For relief from the winter doldrums, remind and refresh yourself with the pleasures of recreational boating at the San Diego Sunroad Boat Show, which debuts on Thursday, Jan. 24 and continues through Sunday, Jan. 27. The location is at the east end of Harbor Island, at Sunroad Resort Marina, 955 Harbor Island Drive. Show hours are noon to 6 p.m. on Jan. 24 and 25, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Jan. 26 and 27.

This year's show, the 24th annual event and the fourth at Sunroad, boasts about 125 sail and powered vessels to explore and inspect — 25 percent more than last year.

"We're considered the largest sail display in Southern California, with new vessels from Jeanneau, Bénéteau, Hunter, Tartan and Catalina, as well as several catamarans from 38 to 51 feet," said show director Jim Behun, who doubles as the marina's general manager.

The in-the-water vessels are split about equally between sail and power offerings. Unlike many boat shows, the Sunroad show offers both new and brokerage, or used, boats from 35 feet up to the

Pat Rains to highlight show seminars

By NICOLE SOURS LARSON | THE BEACON

The author of four cruising guides to the waters of Mexico and Central America, published by Point Loma Publishing, capt. Pat Rains will anchor the San Diego Sunroad Boat Show's seminars this year. She will present a seminar entitled "Mexico Cruising 101 for Sail and Power," complete with handouts and a question-and-answer session on Jan. 26 and 27 at noon at the Sunroad pavilion.

Her presentation focuses on cruising destinations in Mexico, itineraries, security issues, necessary paperwork and cruising preparations.

Fate of OB Pier police trailer yet undecided

By MARIKO LAMB | THE BEACON

A police trailer that was once deemed a "temporary fix" to deter criminal activity in Ocean Beach has sat at the same location in the pier's parking lot for more than a decade. While some call the trailer a view-blocking blight to area residents, others say its function as a deterrent to crime has proven successful over the years, bolstering businesses and the safety of residents in the area.

When local property owner Vince Adame filed a complaint to the California Coastal Commission about a code violation — specifically that the trailer was never issued a coastal development permit (CDP) — debate flared about the police trailer's use, purpose and aesthetic appeal at its location by the sea.

According to police Lt. Natalie Stone, who was put in charge of handling the notice of violation, the trailer was installed in the parking lot after the Newport Avenue police substation closed in 1999 because of the city's financial duress.

least preventing — crime in the area surrounding the pier, which was notorious for vagrancies, drunkenness and criminal activity, the Ocean Beach MainStreet Association (OBMA) explored the option of placing a temporary police trailer in the pier parking lot for officers to use the facilities, write reports or take breaks while on patrol in the area. ## OB planners get creative to stimulate voter interest, draw new membership

By TONY DE GARATE | THE BEACON

To generate interest in annual elections, the Ocean Beach Planning Board (OBPB) is inviting Obeceans to write their very own advisory propositions on a matter of their choosing. All it takes is 35 signatures in the community, and your referendum — as long as it's not frivolous — will appear on the March 12 ballot.

It's one of the two novel touches — the other being online or absentee balloting — intended to create more buzz and increase participation on election day, when voters select seven of the 14 planning-board members for two-year terms.

Like the other 40-odd community planning groups holding annual elections in March, the OBPB can only make recommendations to the city regarding land-use and quality-of-life issues. But with a new mayor at City Hall who has stressed a renewed dedication to the neighborhoods, it could be an exciting time for democracy at the community level, said Landry Watson, who sits on the OBPB's Election Committee.

"These propositions will be advisory only — we can't make the city lower our taxes," Watson said. "But we're hoping we can

Overhaul in sight for crumbling South Mission Beach seawall

About 900 feet of Mission Beach's patchwork seawall and boardwalk will get a much-needed facelift thanks to a $700,000 flood-prevention grant from the state. The announcement was made formally by city and state officials this month.

A portion of Mission Beach's crumbling historic seawall and boardwalk will receive a desperately needed facelift to restore the deteriorated and patchwork concrete to its glory days of 88 years ago.

Thanks to a $700,000 state grant secured through a collaborative effort by city and state legislators, nearly 900 feet of the concrete wall and boardwalk adjacent to the iconic Belmont Park will be completely rebuilt late this year.

The grant, which was awarded by the California Department of Water Resources' Local Levee Assistance Program, will help offset the $2.4 million price tag for the project, which the City Council appropriated in its 2012 budget from capital improvement bonds for the design, permit process and repair of the most damaged portion of the 1925 seawall and boardwalk.

"This is one of the first things our visitors see, our wonderful and beautiful beaches," said Mayor Bob Filner during a Jan. 4 multi-party press conference in Mission Beach. "And it's one of the things our residents use. We literally have crumbling infrastructure. It's not a good message either to our citizens or our tourists, and we're going to be fixing this stuff as fast as we can."

In addition to addressing a public safety hazard for residents and tourists who use the boardwalk to jog, walk, bike or skate, repairs to the seawall will also protect the surrounding beach homes and businesses from flooding spawned by wrathful storms or high tidal surges emanating from the Pacific.

"This has been a problem for years," said District 2 City Councilman Kevin Faulconer, who has worked with the Mission Beach community on the issue over the last several years. "We've made some temporary patches, cut off some of the rebar that was falling down, but we knew that we had to have a permanent solution because this patchwork isn't going to get it done."

Faulconer, at the urging of the Mission Beach Town Council, helped kick-start the capital improvement project by spearheading the effort to approve funding for repairs to the historic seawall, an objective achieved in last year's budget as part of the city's $100 million infrastructure bond.

State Assemblywoman Toni Atkins led the effort on the state level to ensure the city's grant application got the proper review and was ultimately granted funds, ensuring the first phase of the city's repair project can now begin.

