five-meter penalty shot, the Knights were looking good.

La Jolla wouldn't quit, however. Silver blocked shots, Hallahan scored on her own rebound shot and Young drilled a goal past five Bishop's defenders after Stone had a rare exclusion foul and the Vikings drew to 9-6 before time ran out, leaving the Knights to celebrate.

The cross-town teams had qualified for the final with earlier, semi-final victories on Feb. 23, also at Coggan Pool. Second-seeded La Jolla defeated Cathedral Catholic 12-8 and top-seeded Bishop's beat Coronado 16-7 to set up the rematch.

LJHS celebrates 90 years on Nautilus St.

The Foundation of La Jolla High School will host "Nautilus, an Evening to Benefit La Jolla High School" on March 10 to celebrate the school's 90th year on Nautilus Street and to help raise much-needed funds for the high school at a time when public schools are in dire need of financial support.

"The fiscal difficulties we hear about daily have had a profound impact on education everywhere," said LJHS principal Dana Shelburne. "Fortunately, monies raised by the Foundation have helped us provide LJHS students with a quality education in a stable environment. We are deeply grateful for the ongoing generosity of the La Jolla educational community and want everyone to know these contributions make a real, tangible difference to the students and staff at La Jolla High."

The nautical-themed gala will feature cocktails and a silent auction starting at 6 p.m., dinner, dancing, live music and entertainment by NRG at 8 p.m., and a 50/50 opportunity drawing and live auction at 9 p.m.

Money raised at the event will help fund the availability of textbooks, critical supplies, course offerings, sports programs and essential maintenance and improvements to the school's physical plant.

Tickets for the evening fundraiser are $90 with sponsorship opportunities available up to $10,000.

The benefit will take place at the Hyatt Regency La Jolla at Aventine, 3777 La Jolla Village Drive. Attire for the event is "beach chic." For more information, visit www.ljhs.sandi.net/-foundation or call the foundation office at (858) 551-1250.

Grunion Bowl tests big smarts on tiny subjects

Two teams from La Jolla High School will compete against 16 other teams in the Grunion Bowl 2012 — a fast-paced academic bowl that focuses solely on ocean life and the marine environment — on March 3. The regional competition for the 15th annual National Ocean Science Bowl will be held at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography campus, during which teams will be competing in "Jeopardy"-style matches.

While grunions are pretty small in size, the Grunion Bowl is a pretty big deal to the 18 teams involved in the competition who look to move on to the national finals in Baltimore.

The bowl's theme for 2012 is "A Sea of Change: Evolution and Development." The theme embraces both the evolution of technologies and knowling] were actually jailed for different levels of expression," he said. "There's been a semi-open dialogue, but they have had to get the nod from those above about what's okay."

Since the government has eased up slightly, Elmore said, allowing cultural expression to make its way through and out of the country, there has been a "mad race with anything related to culture in China. Even things like Ming Dynasty vases that were sold off to foreigners are being purchased back en masse."

Still, though, the art is not only in demand because it's been hard to get. It's actually good, too. Elmore said Zhonghua's work combines Chinese writing and symbols with English, and in most of his works, which are relatively large at more than 5 feet tall, make use of uncommon media, like foil, creating an almost ethereal look at times, which Elmore called

"amazing."

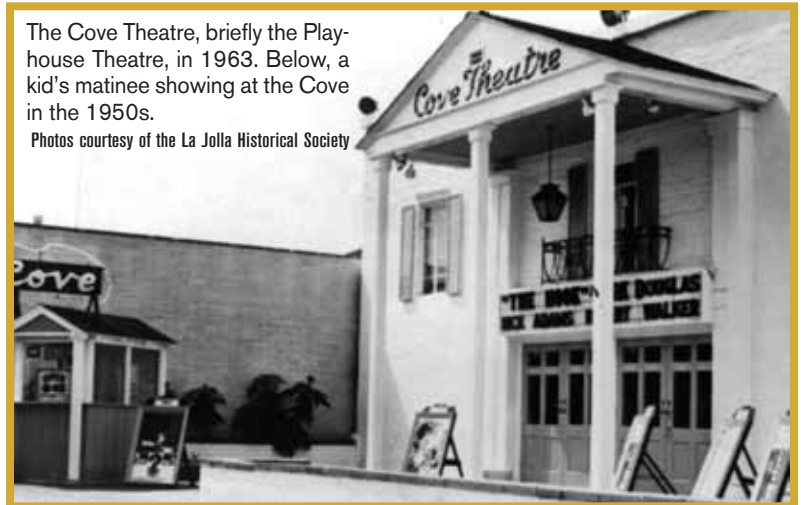

"Some of this art is so incredible, especially when you think about the fact that for many years, it was illegal," he said. "As culture changes and as the world changes, there's an east-meets-west dialogue happening, and to have it happening in La Jolla is just phenomenal."

