New vision for Veterans Plaza moves forward

A new vision is coming to life to revamp Veterans Plaza in Ocean Beach. Several workshops are taking place to gather official and resident ideas on how to bring the project to fruition.

Even before the 9/11 tragedies, there were plenty of Obeceans who knew that patriotism was consistent with the community's laid-back, do-your-own-thing ethic. In 1997, they decided it was high time to do something big.

An idea to honor those who have served our country in the armed forces took hold and, with the help of the since-vacated Ocean Beach Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Ocean Beach MainStreet Association (OBMA) and others, the idea came to fruition.

In a nutshell, that's how the Veterans Plaza at the corner of Abbott Street and Newport Avenue — with two its flagpoles, 6 ½-foot-high piece of granite rock and adorning plaque, and dozens of inscriptions engraved onto a brand-new, concrete sidewalk — came to be, organizers said. Ocean Beach was ahead of the curve.

But the pride resulting from the nobility of a high-minded community effort quickly began to erode, remembers Denny Knox, executive director of the Ocean Beach MainStreet Association.

For one, the new sidewalk was supposed to be stained with bright, vibrant colors, Knox said.

"And right away, they washed out. And they were blotchy," she said.

Later, some coloring and improvements on the adjacent asphalt were paved over and forgotten after a road repair, she said.

But the most serious problems had to do with the memorials on the sidewalk. Circles of various sizes had been engraved on the new concrete, and the public could honor a loved one with an inscription inside the circles for a few hundred dollars.

Sandblasting the concrete proved to be

STAFF AND CONTRIBUTION

Featuring self-guided tours of private residential gardens, the Point Loma Garden Walk — hosted each year by the Dana Unit of Rady Children's Hospital Auxiliary — gives guests a glimpse of unique Point Loma and Ocean Beach gardens that seem ripped from the pages of a magazine.

On Saturday, April 27, visitors will see waterfalls, outdoor rooms and whimsical and remarkable gardening enhancements on the tour's 12th annual installment. The focus this year is on gardens designed and tended by homeowners.

Participants will have the chance to walk through and view the gardens at their leisure from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with water and portable toilets available along the route. In addition to the tour, guests can visit the garden boutique, where local artisans will sell their unique creations — everything from garden furniture and outdoor accessories to birdhouses and potting benches made from salvaged wood and more.

Councilman Faulconer says 'state of the district is strong'

By MARIKO LAMB | THE BEACON

"The state of our district is strong," said District 2 City Councilman Kevin Faulconer during his State of the District address on April 10. "We're delivering real results to protect our beaches and bays, guard taxpayer dollars and create a brighter future for our families and our children."

In his address, Faulconer emphasized the importance of fiscal responsibility and unity among city leaders to achieve neighborhood goals like infrastructure repair, environmental protection and public safety.

"I vividly remember when I was first sworn in seven years ago, the depths of the problems at City Hall were becoming more and more apparent — the debts, the lawsuits, the pension scandals, the delayed audit reports, the mismanagement of tax dollars and the lack of accountability and transparency," he said. "In a bipartisan manner, we have eliminated the culture of 'Spend today, save tomorrow,' which has now given way to budgetary realism and fiscal reform."

ADDRESS

He said collaborative efforts by city leadership has gotten the city through tough financial chaos and civic embarrassment, creating a model for fiscal responsibility, transparency and government accountability.

"Our city is in a much stronger financial position that it has ever been before," he said. "I'm committed to spending within our means. It's the only way that we can ensure that our tax dollars can be invested in our neighborhoods to deliver the real results that all of us are pushing for."

A few of those neighborhood accomplishments in the Point Loma and Ocean Beach communities over the past year included the community-driven redesign of Ocean Beach's Veterans Plaza, completion of the first phase of the Ocean Beach Gateway Park and recent passage of legislation to protect 31 acres of Point Loma's Famosa Slough from future development.

One improvement on the horizon for the Point Loma community is the creation of a world-class Olympic-size swimming pool and aquatic center at Liberty Station for everyone in the community to enjoy. After preserving the initial funding intended to kickstart that project, Faulconer announced the city completed a request for development proposal to bring that vision to reality.