"It's really to imagine a more iconic place in San Diego; at the ocean, at the boardwalk in Mission Beach in the shadow of our Belmont Park roller coaster," said Atkins. "Last fall, all of America watched in horror as Superstorm Sandy destroyed other iconic boardwalks, homes and businesses along the East Coast, and with climate change and the rising sea level that comes with it, we know that it's just a matter of time until a major storm sweeps our coast and endangers our beachfront, which is so critical to our way of life in San Diego and to our local economy."

The design and permitting processes will begin late this year and construction is expected to begin in 2014.

Hundreds turn out in support of shooting victim, a PLHS alum

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Hundreds of members of the Peninsula community packed a local music venue on Jan. 19 in the second major fundraiser for shooting victim Will Barton.

Barton's father, Will, mother Marie Najera and stepfather R.J. Lonsdale were on hand along with family friends and supporters.

"This is just unbelievable," the senior Barton shouted over the music as he surveyed the jammed Humphreys Backstage Lounge.

Barton's 20-year-old son, a 2010 PLHS alum, was shot three times in the early morning hours of Oct. 29 as he walked to his dad's house after a late-night restaurant work shift. The shooter, a wanted criminal who mistook Barton for a police officer, was shot to death in a shootout with police on Halloween night in Barrio Logan.

Though the younger Barton was given less than a 1 percent chance of survival, Barton has watched his son fight through grave injuries to reach his current rehabilitation battle. One bullet remains lodged in his son's brain.

Three weeks in intensive care, multiple surgeries and the intense work of dozens of doctors and physical therapists has run up astronomical medical bills on Barton's insurance. Adding further stress, the insurance company has reportedly attempted to evict the younger Barton from the rehabilitation facility where he undergoes hours of daily work therapy while learning to walk again.

But on Jan. 19, the music of three different bands kept the energy level high inside the Shelter Island venue, as the six-hour event saw donors show up by the dozens from the moment doors opened.

A $10 donation was requested at the door by event organizer Rhonda Pitta and a crew of volunteers. Participants gingerly moved about the standing-room-only space, selling raffle tickets for items that were given away hourly during band breaks and changes.

In the facility's hallway, Pitta's helpers set up about three dozen donated items up for silent auction, including a one-week stay in a Vail, Colo. resort, sportfishing trips and much more. Donors swarmed over the items, adding their names to lists even after the auction prices had exceeded the items' stated values.

Lines at the lounge bar were six or more deep as Peninsula residents partied in support of one of their own.

Bands included Temple of the Dads, The Mike Britt Band and The Weener Pigs.

Humphreys donated the lounge's use.

Donations to assist with Barton's medical bills continue to be accepted through the "Friends of Will Barton Fund" at Chase Bank, 1740 Rosecrans St., San Diego 92106.

Cards and letters may be sent to Barton at 3366 Herman Ave., San Diego, 92104.

A San Diego City Council proclamation naming Jan. 19 "Will Barton Day" in San Diego is held by Will's mother, Marie Najera, right, as his father, Will, acknowledges a huge crowd during a fundraiser at Humphreys.

Airport Authority bonds garner high ratings from credit agencies

Three major credit-rating agencies have given high marks to bonds to be issued by the San Diego County Regional Airport Authority for continued funding of The Green Build Terminal 2 expansion program and a variety of programs in the capital improvement program for San Diego International Airport.

The ratings came from Fitch Ratings, Moody's Investor Services and Standard & Poor's.

On Jan. 8, Standard & Poor's Ratings Services assigned its A+ long-term rating to the Airport Authority's anticipated series 2013 senior airport revenue bonds of about $411 million. In addition, the agency affirmed its A rating on the Airport Authority's subordinate airport revenue bonds and assigned a stable rating outlook on all bonds.

According to a news release from Standard & Poor's, the affirmation and outlook were based on "dominant market position within the air service area," "continued very strong financial performance into fiscal 2012" and a "management team that we view as stable and experienced, implementing prudent board policies and guidelines related to financial metrics, debt management and investments."

On Jan. 7, Fitch Ratings assigned an A+ rating to San Diego County Regional Airport Authority's $411 million series 2013 senior airport revenue bonds. Fitch also affirmed its A rating on outstanding subordinate revenue bonds. The rating outlook on all bonds is stable.

Also on Jan. 7, Moody's Investors Services assigned an A1 rating to the airport's anticipated series 2013 senior airport revenue bonds, affirmed its A2 rating on the Airport Authority's subordinate airport revenue bonds and assigned a rating outlook of stable. In a news release on the rating, Moody's stated that the affirmation and outlook reflected "resumed enplanement growth and the expectation of The Green Build in 2013 under budget and capital improvement projects on budget and schedule."

engage the community and remove obstacles for both voters and candidates.”

Advisory propositions are not without precedent in Ocean Beach, but they haven’t appeared in several years. Previous ballots have dealt with issues like rent control and the beach-alcohol ban, and Watson said he’s eager to see what citizens will come up with this time around.

The board will also consider propositions for inclusion on the ballot at its next monthly meeting on Feb. 6 at 6 p.m. at the Ocean Beach Recreation Center, 4726 Santa Monica Ave.

This year will also mark the first-ever use of online balloting. In previous elections, voters have had to show up at the Ocean Beach Recreation Center during a three-hour window on election day. Feedback has shown that’s too constraining, and last year’s voter turnout was one of the lowest ever, Landry said. This year, citizens who prefer to vote online need only register in advance.

“We’ve received a lot of complaints in the past from people who couldn’t make it on election day,” Watson said.

To run for the OBPB or vote in the election, a citizen must be at least 18 years old and have lived, owned property or run a business in the Ocean Beach planning area for at least 30 days. In

Peninsula planners also seeking to fill board seats

By TONY DE GARATE | THE BEACON

If you’re interested in land use and other neighborhood issues in Point Loma, Feb. 21 could be an important day for you.