"The Future of the Future" opens on March 3 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Colosseum Fine Arts, 7946 Ivanhoe Ave., #102. For more information, visit www.colosseumfinearts.com.

March 2, 1948

A new 650-seat movie theater, the Playhouse Theatre, opened in La Jolla on Girard Avenue. Many haven't heard of the Playhouse Theater — the name was changed to the Cove Theatre four months later.

There was already a movie theater in La Jolla — the Granada Theatre — at the corner of Girard and Wall streets. The owners of the Granada Theatre, which seated 712 people, bought the Playhouse Theatre in July 1948 and changed its name shortly after.

Spencer Wilson became the manager of the theater when it opened and continued his tenure as manager for many years. He had come to La Jolla in 1933 and was manager of the Granada Theater until it closed down in 1952 — but he continued to manage the Cove until his retirement in 1992, serving for nearly 60 years managing La Jolla's theaters. Many people who went to movies in La Jolla remember him fondly.

The last showing of a movie at the Cove was in January 2003, after which the owners decided not to renew the lease for a theater. The Cove Theater closed down for good after 55 years — the end of a nostalgic era in La Jolla history.

Local Realtor Makes News Joining the Fastest Growing International Real Estate Brand - Harcourts

Local Realtor, Justin Brennan just made waves when he was recruited to join Harcourts Prestige Properties, one of La Jolla's newest real estate offices. Harcourts is the 8th largest real estate brand in the world with over 12,000 agents in 800 offices spanning more than 10 countries around the world. Harcourts has strategically chosen San Diego County as its next market for expansion. Until Nov 2010 Harcourts had only operated internationally. Since entering the Irvine market in 2010, Harcourts has begun to dominate.

"We've studied the La Jolla and San Diego markets for several years now. Timing is critical. Every market we enter, we always hear the same thing... it's different here and you won't be able to dominate this market the way you have elsewhere. Fortunately for us, we have proven successful in very similar markets. Our people, systems and timing are vital to the success of our strategy." — Harcourts USA CEO Aaron Hodson

"To be in this market locally, you must market globally"

Justin Brennan joined Harcourts because they provide an amazing opportunity globally. "It is very important for my clients to know that their home is exposed internationally in a way no other company has attempted before. Harcourts technology is rad." The company is very unique and innovative in the way they break into markets. The traditional approach to marketing homes is changing with technology.

"Harcourts technology is rad."

— Justin Brennan

"We all buy and sell things in our lives with emotion and then we justify with logic. Facts tell, stories sell."

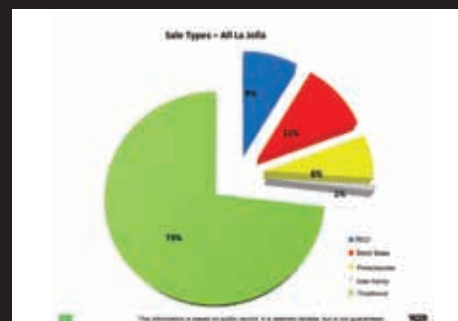

Justin has been a resident of La Jolla since 1997 when his father, Jim Brennan, moved the family into the La Jolla Shores neighborhood. "La Jolla is truly a remarkable place to live, work and play. I have the greatest job in the world — to help people." Over the years, the Brennan family has developed several luxury homes throughout La Jolla, Encinitas and Del Mar. As a licensed broker, general contractor and developer, Justin is able to help his clients in many different ways.

While many people get down and frustrated with this market, Justin sees enormous opportunity. "In moments of suffering, greatest is born."

"I strive to be the local expert. I want to be the best." Understanding market trends and interpreting it for clients is critical for their success. This is why Justin studies market data and shares it. It is not enough to just know basic market info; you need to know data specific to neighborhoods and your client's home. "The data is a big boring book, I provide the cliff notes."