On a citywide level, Faulconer and his City Council colleagues helped San Diego lead the charge on comprehensive immigration reform and will continue efforts toward the councilman's proposed over-size-vehicle ordinance in the coming months.

As he moves forward in his tenure, Faulconer outlined principles he pledges to follow as he continues his efforts toward a brighter future.

"First, we must fulfill the will of the voters by implementing comprehensive pension reform at City Hall. We must make full pension payments to ensure we don't unduly pass on the debt to our children and grandchildren," he said. "We must protect public safety, particularly by improving police retention and recruitment, and we must not and cannot support cuts to our core neighborhood services that all of us rely on."

The councilman said no budget is justifiable unless the city considers all reasonable and innovative ways to deliver services efficiently and effectively.

"Unfortunately, the administration is ignoring opportunities to cut government waste by stalling managed competition, which is costing taxpayers tens of millions of dollars each year that would be saved through streamlining," he said. "Using estimates about what the city could gain through accountability and competitive bidding, we could save $20 million additionally every single year. That would reduce our budget deficit by half right now just if we were moving forward on managed competition."

He said in the next 30 days, he will ask his fellow councilmembers to reaffirm their commitment to voter-approved managed competition.

"I believe it is central that we have a healthy and dynamic city and these principles will help ensure that," he said. "If we follow the will of the voters, particularly on managed competition, San Diego can and will continue to lead on fiscal reform."

He said although the city has united to resolve the front-page financial scandals of the past, the day-to-day neighborhood challenges remain. Those challenges, he said, must be met head-on through collaboration.

"Delivering the results we've covered tonight did not require divisive rhetoric. Partisan politics doesn't pave streets. It doesn't protect our ocean or dispatch our police officers or fire fighters to our homes any faster," he said. "Collaboration and respect get things done, and it's the path I intend to follow as long as I am your elected leader."

Dana Middle School principal steps down after 10 years

By MARIKO LAMB | THE BEACON

After a decade at the helm of Dana Middle School, principal Diane Ryan has stepped down to accept a position as principal at Challenger Middle School in Mira Mesa.

"This is so bittersweet," she said. "I am grateful to our students, parents, teachers and staff for sharing the Dana experience with me for the past 10 years. It has been my honor to serve our young children and be the compass always pointing to their future. Together with staff and parents, I believe we have made a difference in the lives of thousands of children."

Although Ryan said she looks forward to the next chapter in her life, she will also miss the Dana community very much.

"I am a person who embraces change and welcomes the challenges that come with it," she said. "I am appreciative of the wonderful relationships that we have built and the incredible opportunities we have created for Dana students. I have grown professionally and personally, and have many fond memories to hold on to."

A panel of parents and staff will work with area superintendent Gilbert Gutierrez in the selection of a new principal over the next four weeks. Ryan's final day will be Friday, April 19, and a retired principal will fill in during the transition.

"Great things are happening at Dana. Solid foundations and structures are in place, and I believe this work will continue," Ryan said. "Thank you, everyone, for your support and endless commitment to our kids. I have enjoyed being a part of this magical world and will forever hold a special place in my heart for Dana."

PLHS championship team of 1973 remains in spotlight

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Point Loma High School baseball player Jim Murray, a member of the 1973 Pointer team that won a CIF championship, will be feted at a 40th anniversary “Spirit of ’73 Gala” on April 26 at the Bali Hai restaurant on Shelter Island.

“I have always been a person that looked forward and rarely in the rear view mirror,” Murray said in a letter to event organizers. “But as I get older and closer to retirement, I (realize) the single most important lesson in my life had to be the sense of ‘TEAM’ that I developed playing baseball at PLHS.”

The 14 members of that team have taken much of their experience forward with them to become successful in careers and life.

Murray and his teammates have been showing up faithfully for 15 years to play in the annual alumni vs. varsity game, a tradition born at their 25th reunion in 1998 when the challenge, “I’ll bet we could still beat those youngsters” was verbalized.

Another team member, Paul Contreras, put things in perspective.