It’s the last time the Peninsula Community Planning Board (PCPB) holds a regular meeting before annual elections on March 21. For prospective candidates, it could be the last chance to satisfy a requirement to attend a meeting in the calendar year before election day.

Planning boards are formally recognized by the city to make recommendations on land-use planning, quality-of-life issues, rezones, code-enforcement issues, public facilities and the like. The PCPB represents these neighborhoods: Ocean Beach Highlands, Point Loma Highlands Loma Alta, Loma Palisades, Loma Portal, Fleetridge, Roseville, Sunset Cliffs, Wooded Area, La Playa, Roseville and Liberty Station.

The board meets the third Thursday of each month at 6:30 p.m. at the Point Loma/Hervey Branch Library, 3701 Voltaire St. A candidate forum is also being planned, but the date has not been set, said Rich Possanza of the PCPB’s Election Committee.

To run, a citizen be at least 18 years old and have lived, owned property or run a business in the Peninsula planning area for at least 30 days. Unlike Ocean Beach, no signatures are required. Five three-year terms and one two-year term (to fill out a term from the 2012 election) are available. Applications can be downloaded at pcpb.net.

This year’s election comes one year after a light turnout in 2012, which drew fewer than 40 voters. One year earlier, several hundred voted.

“Hopefully that’s a temporary glitch, because what we do is important. We disseminate information to the community and keep them apprised of development happening in their neighborhood,” said PCPB chairwoman Julia Quinn.

Quinn has replaced Geoff Page, who resigned recently, citing work demands.

In addition, candidates must collect 35 signatures from eligible voters in the district in which they run.

The planning area is split into seven districts – boundaries can be found at oceanbeachpb.com.

Hopefuls must also have attended at least one meeting in the calendar year before election day.

The deadline is Sunday, Feb. 3 at 6 p.m. to preregister to vote, submit a candidate application, or submit an advisory proposition.

Materials must be submitted by mail or in person to an Ocean Beach Planning Board Election Committee member. If you want to run and you miss the deadline, you have until March 11 to qualify as a write-in candidate.

More information is available at oceanbeachpb.com.

New state bill would be benefit for would-be cottage-food producers

By MARSHA KAY SEFF | THE BEACON

Ellen Liversidge of Ocean Beach says Assembly Bill 1616, the new California Homemade Food Act, will allow her to start a home-based baking business.

Under the law, Californians who cook in their own home kitchens are permitted to sell their products to restaurants and grocery stores.

After getting her license, Liversidge plans to start a co-op of neighbors also interested in becoming cottage-food producers.

Her first item, she anticipated, will be vegan chocolate chip “cooks.”

That’s cookies without milk or butter, but with sunflower oil and maple syrup. She said she already has some interest from a local coffee shop.

The business will provide “a nice second-income stream,” she said. “I like to think of myself as a job creator.”

Semi-retired, Liversidge currently works as a part-time speech pathologist and teacher of English as a second language. But one of the best parts of being retired, she said, is riding her hot-pink tricycle. While other beachgoers are on bicycles, she likes the trike’s giant basket and comfortable seat — not to mention the better odds of not falling off.

Police probe kidnapping, robbery attempt

Investigators are looking into an apparent kidnapping and robbery attempt in Ocean Beach on Jan. 16.

Police said a man responded to a Craigslist ad for a camera lens and met with another man at a hotel room on Narragansett Street to purchase the item shortly after 2 p.m.

Detectives said when the victim arrived, the suspect threatened him with a handgun and forced the victim to drive him to the bank.

Reportedly, the bank was taking too long to get the money, and the suspect told the victim to drive away. The suspect did not get any money from the victim.

The suspect was described as being in his mid-20s, 6 feet tall, thin, wearing a hoodie. No one was injured, according to police.

Republican women’s group offers scholarships

Point Loma Peninsula Republican Women Federated (RWF), one of 23 RWF Clubs in San Diego County, is accepting applications from graduating seniors from high schools in Point Loma to compete for $2,000 for first-place scholarships or $1,000 for second place.

The San Diego County winner will compete with winners of seven southern-division counties for one of two additional “Charlotte Mousel” scholarships of $1,500 for first place or $1,000 for second place.

Applications are available at counseling offices at local high schools, along with more information about these scholarship opportunities. It is possible to earn up to $3,500 in scholarships from the group.

The deadline is to apply March 1.

$4.5 million 122-foot Flagship motor-yacht Shogun.

The nearby exhibit tent houses about 120 vendors offering only boating-related products, accessories and services. New this year is a group of exhibitors offering environmentally friendly, anti-fouling alternatives to traditional bottom paint, including an innovative foil bottom coating from Dutch firm Micanti and special paints from Pettit and Coppercoat.

“This is a show by boaters for boaters,” said show sales manager Kat Ohlmann.

Show highlights will include free boating experiences on a variety of watercraft. Seaforth Yacht Charters is providing sailboat rides, while Electric Yachts is offering electric kayak rides and San Diego Comfort Cruises will have rides aboard its 18-foot electric Duffy. West Marine is demonstrating its latest inflatable models.

For the first time, the San Diego Humane Society will also offer pet adoptions at the show.

“We particularly appreciate the [Unified] Port of San Diego for its support and participation. This event provides business and sales leads to many of the Port’s tenants and local marine businesses for four to six months following the show,” Behun said.

Tickets are $12. Children under 12 are admitted free. Active-duty military with ID are also admitted free, and there is no cost to police and fire personnel with ID on Jan. 24 and 25. Because of crowding on the docks, participants are asked to leave pets and strollers at home, although service animals are welcome.

Parking is available for $10 at the Sheraton San Diego Hotel & Marina on Harbor Island, with shuttles provided to the show, in addition to marina parking for $20-25.