Some examples of the data Justin analyzes for clients are shown Herein.

In closing, Justin Brennan's motto...

"Attitude is everything. Be kinder than necessary, for everyone you meet is fighting some kind of battle. Live simply, love generously, care deeply, speak kindly, and leave the rest to chance. Life isn't about waiting for the storm to pass. It's about learning to dance in the rain. I hope you dance."

We at the La Jolla Village News wish Justin and his team much success in the coming years!

La Jolla will be lending some of its local talent to the stages of San Diego this weekend in the productions of "Seussical the Musical!" and "Big River, the Adventures of Huckleberry Finn."

"Seussical the Musical!" a collection of Dr. Seuss' most famous stories and most popular characters, will feature two La Jolla students — Nick Aiello of La Jolla Elementary School will play Thing 2 and Asher Smith of Muirlands Middle School will be Yertle the Turtle. "Seussical" will have a two-week-end run beginning March 2 and closing March 10. Showings will be at 7 p.m. with additional matinee shows at 2 p.m. on March 4 and 10.

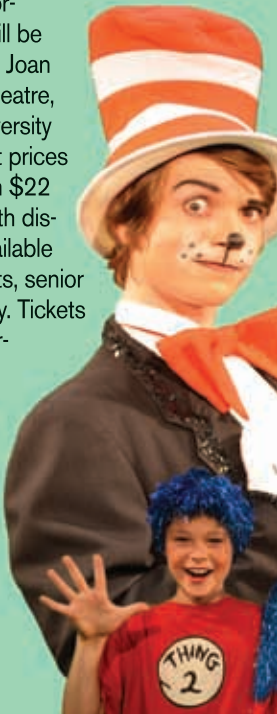

The shows will be held at Pacific Beach Middle School, located at 4676 Ingraham Drive. Tickets are $12 in advance at www.cytsandiego.org, or $15 at the door.

La Jolla will share its talent with another San Diego theater group in California Yuth Conservatory's production of Mark Twain's classic, "Big River, the Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." Bird Rock Elementary School student Colin Bamberger, Muirlands Middle School student Sydney Ross and La Jolla Cove resident Wendy Wang will all be part of the adventure down the mighty Mississippi.

The show will run from March 3-11. Showings will be at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Saturdays, 2 p.m. on Sundays and 7 p.m. Wednesday through Friday.

All performances will be held at the Joan B. Kroc Theatre, 6611 University Ave. Ticket prices range from $22 to $32, with discounts available for students, senior and military. Tickets can be purchased at www.cyctheatre.com, or by calling (858) 227-9427.

La Jolla's solar industry continues to impress

Maintaining San Diego's position as a green leader now comes with a boost in creating more jobs for the city. University City-based OneRoof Energy, a new solar energy company, announced on Feb. 22 with CleanTECH San Diego and Mayor Jerry Sanders the creation of more than 100 new green jobs for San Diego.

OneRoof Energy is the first U.S. residential solar company to work directly with roofers to sell and install its systems. Last year, the company received $50 million to launch its unique SolarSelect Lease program, which allows customers to install the new roofing systems for little money down, making solar rooftops more affordable. The monthly lease and a smaller energy bill combine to give OneRoof Energy a unique business model that makes solar rooftops more attainable for the average customer.

San Diego already has the highest use of residential solar power in any U.S. city, and a continued rising demand for solar power provides growth opportunities for solar companies.

At the press conference, Sanders praised OneRoof Energy's contribution to keeping San Diego a leader in the clean technology industry and for providing green jobs.

"With programs like SolarSelect," he said, "we'll continue to build our position as America's top solar city."

OneRoof Energy is looking to fill its newly created jobs this coming year. The company will be hiring positions in sales, customer service, operations and other key departments.

For more information, visit www.oneroofenergy.com. For information about CleanTECH San Diego, visit www.cleantechsandiego.org.

— Djani Schafer

Dan Tarnoveanu spent six months atop the scaffolding at Mary, Star of the Sea church getting up close and personal with the lady herself. He used a variety of tools to work in the tiny spaces between the 2-centimeter tiles, including dental tools normally used to scrape teeth.

do Ramos Martinez. The mosaic was assembled in Italy and shipped to the U.S. in "puzzle pieces," to be reassembled on the church's wall. The assembly would require painstaking attention to detail and tedious placement to assure the tiles were in the correct spot — which, as Tarnoveanu found out, did not exactly happen. When he started work on the mosaic in August, after more than two months of research, he discovered the excessive gaps between tiles — in some places as wide as a half-inch — had been filled in with cement and painted over with an oil-based paint.