“With the on-field battles, we enjoyed our success but had our failures that brought us together as a team. The ’73 Pointers picked each other up when it was required and cheered for each other all of the time. We were brothers of the ball,” Contreras writes.

Organizers of the “Sprit of ’73 Gala” promise a night of great food, fabulous fun, stories that get better with age and opportunities to bid on both live and silent auctions of intriguing donated items.

Murray noted the uniqueness of each team member, which included characters that “would have given ‘The Bad News Bears’ a run for their money.”

Meanwhile, Contreras said “the team now includes friends, family, kids and grandkids. We’re a formidable group that has not stopped growing.”

Murray brought out an important fact that applies to many winning teams.

“We were not the best baseball players in San Diego,” Murray wrote, “but we were the best baseball team of 1973.”

Murray lauded Dick Huddleston, their coach, and credited the trust and lack of selfishness as key attributes of his team.

Perhaps Contreras spoke for his teammates when he wrote “my happiness is from family, good friends, adventures and great memories, one of those being a part of the 1973 Point Loma Pointers baseball team.”

“This is one get-together I would not miss for the world,” Murray said.

As summer water sports begin approaching, it’s never too late to learn to swim

By NICOLE SOURS LARSON | THE BEACON

Many people who swim only by keeping their faces above the water have a problematical relationship with the water, swim instructor Kim Shults discovered.

Some, like me, have had traumatic water-related incidents that affect their ability to feel comfortable swimming.

That, plus her concern for drowning prevention and water safety, is one reason Shults started her “40 for 40” Face in Water Project to mark her 40th birthday.

The former Ocean Beach resident was a 12-year veteran ESL (English as a second language) instructor in the San Diego schools when she received her annual layoff notice last year. She decided that was one too many layoff notices, and opted not to return to public education — at least now — but to refocus on her first love, teaching swimming. She determined to use her birthday as a catalyst to examine what she wanted to do in next in life.

“I felt I was supposed to have a greater effect on people than I was and make a noticeable difference in people’s lives,” she said.

A passionate swimmer since childhood and a swim instructor for 22 years, Shults is happiest in the water. She resolved to honor her birthday by giving 40 people of varied ages and backgrounds a one-hour swimming lesson, teaching breathing techniques and helping them overcome any reluctance to put their faces in the water.

“My intention was to change people’s relationship with the water. It’s a challenge for me to do it in an hour,” she said.

For her project, Shults is using The Plunge, Mission Beach’s historic, heated indoor pool, part of the Wave House Athletic Club, now being upgraded under new management. The pool at The Plunge is maintained at about 84 degrees, ideal for swimming.

I was Shults’ sixth project participant and her first adult. I had long wanted to learn to swim properly, since I had never learned how to breathe while swimming. I had met Shults at The Plunge while I was “water-walking” with friends and she was teaching charming 3-year-old twins. I was impressed with her easy manner and encouraging approach towards teaching.

Afterward, in the locker room, I asked if she taught adults, too. She explained her project. It was only when I explained that I didn’t submerge my face because I didn’t know how to breathe that I realized I had had three separate near-drowning incidents by age 6. The last of these was during my final swimming class. None of these affected my love of the water, but they left me a poor swimmer.

I went for my lesson with Shults with great excitement, but minimal expectations. Could she really teach me how to breathe and swim properly in just an hour? Yes, indeed, she could — and did.

For me, it was the most liberating experience. I flew through the pool, especially when she fitted me with fins. I felt as if she had given me back the joy and exhilaration I experienced in the water as a child, but had lost as an adult.

Now, following my water-walking sessions, I return to the pool to practice my breathing and swimming techniques, each time increasing my number of laps. I’ve continued lessons, learning backstroke and refining my freestyle. Most important, I feel more confident and safer in the water.

My experience is not unique. Through her project, Shults has already taught infants and mature adults, including several who had never swam before, the basics of swimming and breathing.

“I decided to do this project for myself. It’s very selfish. I love seeing the looks on people’s faces when they do something they didn’t think they could ever do. I look at them and know they can do it. I get to spend that time with them pushing them to a level they never thought was possible,” she said.