For more information and a list of exhibitors, visit www.bigbayboatshow.com or call (619) 574-0736.

out a set of unique functional vessels belonging to a Las Vegas-based client.

The Argonaut Jr. 2010 (www.argonautjr.com) is a modern replica of Simon Lake’s 1894 wooden submarine, inspired by 19th century French author Jules Verne and Civil War-era designs. Hobbyist Henry Agard’s one-man submarine was built in his Sunnyvale backyard over 10 years and was tested in a relation’s swimming pool. It, too, will be on display.

Completing the exhibit are two mini-hovercraft and two Sea-Spi vessels, personal electric-powered glass-bottom watercraft for undersea viewing.

RAINS

The new third edition of Rains’ respected “Mexico Cruising Guide” is about to be released. The fully indexed guidebook includes accurate local charts, details about anchorages, marinas, fuel docks, boatyards and repair facilities, and provisioning resources that are geared to recreational boaters’ needs. Regular updates appear online.

“This guide covers all of Baja, the entire Sea of Cortez and the Pacific coast of mainland Mexico to the Guatemala border, about 3,000 miles of coastline, detailed mile by mile,” she said.

Her companion volume, “Cruising Ports,” leads boaters from Guatemala through Central America and the Panama Canal and on through the western Caribbean to Florida. Information about her cruising guides is available at www.mexicoboating.com.

Seminars on electric propulsion for sailors will be presented by Mike Gunning, and the use of asymmetrical spinnakers for efficient downwind sailing will be sponsored by Ullman Sail San Diego and South Coast Yachts. Both will be held Jan. 26 and 27.

Check schedules at www.bigbayboatshow.com or the show program in Yachts for Sale Magazine for latest information.

TRAILER

Board (OBPB) approved the temporary installation in 1999. Now, 14 years later, the matter appeared on the same planning board’s docket on Jan. 2. Residents, merchants and board members gathered to determine the fate of the trailer.

Area business owners at the meeting — including Dave Martin of Shades OBistro, Steve Grosch of Ocean Beach Hotel and local attorney Craig Klien — spoke in favor of the trailer by the waterfront, saying the police presence there has considerably improved safety around their businesses over the years.

“Our local merchants appreciate it when the police can arrive quickly if there is an incident. It’s important for all of us to feel safe in our communities, and having the police ready and willing to help us is a good thing,” said OBMA executive director Denny Knox.

Although Adame said he is not opposed to the additional police presence near his home, he was dubious of the trailer’s effectiveness in countering crime, as it does not serve as a staffed police storefront available to the public.

“The trailer is a restroom and storage,” he said at the meeting. “What is helpful are the phone calls to police.”

He said the trailer was a view-blocking eyesore that takes up parking space and should be moved to another location like Robb Field or beneath the pier.

At the conclusion of the debate, eight of the nine OBPB members voted in favor of a motion to recommend approval of the CDP, with the caveat that police officials seek out a more suitable alternative for a permanent location.

“This is our best alternative at the moment, and we know that more limited police presence would be a disaster for the community,” said Knox. “We believe that the trailer will remain until the community can find an alternative. Everything is on the table. Unfortunately, it is always about the money. If any community can come together, it is Ocean Beach. We hope that a long-term, permanent solution will be found.”

The California Coastal Commission will hear the permit application at a future date, which has yet to be determined. To air concerns or support for the project to the California Coastal Commission, write to the district office at 7575 Metropolitan Drive, Suite 103, San Diego, 92108, or call (619) 767-2370.

PLNU'S 'Superfest' to return Jan. 26

SAN DIEGO - Superfest 2013 will be held on the campus of Point Loma Nazarene University on Saturday, Jan. 26 starting at 9:45 a.m.

Superfest offers members of the community a chance to connect with professional athletes such as Adrian Gonzalez, Jacques Cesaire, Darrell Stuckey, Nick Hundley, Nick Novak, two-time Heavyweight Boxing Champion Chris Byrd, and a handful of others as they share their secrets of how they play and live like champions.

This free family event is full of clinics, games, prizes, giveaways and includes the chance to watch a PLNU basketball doubleheader.

Sports and activities such as baseball, basketball, soccer, volleyball, mixed martial arts, speed clinic, and more will be presented by the professional athletes and PLNU team members.

The doors will open at 9 a.m., with the program scheduled to start at 9:45 a.m.

There will be a time for autographs and photos with the professional athletes starting at 11:30 a.m.

The event then will have a two-hour session starting at noon on the athletic facilities throughout the Point Loma campus for skill development, instruction and competitions in baseball, golf, track, soccer, tennis and football.

PLNU will offer free admission to its basketball doubleheader against Holy Names starting at 2 p.m.

Those interested in attending Superfest 2013 can register today by visiting <http://therocksandiego.wufoo.com/forms/p7q7z1/>, or they may register on the morning of the event.

Participants are encouraged to bring athletic gear, athletic shoes and/or cleats, and cash for meals or snacks.

For more information, please visit <http://superfestsd.com/>.

Tips for Caregivers to Remember

We all know our parents will grow old but many of us are still unprepared for the reality of what happens as we see our parent's decline as they age. Here are some ideas to make things a little easier: Don't Keep Putting Things Off- People just naturally want to wait until a crisis happens to get help. Hard as it may be, get the family together and plan before an emergency happens.

Involve Your Parents in the Planning- They know they're getting older but getting a person actively involved is the key to knowing exactly what they and you need to get done. You may think they've never thought of what they want and you may be surprised.

Hire a Geriatric Case Manager to Help - These qualified advocates for the elder can help you save time and stress. They will also provide valuable resources.

Face the Reality - You may want to do it all but sometimes, you have to realize your parent needs more help than you can provide.

Love Them - You can never say it too much.

Don't Forget Them - Everyone has a busy life but sacrifice some of your time for your parents. Talk about the past, show them pictures. It'll make them and you very happy.