Tarnoveanu initially hoped to finish the project in November, but after a few delays, that deadline was pushed back to December. Then, December came and went and the project continued to expand in scope. More gaps were found, more tiles were discovered to be crumbling and issues arose almost daily. After spending six months toiling away both in his studio and on a second-story platform outside the church, Tarnoveanu was able to tear down the scaffolding for the last time in late February.

"There were a lot of challenges we didn't know about before," he said. "But just remember, the restoration of Da Vinci's 'Last Supper' by Pinin Brambilla Barcillon, which was about two-thirds the size of this work, took 21 years to finish. The restoration process is very complex and can only be done by experts in the field. That's why I can't just hire anybody to assist me. Barcillon did the same thing; she decided to do most of the restoration herself."

Rev. Jim Rafferty, the church's ninth pastor since its founding in 1906 (the building itself was built in 1937), said he is happy with the rejuvenation of the "Star of the Sea" — Mary's nautical scriptural title, believed by fisherman to watch over all the people on the sea — but he is also quite pleased to have the project over with.

"Dan very painstakingly did everything he possibly could without taking the thing off the wall and putting it together like a jigsaw puzzle," he said. "And we're glad that it's done. It was inconvenient and messy, and the scope was larger than Dan originally ascertained, but I believe he did as thorough a job as he could."

The mosaic, which Tarnoveanu estimates to house about 250,000 tiles, should be in line to last quite a while as a result of the restoration.

"The modified lime mortar is better for exterior mosaics because, unlike the Portland cement, it actually gets harder when exposed to water," he said. "Almost one-eighth of the whole mosaic was damaged, and that was mostly due to water infiltration coming in contact with the cement. In fact, the use of Portland cement is forbidden in Europe in restoration of mosaics and frescoes."

The other challenge Tarnoveanu faced during his months inhabiting the scaffolding overlooking Girard Avenue was as inevitable as death and taxes: weather. It seemed almost every combination of atmospheric conditions made it more difficult — or impossible — for him to work. The bright sun reflecting off the tiles distorted the colors, forcing him to wait for a cloud to pass so he could correctly match the tesserae, some of which varied only slightly in color (the sun also made the lime mortar dry too fast). Anything more than a light drizzle, of course, made placing the 2-centimeter-by-1-centimeter tiles on the vertical surface precarious. As for illumination, Tarnoveanu said he tried every type of man-made light, but as soon as twilight rolled in, it became impossible to see variations in color and minuscule spaces between tiles. The only conditions that allowed him to work uninterrupted, it seemed, were daylight, dry and overcast.

In the end, though work lasted twice as long as anticipated, though the weather cooperated much less often than not and though the amount of deterioration was determined to be much broader than thought, Tarnoveanu has returned the "Star of the Sea" to beyond her original glory. After administering the finishing touches, Tarnoveanu washed the mosaic with a purifying turpentine, then applied a varnish that will protect against UV rays. And so, finally, Mary is ready once again to watch over and protect fisherman and all others who venture out to sea.

Starry, starry nights

La Jolla's Riford Center has been developing rapidly, with substantial facility improvements and programs that address a wide range of interests for adults aged at least 18 to 88. The center arranges trips to interesting locales (both local and distant), hosts a prestigious Distinguished Speaker series and holds classes on a wide variety of subjects.

One series of Riford classes is really much more like a monthly social event than a school. It's the cooking "classes" led by the witty and charming Urs Bauman, otherwise known as "le Chef," with the able (and personable) assistance of his wife Ursula. The pair met 25 years ago while both worked as flight atten-

AG: He cared about it, yes. The book's Truffula trees came from a trip to Africa. He looked up at one of the [local] trees, and said, "That's my tree. They've stolen my tree." So that's where that came from.

LJVN: Do you still sit down and read his books from time to time?

AG: Well, life goes on, so that doesn't really happen. But I do oversee everything and attend the movies and so forth.

LJVN: What would you say was his objective with his books? Was it the artistic endeavor or the learning aspect — teaching children — or both?