Shults is looking for a few more people, particularly adults, who want to change their relationship with the water and learn or improve their swimming. If you would like to participate, visit www.faceinwater.org, or email kim@faceinwater.org, explaining your story and interest in swimming.

It’s never too early or late to learn how to swim.

tricky business, and, over time, the concrete lost its ability to sustain the stress of the engraving process, Knox said. When the first mistake occurred, an effort to correct it pretty much wiped out what funds had been set aside for maintenance.

“We tried so hard to tackle it, but it really was a bad design,” Knox said.

Salt air, sand and foot traffic also took their toll, eroding the engravings and rendering many of them difficult, if not impossible, to read. The majority of the circles remain empty, and no one has purchased an inscription since August 2008, Knox said.

Over the years, contractors have assessed the damage, but all have come to the same conclusion: start over. “They all left scratching their heads. They all said it needed a complete re-do,” Knox said.

A coalition of community groups, headed by the Ocean Beach Community Development Corporation (OBCDC), has united to do just that. The second of two public forums to discuss design features and generate ideas has been scheduled for April 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Point Loma Masonic Lodge, 1711 Sunset Cliffs Blvd.

The effort got a big boost a few months ago with a $20,000 grant from the county’s neighborhood reinvestment program through an application supported by the office of District 4 County Supervisor Ron Roberts. The money should pay for the design phase and the architectural firm KTU+A has been retained for that purpose, said Tom Perotti, OBCDC president. KTU+A has worked on the OBCDC’s other big project, the Ocean Beach Entryway at Sunset Cliffs Boulevard and West Point Loma Boulevard.

All the major community groups have voiced strong support in the effort, and even Mayor Bob Filner has expressed interest, Perotti said.

“The current plaza is in such disrepair, it doesn’t really honor the names of the veterans that are on the sidewalk,” Perotti said. “It’s past due. It’s time to show respect to the veterans and to define the space once again in a renewed effort.”

A five-member committee has been appointed to lead the effort, headed by Tom Grosch, who also serves on the Ocean Beach Town Council’s board of directors. Grosch said he’s pleased with the progress so far and the quality of the feedback from the first forum in February and dozens of surveys submitted by citizens at the forum and online.

Grosch said KTU+A will present two alternatives based on that feedback during the April 30 workshop. The alternatives haven’t been released yet, but they are said to represent a philosophical debate between those who think the sentiments behind the memorial should be expressed artistically, and those who prefer a more formal approach.

“They both meet the criteria we’ve developed, but in different ways,” Grosch said. “From those two, take a look and see what works best from both, and then combine them into a final design.”

Some design concepts have emerged that nearly everyone agrees on, Grosch said: the memorial should be moved north to the grassy area adjacent to the Ocean Beach; and a crosswalk needs to be installed at Newport Avenue and Abbott Street.

“Setting out, there was the obvious criteria — the memorial is worn down and something more sustainable and long-term had to be constructed. That was the main thing,” Grosch said. “Then you have to keep in mind that it’s a major (area) in Ocean Beach, and it has to match the community vibe.”

Still to be determined is how the worn-out sidewalk inscriptions will be represented in the final design, Grosch said. “We’ll be doing everything we can to incorporate those medallions. They won’t stay where they are.”

Several years ago, as the engravings were becoming less legible, the OBMA took photos of the memorials and wrote them all down. “We think we have all of that documented,” Knox said. After the workshop, the OBCDC and KTU+A will work on a draft final design that can be presented to community groups for more feedback, Grosch said.

Hearing set for suspected rapist

A June 3 preliminary hearing has been set for a man suspected of kidnapping and raping a woman in Loma Portal.

Michael Meretse Tesfa, 21, has pleaded not guilty to charges that also include robbery and false imprisonment of the victim in the March 18 incident.

The victim said she met Tesfa earlier that night and he asked her to go to a hotel with him, but she declined.

Shortly before 9 p.m., Tesfa is alleged to have sexually assaulted her behind Perry's Café on Pacific Highway near Rosecrans Street.

Court records say Tesfa is on probation for punching his mother in the face on Jan. 2, 2012. He pleaded guilty to misdemeanor battery and was sentenced to 180 days in jail. His probation has been revoked because of his arrest in the new case.