Forgive the Past - No matter what kind of parent they were, now is the time to stop holding a grudge. Letting go and forgiving will help you.

agers at Innovative Healthcare Consultants for help determining the needs and desires of your family member. Call (877) 731-1442 or view our website at www.innovativehc.com.

Juli Giacalone, recently started her own personal training business. Wicked Tuff Fitness offers outdoor "Bootcamp Style" workouts. These classes are designed for every fitness level. You go at your own pace. Every class is different so you'll never be bored. You may also know Juli as a local bartender.

Juli explains how she got started in the fitness business. "I joined a bootcamp 3 years ago and became addicted.

Gyms never appealed to me or got me to push myself. My trainer, Amber, made her classes so fun that I found myself wanting to go every day. It became my new love and made me want to motivate my friends and other people the way, Amber and owner Bryan motivated me. I thank them for giving me the drive to get certified. I now teach my own classes Tuesday through Saturday either in Ocean Beach or Liberty Station. It's an amazing thing to do what you love and inspire others. Helping people reach their fitness goals is so rewarding. Im having a great time writing new workouts and watching my clients get stronger every class. San Diego is such a beautiful city I am very lucky that I get to teach my classes in such a perfect setting".

Pointers snag multiple league honors for dedication

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

A dozen members of the Point Loma High School football team were recently selected for All-Western League honors, matching a league rival that later won the California state championship.

For the Pointers, despite finishing 8-4 overall (4-1, second place in league) the 12 selections are a tribute to the team's talent and work ethic.

Western League champion Madison High, which edged the Pointers 28-14 on Nov. 2 for the league crown, went on to both a local CIF Div. IV and state CIF Div. III championship.

All-Western League honors went to the following Pointers:

• First team, offense:

Jake Wambaugh, (Jr.): (6'3," 250 pounds) The junior tight end was singled out for his blocking skills that helped produce 2,586 rushing yards for the Pointers. He also is a starter at defensive end.

Mark Nou, (Sr.): Far from the biggest of offensive linemen (5'10," 210 pounds), Nou proved to be a tenacious blocker while anchoring the Pointer run and pass blocking.

• First team, defense:

Western League "Defensive Player of the Year:" Jamal Agnew, (Sr.): A fearless player who, at 5'8" and 150 pounds, drew reactions from crowds as he racked up 72 tackles. He grabbed six pass interceptions and returned punts and kickoffs, scoring touchdowns in each. Pound-for-pound, one of the county's top players.

Zach Eischen, (Sr.): After making the jump from freshman team to varsity as a sophomore, Eischen excelled. From his free safety position, the 6'2," 195-pounder was credited with 67 tackles this season and returned four interceptions 126 yards, scoring twice.

Greg Verdugo, (Sr.): From his linebacker position, Verdugo, in his No. 53 jersey, wreaked havoc on opponents' offensive plans. The 6-foot, 200-pounder led the Pointers with 94 tackles and was credited with three sacks, broke up three passes and blocked a punt.

Steven Arreola, (Sr.): One of the Pointers' big men on the defensive line (6 feet, 275 pounds), Arreola made life miserable for opposing offensive linemen. He was credited with 85 tackles (second on the team) and also was credited with one sack and a fumble recovery.

• Second team, offense:

Branden Martin, (Sr.): Transferring to Point Loma for his junior year, Martin quickly moved from third-string junior varsity to varsity starter, where he remained. He accounted for nearly 800 yards (468 passing, 324 running) and 10 touchdowns.

Dirk Lacy, (Jr.): Led the team with 735 yards rushing this season (6.8 yards per carry average). The 5'10," 175-pounder scored six touchdowns. He will return as the Pointers' top back next season.

Jovanny Sanchez, (Sr.): Proved himself a standout as a member of Dogs offensive line that put up 307 points in 12 games. The 6-foot, 220-pounder also wrestles.

• Second team, defense:

Grant Wilburn, (Sr.): Cornerback who was in on 35 tackles, quick defender (5'8," 155 pounds) picked off four passes and recovered a fumble. Also a starter in basketball.

Sydney Rush, (Sr.): Racked up 31 tackles on defense from his defensive back position. Had one interception, also returned kickoffs and played running back (278 yards).

Jake Virissimo, (Soph.): The defensive

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Other PLHS athletes named to all-league honors

Several PLHS athletes were selected for all-league honors in fall sports. They include:

Sophomore volleyball player Faith Smith was selected to the first team, All-Western League. The Pointers finished 14-19 overall (4-6 in league).

In boys' water polo, senior Kye Miranda scored 69 goals and added 12 assists to earn an All-Eastern League second team berth. The Pointers finished 7-24 overall (0-8 in league).

In girls' field hockey, senior Erin Green earned first team Western League honors. Teammate Sara Wildman, also a senior, was named to the second team. The Lady Pointers posted a 13-6 overall record (2-3 in league).

Pointers sailors again claim regatta title

Point Loma High's famed sailing team kicked off the 2013 calendar year with yet another victory in a major sailing regatta.

The prep sailors cruised to victory in the Rose Bowl Regatta, sailed Jan. 5-6 in Long Beach and hosted by the University of Southern California sailing team and the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club.

The title was the Pointers' seventh consecutive Rose Bowl Regatta victory, according to event organizers.

Sailing in a 28-boat "Gold" fleet, the Pointers' varsity boat took first place with a point total of 80, a run-away victory over second place Coronado High School with 109 points.

Additionally, one of the Pointer junior varsity boats took fourth place overall with 121 points.

Members of the varsity boat crew included Scott Sinks, Rebecca McElvain, Greer Wattson, AJ Reiter, Mercedes McPhee and Trevor Hecht.