AG: He had a foot in many areas. But learning was definitely a part of it.

LJVN: What was your life like living with him? Did it change greatly after the two of you were married?

AG: It changed quite a deal, as I had never been with an author. I had been with someone who was in medicine before, so it was very different being with the kind of person he was.

LJVN: What was his sense of humor like?

AG: It was very dry, very wry. With friends, he was always wry and dry and very humorous.

LJVN: A lot of the plant-life around San Diego that looks like it's straight out of a Dr. Seuss book. Do you know if he was inspired by some of the flora here?

AG: Oh, he was inspired by everything he could use and make a part of his books and his world. So yes, it could be.

LJVN: Do you do anything to celebrate his birthday every year?

AG: Well, we never really celebrated anybody's birthday. They weren't such a big deal. But I will be there for the birthday occasions [at UCSD] and that sort of thing.

In honor of Dr. Seuss' 108th birthday, UC San Diego will celebrate with an annual party on March 2 starting at 11:50 a.m. at the foot of Geisel Library. Free punch and cake will be served while entertainment is provided by the Teeny Tiny Pit Orchestra playing songs from "The Cat in the Hat" songbook. An exhibit of materials from the Dr. Seuss Collection will also be on view through March 9 in Geisel Library.

Ask The Lawyer

Question: What are Guardianships and Conservatorships?

Answer: A Conservatorship is for adults over 18 that can no longer take care of themselves or their finances. They can be established for older adults and for developmentally disabled adults. A doctor has to declare them incompetent, which means that they are unable make their own decisions or are unable to resist undue influence.

A Guardianship is established when the parents are unable to care for a minor child or in the event they inherit funds or have a personal injury settlement, for example.

Both are court procedures that require a lot of time and paperwork to name another to take care of that person's estate and health care decisions. You want to avoid these if possible because they are time consuming and expensive. A judge ultimately will make decisions for the family. There is a conservatorship clinic in the San Diego Courts which helps those who want to attempt to do the paperwork for themselves.

I can guarantee you that the process will be long and frustrating, however if you use an attorney, it will be easier for you. Give me a call for a free 15 minute consultation about you and your family's needs.

FASHION:

Spring
is in the air

Denim in all colors – including bright ones – is one of the hottest trends this spring. The style, like these colored skinny jeans at The Gap at UTC, can be found in several La Jolla stores.

Spring is (almost) in the air and definitely in the stores, so it's time to take stock of the newest major trends.

First, let me say that I'm a huge believer in buying smart. Trends are important and refreshing, but not every trend will work for everybody. A solid wardrobe should have a good mix between trends and classic pieces, so pick a few that work for you and rock them.

Color is huge this spring, and there are so many to choose from: corals, pinks, blues, teals — even day glo is back en vogue. Yellow is being hailed as the new neutral, so make sure it has a place in your wardrobe.

A fun way to do color this season is with denim.

Jeans are coming in just about every color and from all designers (The Gap, Joe's Jeans and Paige Denim, to name a few). Pair them with a neutral top or be daring and add a bold color. For example: try mixing green denim with a yellow top.

White denim is perfect for spring too, keeping everything looking crisp and clean. Here's a quick tip when it comes to white denim: have the front pockets removed so there are no lumps, bumps or shadows — just a smooth finish.

Other denim obsessions this season are trouser and boyfriend styles. Trouser jeans give a more polished appearance and compliment most body types. They can be worn to work on Friday for a professional look or paired with a chic top and wedges for the weekend. Boyfriend jeans, meanwhile, are my go-to jeans. In a hurry to get kids to school? Feeling icky and don't want to put a lot of effort into your style? Throw on a sweater, shrug or T-shirt with boyfriend jeans and you are out the door with your style still in check.

If mere color is too tame and you want something more daring, try prints. Floral is everywhere this season — jeans, dresses, tops, skirts and even ballet flats — and what better time than spring to show off that feminine side?

Other prints to play with are stripes (spring/summer classic), polka dots, python and tribal. Mixing prints is very fashion-forward and something I'm seeing a lot of recently. Tory Burch's website (www.ToryBurch.com) gives tips on tackling this style statement. One tip: practice before you debut. It may be intimidating, but once you get it right you will be hooked and find yourself doing combinations you never dreamed of.