Tesfa is being held on $750,000 bail.

Reflections on the past: an artist's perspective

By MARSHA KAY SEFF | THE BEACON

Ocean Beach's Suzy Hagstrom never knew her paternal grandmother, who died before she was born. But nine years ago, Hagstrom started mulling over the idea of organizing an art exhibition to honor her grandma, a beloved Coronado High School art teacher.

The result is "Art through the Generations," a show that features Esther Painter Hagstrom's watercolors, etchings and other work, alongside that of some of her former students, that runs through May 31 at the Coronado Public Library.

Suzy Hagstrom plans to donate all her grandma's work — "including my favorites" — to the Ocean Beach/-Taylor Branch Library for a permanent collection. In addition to 30 framed watercolors, there are dozens of etchings and prints, ceramics, enamel on copper works, an oil painting and a woodcarving.

Though the work adorned her late parents' San Francisco Bay area home for years and, later, her own, Hagstrom says, "I feel better about letting the community enjoy her works now. I've enjoyed them all my life and now it's time for the community where she lived and worked to enjoy them."

Grandma was an art teacher at Coronado High from 1939 until her death in 1951 at age 46 from a cerebral hemorrhage. The yearbook that year was dedicated to her.

The art teacher influenced many students, Hagstrom points out, several of whom became acclaimed artists themselves. Hagstrom, who is a journalist, used her reporting skills to track down some of former students and borrow their work to hang beside their teacher's for the tribute show.

"Connecting with her students was a way to get to know her. Even students who had no interest in art remember my grandmother and her lessons on perspective." Hagstrom adds, "The exhibit highlights the importance of art in education."

Among those former students, now age 77 to 86, on display are Patty Murphy Jepson of Coronado, Coronado High School class of 1948, a commercially successful artist who sells her works and paintings on commission.

There's also Dolores Bridges Mote of El Cajon, class of '45, who has painted as a hobby all of her life; John Clampitt of Coronado, class of '54; Sarah Mott Durand of Ashland, Ore., class of '48; Lois Drake Ferguson of San Diego, class of '53; John "Jack" Minchin of Encinitas, class of '48; Doris Klindt Naccarato of Coronado, class of '51; Hildegard Jaeger Stubbs of Encinitas, who finished high school in Santa Monica, and Celeste Walkup Usler of Puyallup, Wash., class of 1951. All have had a lifelong passion for the craft, according to Hagstrom.

It's an interesting coincidence that "Painter" was the art teacher's maiden name, said Hagstrom, whose own middle name, Esther, comes from her grandmother.

Although Hagstrom's mom and dad grew up in Coronado, her mother's parents moved to OB in 1950. "Grandpa got tired of the car ferry commute," said Hagstrom, a volunteer poll worker in OB, who lives just two blocks from Sunset Cliffs, the subject of one of her favorite watercolors by her grandmother.

More information on the Art through the Generations exhibit is available by calling Christian Esquivin, director of library services, at the Coronado Public Library, 640 Orange Ave., at (619) 522-7395. Also, check out www.estherpainter-hagstrom.vpweb.com.

Hagstrom planned the art tribute to her paternal grandmother.

By ETHAN ORENSTEIN | THE BEACON

Pachis, located in Liberty Station, offers art workshops designed to teach children about a wide range of topics with the freedom of expression.

Pachis owner Juliana Flores developed the concept when she was in college and working with kids.

"A lot of the time, art is mistaken for craft, and just putting together construction paper and glue sticks and other little simple things, rather than giving it more meaning and letting the kids explore what they can do," Flores said. "To me it was really important to have them look at art as a way of expression rather than another subject in school."

The Pachis curriculum is built around four main topics called "My Self, My Community, My World and My Art." The topics inspire learning and expression about the child's individuality, other people, the community, the world, different cultures and various styles of art.

Flores said the program helps children feel comfortable with themselves, learn about their role models, discover how to contribute positively to their community and gain a wide perspective about cultures and people around the world.

"To me, it's really important for kids to understand what other kids their age are doing in any other part of the world, and also understanding why we look different or why we do things differently in terms of traditions and holidays," Flores said.