The junior varsity boat was manned by Will La Dow, Jennifer Johnson, Andy Reiter, Halea Hole-sak and Luke Kellerhouse.

La Dow had just returned from Florida where, with crew Nikki Obel, he won the Club 420 competition in a field of 74 boats at the Orange Bowl Regatta the previous week.

Pointer coach Steve Hunt, 37, told Rose Bowl organizers his team is only getting better.

"It's the largest team I've had. We get 15 boats on the water in practice, and I think success breeds success," Hunt said.

The Rose Bowl Regatta victory keeps the Pointers atop the 2012-13 standings for the Roy E. Disney Trophy, awarded annually to the top sailing program in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Sailing Association (PCISA).

Stanford University won the collegiate division of the regatta.

The next PCISA-Disney event is the Golden Bear Regatta, taking place Feb. 23-24 at the Treasure Island Sailing Center.

continue playing at the college level.

• Members of an undefeated (9-0) junior varsity and 8-1 freshman team will supply new varsity talent.

• The school's new weight room is being heavily used on a daily basis for strength and endurance building by football returnees and candidates.

• Hastings hopes to have next season's schedule completed soon.

OBITUARY

Helen Jordan: July 26, 1925-Dec. 11, 2012

Helen Jordan lived in the Ocean Beach community for more than 60 years. In her younger days she enjoyed riding the waves on her mat, soaking up the sun and daily walks around Ocean Beach, meeting new friends and telling jokes.

Every Saturday morning was spent solving the New York Times crossword puzzle, conversing with friends when the clues became difficult.

Helen passed away peacefully with her family at her side.

She was predeceased by husband Buck and son David.

Helen is survived by son Curtis (Sally) Jordan; daughters Louise (Joe) Johnston, Jo Anne (Stephan) Kalber; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Helen will be missed by many.

Ninety-five acres of the former San Diego Naval Training Center is an area that holds a special place in the hearts of not just the hundreds of thousands of sailors who called it home, but of the entire community that watched it grow up. One of only four historic districts in the City of San Diego to be listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the NTC Historic District will forever be a place that turned boys into men, launched war heroes into battle and made San Diego the great Navy town of the 20th Century.

The above map directs you to markers explaining the significance of many of the historic sites at NTC. Start your self-guided walking tour at the NTC Command Center, Building 200 (2640 Historic Decatur Road), and walk your way through history.

AUDIO TOUR: To learn more about each site you can use your cell phone to call the NTC Audio Tour at 619-342-8021. It's free, and easy to use. Just dial the number and follow the instructions.

ON POINT: NTC Liberty Station Events—February 2013

Friday, February 1 Friday Night Liberty

Celebrate the love of art at Friday Night Liberty, a monthly open studio and gallery event at NTC at Liberty Station. February 1st from 5-8 enjoy Dance Performances from San Diego Ballet, San Diego Dance Theater and Malashock Dance; unique art exhibitions at pulse gallery, San Diego Watercolor Society, Visions Art Museum, and live music at the Recreational Music Center. Find something special for your valentine like unique works in felt at Sophie's Gallery, handmade cards by visiting artists Marion Black and gourmet sweets at Chi Chocolat. NTC at Liberty Station is where San Diego Gets Creative. 2640 Historic Decatur Rd. San Diego, CA 92106.

Sunday, February 10 Talmadge Art Show

The Talmadge Art Show is an energetic environment for new, emerging, and accomplished artists to showcase and sell their works of art. Many of the artists in the Talmadge Art Show are exploring art to express their creativity, to develop a second career or to have fun with a new medium. The Talmadge Art Show provides a positive environment in which to nourish and grow. New artists learn to market and sell their work, moving from the creative process to the selling stage. It's an opportunity to join a group of artists who revel in the creative process. <http://www.talmadgeartshow.com> c Decatur Rd. San Diego, CA 92106.

Saturday-Sunday, February 16-17 Pacific Southwest Wildlife Art Show

The PSWA is involved in promoting wildlife art and both educating and enriching the community through our outreach programs, seminars, workshops, study groups and monthly meetings. The culmination of the PSWA's activities is in mid-February each year when the organization presents the world class "California Open Wildlife Arts Festival." www.pswa.net/

Monday-Tuesday, February 25-26 Paso Robles Wine Tasting Event

Each year, Paso Robles Wine Country hits the road visiting key markets state-wide to spread the brand awareness of Paso Robles wines. Over 30 winemakers from California's third largest wine producing region will visit San Diego February 25 – 26, 2013. The visit begins with multiple winemaker dinners then culminates on day-two with a ticketed tasting event from 6 – 8:30 p.m. Cheese and charcuterie will be presented by Peacock Cheese Company to complement this Paso Robles wine experience. Tickets for the Grand Tasting event go on sale January 23rd. Visit <http://www.pasowine.com/events/grandtasting.php> for more information and tickets!

Watch artist extraordinaire Richard Stergutz bring an oil portrait to life at Ballast Point Gallery in Barracks 14 at NTC's Friday Night Liberty on February 1 from 5pm to 8pm.

Celebrating 5 Years!

Gotta Have Heart: Heartfelt Collages

Sophie's Gallery, the off-campus art program of St. Madeleine Sophie's Center that serves adults with developmental disabilities, experimented with felt making, an ancient art form that dates back 3,500 years. Their creations of framed soft felt collages entitled Heartfelt are featured at Sophie's Gallery & Gift Shop during February's Friday Night Liberty at NTC Liberty Station. The artwork is part of our annual Gotta' Have Heart show and is on exhibit through March 31. Artists started with a bolt of 100% wool felt, which they hand-dyed into soft muted tones. They cut, stitched and stuffed the felt, layering pieces together with a process called felting which interlocks the fibers using felting tools. Heartfelt also features guest felt-artists Valerie Hebert, Amy Morris and Arlene Watson in a joyful celebration of Valentine's Day! The Ramones tribute band set to rock the house

New York-based punk quartet The Ramones were one of the most important bands to emerge from the 1970s. Its debut album set off an explosion of new bands, inspired by the band’s fast, short, sharp songs like “Rockaway Beach” and “Rock ‘n’ Roll Radio.” Influencing everyone from Pearl Jam to U2, it’s only logical that a number of bands pay homage to the four-some.

the best, Hey! Ho! Let’s Go!, is from the San Diego area.