Fashion is about having fun and taking chances. There is no better feeling than walking out the door feeling confident, feminine and chic. The spring trends segment will continue next time when I will focus on shoes and accessories. In the meantime, I hope to see you around town looking your best. You never know if I will spot you and ask for your picture to showcase in my "I love your style" segment. Until next time, happy shopping!

MEET OUR NEWEST FASHION GURU!

“I have loved clothes for as long as I can remember! Growing up, we had a rule in my house: I could only wear one outfit per day, not three like I wanted to. My love of fashion took me to the University of Arizona in Tucson, where I received a bachelor's in merchandising and consumer studies. After graduating, I followed my other love, my husband, to Arkansas and learned the operational sides of many different businesses. Handbags and ready-to-wear never left my head or my heart, so when we moved back to La Jolla I took the retail plunge.

I had amazing opportunities and experiences to grow in my career. I have held many positions from manager, sales associate and personal stylist (my favorite). Working for companies like Tory Burch, Nordstrom, Coach and Saks Fifth Avenue cultivated my knowledge, fashion courage and relationships with designers — and the wardrobe perks were not bad, either.

I believe your fashion image can be very powerful, but it can also be intimidating in your closet or a fitting room if you don't know what you are doing. I would have no clue how to change the oil in my car but I could get your closet ready for seasons, events, or a change in career or lifestyle. I so look forward to writing this column and getting to know all of you. I would love to answer your fashion questions no matter how trivial or complex. Not sure if a trend is right for you, how you should mix prints, where you should splurge or save? Write me at heftsabrina@yahoo.com and I will be happy to share my knowledge and love of fashion.”

MUST HEAR: Todo Mundo

There are many musical trios in town, but none kick up quite the rhythmic frenzy of Todo Mundo. Led by Colombian-born guitarist Santiago Orozco, with percussionist Jake Sibley and a rotating cast of friends, the group's name translates as “the whole world” — and they do indeed take in a whole world of influences. Todo Mundo's sound includes a blend of flamenco, samba, reggae and salsa, all with a beat that's custom made for dancing, while its set is comprised of Orozco's music and choice covers such as a recasting of disco classic “I Will Survive.” Whether you are a fan of world music or not, Todo Mundo's mix of energetic performances and sweet South American melodies is just about irresistible.

dants and lived in their native Switzerland. After seeing much of the world, they decided La Jolla was the very best part of it, and moved here in 2002. Now, when they're not conducting cooking classes with wit and aplomb, Urs runs his small but successful catering business, offering everything from intimate gourmet dinners to full-service corporate events. Ursula, a skilled and talented painter, does faux finishing, trompe l'oeil and murals for interior designers and private clients.

The Riford's kitchen was designed with small, intimate cooking classes in mind, and (other than a minor design issue with the plumbing, now resolved) it's perfect for these events, which are held approximately monthly. The elevated, tiered seating assures everyone a fine view as Urs — with no small amount of humor — prepares each part of the multi-course dinner. Printed recipes minimize note taking, and the only "test" for this school is whether you can duplicate the dish yourself at home. But even for those who can't, Ursula makes sure the evening is a highly enjoyable success by serving every course to each attendee, and making sure their wine glasses never quite run dry. Last week, chef Urs showed how to make fettuccini with shrimp La Jolla; on March 22, he'll do a "fancy weekend dinner." No matter the menu, guests always enjoy an entertaining evening, a gourmet meal prepared before their eyes and the opportunity to learn how to recreate it themselves.

Sara O'Meara and Yvone Fedderson founded Childhelp in 1959 to help victims of child abuse and neglect. The founders have since received five consecutive Nobel Prize nominations, and their little group has become a leading national nonprofit organization whose efforts and resources are focused on treatment, prevention, and research.

Last week, the Childhelp Southern California Auxiliary (CSCA) masquerade ball, "Phantom," promised an evening of "Fantasy, Decadence and Charity" — rather an attractive combination (everybody wins!). The very well-dressed guests concealed their identities with ornate Venetian-style masks, slightly complicating their consumption of hors d'oeuvres and libations (if not their silent auction bidding) at the pre-dinner reception. Later, it would be revealed that the guests' masks were an allegory for the "mask of child abuse" behind which abused kids hide.