Topics like recycling and conservation are also important parts of the workshops. Flores said art can really be done with anything as long as the child has the freedom to create what they want.

"It's a little bit ridiculous that we're cutting art from the budget and from schools because you can do a lot without having to spend a lot of money," Flores said. "You can still give kids that sense of expression for a least an hour a day to make something that comes from their heart rather than just their brain."

The workshops, offered to children 4 to 12, are a unique combination of class structure and artistic freedom. Flores said allowing children to express themselves while learning has been successful.

"They really like the freedom of expressing themselves, but also having the structural part of a class," Flores said. "At the end of the day, they're learning something, they're getting something out of it, they're making something that they get to take home."

Flores said the program focuses on individual inspiration, rather than instilling technical skill. While children do learn how to work with different media, the projects they create are their own. She said kids can paint with toothbrushes to explore different textures and discover the endless things they can create with each art supply.

After each class, every student creates something completely unique, which Flores said is really how art should be.

"I went through art school and I absolutely hated being graded or my fellow students being graded over something that the teacher didn't think was the best," Flores said.

Flores said it's important for kids to create art from a young age and continue. The studio features a gallery of art and handmade items by artists from San

5K Run Walk and More

Still time to Register for the upcoming Parkinson's Walk on Saturday April 20th a family friendly, dog friendly walk for all people affected by Parkinson's. Through education, family services, and support of promising research, the Parkinson's Association of San Diego (PASD) helps to improve the quality of life for those affected by Parkinson's disease. Parkinson's is a neurodegenerative disorder that affects more than 60,000 people (patients, care partners, family members) in San Diego County. Diego and Tijuana to show children that they can make a living as an artist.

"I think you can become a better person. It sounds really cheesy, but I honestly believe you can become a better person if you have your artistic side a lot more developed," Flores said. "It makes you communicate better, it teaches acceptance, it teaches respect and caring for others. I think there's a lot of value to exposing children to that form of art rather than, 'We're all going to draw dolphins and they have to look like this.'"

For class schedules and registration information, visit www.mypachis.com.

Pachis' program helps children feel comfortable with themselves, learn about their role models, discover how to contribute positively to their community and gain a wide perspective about cultures and people around the world.

Dana Middle Mariners to present 'Pirates of Penzance'

By SCOTT LANDERS
SPECIAL TO THE BEACON

The musical theater class at Dana Middle School, led by award-winning teacher and director Mr. W. William "Bill" Cobb, will perform "Pirates of Penzance" at Dana Middle School's Ann Trip Jackson Auditorium at 7 p.m. on Friday, April 19, as part of a well-honed production of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta.

"Pirates of Penzance" tells the story of a young pirate, Frederic, on the cusp of completing his period of indentured apprenticeship.

The naïve Frederick will now be free to disembark from his life as a pirate for more honorable ways. When he arrives on shore he immediately falls in love with Mabel, one of Major General Stanley's daughters. When Frederic's former mates arrive and wishes to marry the major general's other daughters, the police become involved in this farcical test of loyalty and duty that satirizes British moral sensibilities of a bygone Victorian era.

Principal players include Andrew

Garland as Frederic and Grace Allen as the Pirate King.

Dana's fifth- and sixth-graders have been delighting audiences with musical productions ever since the campus at 1775 Chatsworth Blvd. reopened for sixth-graders in 1998 and, in 2001, for fifth-graders as well.

Many of Cobb's students graduate from Dana Middle to the San Diego

School of Creative and Performing Arts (SCPA), the premier public arts magnet within San Diego Unified School District.

Tickets are $7 and may be purchased in advance by visiting www.danamiddle.com and clicking on "Jackson Theater Box Office." Tickets will also be available at the door but it is advisable to purchase early, as seats are already selling quickly.

Senior Robert Tharp sits at the massive control board in the audio suite at the newly opened Motion Pictures Industries facility at Point Loma High School. A ribbon-cutting last week preceded public tours of the 4,800 square foot facility that also includes a screening room, video editing rooms, a studio for filming, an audio-visual hub, construction tool shed for building sets, a classroom and instructor's office. The facility, unlike any other in the county, provides students with a professional working environment while still in school.