Named for the Ramone’s signature chant and, like the Ramones, taking a unified family surname, the band started in 2008 with the current lineup of vocalist Alan Ho, guitarist T.J. Ho, drummer Chris Ho and bassist Dee Bee Ho, together since 2011.

According to bassist Dee Bee Ho, the reason for forming the band was simply to champion its musical heroes’ music.

“We’re all huge fans of The Ramones,” he said. “They were such a fun band. They weren’t in it for commercial success. They weren’t trying to change the world. They were having fun. They were expressing themselves. They were saying, ‘Hey look, you don’t have to be amazingly talented to express yourself through music.’ We wanted to do our part to make sure the Ramones were never forgotten.”

The quartet does its best re-create both the look and the sound of the group they are honoring.

“I feel the guys do a great job looking the part,” Ho said. “I have a little more difficult of a time looking the part of Dee Dee Ramone. He was a little smaller than me. Basically, it’s just a T-shirt and tore-up jeans with a leather jackets and some Chucks.”

While the look isn’t too difficult to achieve, the band puts a lot of effort into getting its sound just right.

“It was important to use the same instruments as The Ramones,” Ho said. “I think mostly for the guitar. Johnny Ramone had such a unique, raw and powerful sound. Our guitar player Tim does have pretty much the same setup as Johnny. Tim does a great job with playing all downstroke. It’s very tiring to play downstrokes that fast for a long period of time.”

Hey! Ho! Let’s Go! tries to give an accurate depiction of a typical Ramones concert back in the day, with a major exception.

“The Ramones were famous for playing 20-minute sets. Clubs today wouldn’t appreciate that,” Ho said. “The songs are short and sweet, just like songs should be. We play sets ranging from 45 minutes to playing three one-hour sets. In true Ramones fashion, we don’t spend a lot of time talking on stage. We like to go from one song to the next.”

The band plays all of The Ramones’ best-known songs, from “Blitzkreig Bop” to “I Wanna Be Sedated,” but also tries to include a lot of less-obvious choices.

“We go pretty deep into the catalog,” Ho said. “We all have our different favorites. I think some of The Ramones’ best songs are ones you don’t hear on the radio, (like) “I Believe in Miracles” and “I

Wanna Be Your Boyfriend.”

It’s been five years since Hey! Ho! Lets Go! First hit the club circuit, but according to Ho, the band members all still enjoy The Ramones’ music as much as ever. He considers the band ambassadors of sorts for the original punk rockers.

“The best part to me is introducing The Ramones to people who may not know much about them,” he said. “And for people who are already Ramones fans, we give them an opportunity to relive the past and enjoy the music and the band that influenced so many of the biggest bands in the world.”

Hey! Ho! Let’s Go! performs at 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26 at Winston’s, 1921 Bacon St. www.winstons-ob.com

Liberty Station theater may signal trend in direction of local arts

By MARTIN JONES WESTLIN | THE BEACON

The smaller the live theater, the bigger the idea — or at least that's what the local artistic directors like to say. Another way to put it is that seating tends to shrink dramatically in the face of bolder, edgier work, and venue size often signals a city's trend accordingly, said backers. Chicago, for example, has 200 theater companies; about 140 of those play in spots with 99 or fewer seats. The proportion is about the same in Los Angeles, with its 220 troupes.

San Diego, eighth-largest city in the nation, has about 50 theatrical companies. That isn't bad — until you realize it has a grand total of seven tiny spaces for all those quirky, gigantic dreams.

Does that make San Diego theater a lousy bet by comparison? Not really. It may mean that local audiences are simply unfamiliar with edgy performances, not that they reject them out of hand. The latest entrant on that skimpy roster of spaces was designed to make a difference in that part of the equation — and it sits in a cultural oasis, where postmodern ideas are a stock in trade.

It's called The White Box Theater, located at 2590 Truxton Road at Liberty Station. It opened in May to the first of several dance events after having undergone a $31,000 renovation, which included the installation of a spring floor designed to absorb shock, a small but up-to-date sound system and 135 seats on three tiers. The seating is customizable for productions in the round and for arena staging. It's also completely removable over the theater's 2,600 square feet.

"It's up to the artist to make of it what they want," said Blythe Barton, San Diego Dance Theatre company member and manager of the space. "We've designed it as a live-arts space, and the small size makes it comfortable for edgy, clean, fresh material. It's quiet and everybody ... says they love the view."

Plays and recitals by the cutting-edge Circle Circle dot dot theater group, which normally mounts its productions at Downtown's 10th Avenue Theatre and Arts Centre and San Carlos-based Visionary Dance Theatre are upcoming for 2013.

Jean Isaacs, San Diego Dance Theatre (SDDT) artistic director since 1997, agrees with the size aspect of the formula. She blanched on learning of this city's paltry small-venue inventory — if artistic growth is any indication, she said, little spaces should become de rigueur in San Diego's near future.

"We may be a little bit ahead on big ideas," she said of San Diego's arts communities. "Since I've been [SDDT artistic director], there's just been so much movement in dance and the arts, just constant moving, moving, moving, with more groups and more artists."

Indeed, San Diego has seen an explosion in the growth of dance since SDDT's founding in 1972, and those 50 local theater companies are up from virtually three as 1990 approached (moreover, two of those, The Old Globe and The Starlight theaters, are in the same locale).