Once all were seated for dinner, emcee Sandi Newton of CBS-TV opened the program, which introduced honorary chairs Nasir and Mali Digius, 16-year Childhelp devotee Ron McMillan and guest speaker Jill Babb (Childhelp National Board VP). Jill revealed that child abuse occurs every 10 seconds in the U.S., and results in the deaths of more than five children each day. She presented the Founders' Award to honorees Richard and Arlene Esgate, long-time supporters of Childhelp and numerous San Diego area charitable and cultural causes. Both Esgates spoke eloquently of the importance of Childhelp's work.

Following a well-enjoyed dinner, a live auction offered several unusual items, including airfare and admission tickets for two to the famed Barrett-Jackson auto auction and the "Drive the Dream Gala" hosted by Childhelp and Barrett-Jackson. The evening ended with some very energetic dancing to the music of NRG (who had also played, though somewhat more sedately, during dinner.

When real estate needs matter, Tolerico is a go-to guy

By KEVIN Di CICCO

Here in Pacific Beach — and especially in La Jolla — we have some of the most expensive real estate in the world. It isn't hard to see why. Some of the homes and condos in our seaside town rank right up there with some of the best in the world.

"It's a very desirable locale with limited inventory," said longtime Pacific Beach resident and local real estate agent John Tolerico.

If you're serious about buying or selling your home in today's ever-changing market, then there's no one I would recommend more than John Tolerico and Prudential California Realty. I've known John since 1994 when he moved next to Buddy and me on Sapphire Street. John watched me shape Buddy's career and drive him all the way to the big screen from his second-floor condo. He found the hard work and dedication I put in everyday inspiring. He and I became good friends since we shared a passion for sports, especially when it came to football. On any given Sunday, during football season, John would sport his Steelers jersey and stay glued to the set rooting for his team.

Once we found our success, John was there to step in and help me find the perfect home. What I liked about John was how professional and knowledgeable he was about San Diego real estate. When I asked him where he got his training, he said, "I graduated from USC and majored in business entrepreneurship, but I guess you could say I was born in to it. You see, I come from a real estate family."

John said his mom has been a top producing Realtor in La Jolla for more than 25 years. What strikes me most about John is that he's down-to-earth, friendly, courteous and prompt. If you've dabbled in the real estate market here, you've probably run into some passive and aloof agents, well that's not John.

"I absolutely enjoy my career and giving the best possible service which is paramount in today's competitive market," he told me.

After waiting tables for 17 years, I can spot good customer service, and John Tolerico and all of his associates at Prudential La Jolla Realtors have it; and you can take that to the bank. John is a top producer in today's real estate market and lists some of the finest homes this area has to offer. So, whether you're buying or selling, no matter what your budget, John welcomes your business. John Tolerico makes a wonderful addition to our beautiful seaside town, our beloved Pacific Beach.

— Kevin Di Cicco is the owner of Buddy the dog, who is best known for his roles in the long string of "Air Bud" movies and his ball-playing skills showcased on popular television shows. For booking inquiries, contact www.airbud.com.

Getting Your Home Ready To Sell This Spring?

Experts Say: Start planning for it 60 to 90 days before you sell.
A recent interview with Jeffrey Middaugh of Coldwell Banker, revealed several helpful tips for anyone who is thinking of selling their San Diego County home.

Many Home Owners think they can't sell their home in today's real estate market. The fact is over 33,000 homes sold in San Diego County in 2011. The good news is you don't need to sell below market. With the right marketing plan you can sell at 2012 market prices.

One secrete to getting top dollar is list with an agent who will market your property to the entire world.

There's a free report available that shows you the things that buyers most look for in a home, and how to make your house irresistible to buyers. You'll learn;

- Why buyers love model homes and how to make your house show like one.
- A $2 designer's secret that could net you $5,000 to $10,000 more when you sell your home.
- How to sell your home without even putting it on the market.
- Three things you can do to get your house on a buyer's "must see" list.

Jeffrey has compiled a free report that can be mailed to you

How to Sell Your House for Top Dollar – Fast! This report details several specific ways to prepare your house for sale. Jeffrey says the information in this report is the secret to his 20 years of success in selling homes so quickly, and the reason he can guarantee to sell any house in less than 90 days.

To get a copy of this free report, How to Sell Your House for Top Dollar – Fast! Just call 888-611-8015, ext. 654, for a free 24 hour recorded message.

There's no cost or obligation and your report will be mailed today!