But all those new groups would likely balk at the space's biggest technical drawback. Technical directors prefer black curtains and walls because they contain no color, making them the ideal surfaces on which colored lights register. As of now, The White Box lives up to half its name — the walls are blindingly without color, making light design problematic.

"That's if we leave them that way," said Isaacs, whose SDDT is the space's anchor tenant. "We can configure the seats. We can also configure black curtains to [line] the space. And this is only 135 seats, so the [project] wouldn't be that big."

For now, The White Box Theater is a space whose time has come. Four potential performance groups are headquartered at Dance Place San Diego, less than a block away. The second phase of the NTC buildout was completed in November, when eight buildings opened and 14 new tenants set up shop in Liberty Station's arts and cultural district; the White Box had opened six months before to welcome them. Liberty Station is that much closer to completion and the White Box is a major addition to the breadth of artistic expression it represents.

ENJOY THE BEAUTY OF OLD TOWN

All Beasts Blessed in Old Town Last Sunday

The fourth annual Blessing of the Animals in Old Town San Diego State Historic Park attracted more than 500 attendees and their pets this past Sunday. This was the highest attendance recorded in the event's history. From a blue tongued lizard to a wolf hybrid dog, all animals were blessed by Monsignor Mark Campbell.

Participating exhibitors included animal adoption agencies such as the Chihuahua Rescue of San Diego and Shelly's Shelter. Chopper the Biker Dog and Sindi Somers were on hand to entertain and educate the crowd. Sponsored by Old Town's Fiesta de Reyes, the event also featured a pet costume contest and a pet and owner look-a-like contest.

Historically, this event has been happening for more than 300 years — dating back to the 1700s. The present day event is modeled after annual Benediction of the Beasts which celebrates St. Anthony of the Desert, the Patron Saint of Animals. For more information about Blessing of the Animals, call 619-297-3100.

District's top nurse has advice on coping with this year's flu season

The Nursing and Wellness staff at San Diego Unified School District is urging parents/guardians to have their child vaccinated against this year's flu bugs.

“Children can be very susceptible to viruses such as the flu,” said Michelle Bell, Nursing and Wellness Program manager.

High illness rates have been seen in other parts of the country and getting a flu shot is a very good precaution.

More flu news: This year's flu season is shaping up to be the worst in years, perhaps reaching the level of the one a decade ago that killed 70,000 people in the U.S.

The flu has already killed 14 in the county.

It may get worse. Google's Flu Trend map suggests that the flu wave hasn't yet fully hit the West. The map also indicates that this is already the worst flu season of all the years (back to 2006) that Google's been tracking searches for flu-related terms.

Kearny, Mission Bay clusters hold enrollment fairs

Schools in the Kearny and Mission Bay high school clusters will hold all-school fairs at their campuses on Saturday, Jan. 26.

Each school in the community will have displays on their curriculum and what makes the school special. The Kearny-area fair will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the high school, 7651 Wellington St. Mission Bay High is the site for the Pacific Beach schools fair from noon to 3 p.m., 2475 Grand Ave. Both fairs are free and open to the public. The schools are holding these events ahead of the Feb. 15 school choice deadline.

At Mission Bay, the six Pacific Beach schools — Sessions Elementary, Pacific Beach Elementary, Crown Point Junior Music Academy, Barnard Mandarin Chinese School, Pacific Beach Middle and Mission Bay High — will have informational booths, activities for the kids and performances throughout the afternoon. The Mission Bay Cluster All Schools Fair will be the perfect opportunity for interested parents and students to meet the principals of each school and learn about the incredibly wide range of programming being offered right in their own backyard.

The International Baccalaureate Program will be highlighted at Mission Bay High, Pacific Beach Middle and Sessions Elementary, as well as the music programs at Crown Point, the GATE/Seminar program at Pacific Beach Elementary and the Mandarin Chinese Magnet program at Barnard, which will move into the neighborhood in 2013-14.

There will be food, games and tons of information about the Pacific Beach schools.

At Kearny High, the 16 elementary, middle and high schools in the Serra Mesa and Linda Vista communities that comprise the cluster will highlight their core instructional programs and the extras at their sites. Several early childhood programs (Pre-K) are offered at the elementary schools, and many students at the Kearny High Educational Complex begin attending classes at Mesa College in 11th grade, some completing one year or more of college by high school graduation (the 13 in Pre-K to 13).

Workshops for cluster-wide programs

such as Special Education, Gifted and Talented Education (GATE) and English Language Learner (ELL) will be offered, as well as for specialized programs like Advancement Via Individual Determination (AVID) and Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM). The workshops are scheduled from 12:30-1:30 p.m.; Spanish and Vietnamese translators will attend the workshops and be available for the entire fair.

Activities for children are planned, and food will be available. This event is not limited to families in the Kearny cluster; the entire Serra Mesa and Linda Vista communities with school-age children are welcome.

For more information on the Kearny program, please contact Rosemary Cruz at rcruz1@sandi.net or Laura Bellofatto at lbellofatto@sandi.net.

Fertile ground: educational school gardens cropping up all over

Three pumpkins on the picnic bench inside Silver Gate Elementary's 6-year-old school garden aren't Halloween remnants. Grown in one of the garden's 10 raised beds, they were part of a lesson on circumference for fourth-graders. Everything in this garden in a corner of the playground, and a new one outside the school's kindergarten area, becomes lessons, including the worm bin donated by Solana Center.

Cal-SOAP hosting free

workshop for college funds

Cal-SOAP's "Cash for College" workshop will offer students and parents assistance with applying for various programs that offer federal funding for college. The workshop will cover the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and Dream Act applications. The workshops will be offered Jan. 26, Feb. 2 and Feb. 23 at high schools throughout the district. You will also learn about a $1,000 scholarship opportunity through Cal-SOAP.