The Raglan Public House: a welcoming place to be when going out on the town

By TERRIE LEIGH RELF | THE BEACON

The Raglan Public House, or Raglan for short, opened its Ocean Beach location a year ago, and is located at the corner of Bacon Street and Niagara Avenue. In 2006, owners Phillip "PJ." Lamont and Matt Baker opened their first restaurant, the Bare Back Bar & Grill, in Pacific Beach.

Their second restaurant, the Bare Back Grill, was opened in the Gaslamp District a few years later. In about three weeks, Lamont and Baker's newest restaurant, the Queenstown Public House, will open in Little Italy. Local architect Michael Soriano designed the Ocean Beach Raglan, as well as the Queenstown Public House.

When guests first arrive, they are greeted with a genuine smile. While the servers are busy, busy, they still create the time to stop by tables to see if guests need anything or to ensure they are enjoying drinks or meals.

Raglan is family-friendly, and children will find much to entertain themselves with the magnetic chalkboards and plastic toys while they make up their minds about which fries they want. There are also other kid-friendly and healthy-menu choices. If guests have a well-behaved dog, he or she is also welcome, but they will be seated outside.

Now that the weather is warming up, the open-air patio offers several picnic-style benches beneath a vine-covered trellis, complemented by an exterior wall with alternating panels of grass and ivy. There's also a bar-style table with additional stools that faces Bacon Street.

Inside, there are a variety of seating arrangements. The assorted wood tables, designed and built by bar beverage manager Kyle Jaworski and kitchen manager Robbie Valdez help to create a laid-back atmosphere without sacrificing comfort. Jaworski and Valdez also created the wooden caddies that hold napkins and bottles of Raglan's variety of signature aioli.

No matter where you look, there's something to discover. Whether it's the newspaper collages and magnetic chalkboards, the hanging-surfboard light fixtures or the skateboard rack. There are wide-screen TVs above the bar and throughout the restaurant. Need the surf report? They have that, too. There's also a crayon sign on the wall that reads: "Raglan Rocks. Thank you from the OBE Kids!" which was given to Raglan in gratitude for sponsoring an event, according to assistant manager Alex Cunningham.

"We have over 500 beers from all over the world and train our staff to assist customers with finding alternates to their favorite beer," said beverage manager Pat Souza. We also like to provide opportunities for learning about new beers."

If one prefers a nice glass of wine, Raglan's selection includes California wineries and Australian and New Zealand imports.

If one is looking for something a bit stronger, there's a full bar. Offerings include Red Beer, Snakebites and shandies, along with craft cocktails made with Pisco, rum, whiskey and more.

"Our goal is to go outside the box with cocktails, which range in price between $8 and $11," said Jaworski. "We try to do something that people wouldn't just order off the cuff. There's a double shot of alcohol in our cocktails, too, which is a bit different than with other places."

It's clear why Lamont and Baker's restaurants earned "Best Burger in San Diego" for 2009-12. Not only are there a wealth of styles and fixings to choose from, but they even sport a lamb burger, complete with mint jelly.

"All the beef is grass-fed — no pesticides," said Jaworski, "and we grind our own meat daily in the morning. This way, the flavor is always fresh and juicy."

The "gnarly big burgers" range from the "bare burger" at $9 to the "big, bare and dirty burger" for $15.90, with two beef patties, two friend eggs, bacon, Edam cheese and beetroot. There is also a vegan veggie burger and the contents are printed directly on their menu.

Raglan's chicken menu ranges in price from $9 to $10.90. There's variety here, too, including a choice of grilled or fried chicken. The munchies menu ranges in price from $3.50 for matchstick fries to $15.99 for a Munchie Feast, which includes several of their popular appetizers. There's also tomato basil soup and four different types of fries, each with a unique flavor palate.

One regular patron said, "It's the nicest place in OB proper."

His favorite meal? The traditional British fish and chips with malt vinegar. "I really like the tartar sauce," he added. "It has a noticeable kick."

Another patron said, "people from all up and down the coast come to Raglan because they've heard it's a cool place."

In the mood for dessert? There's the Old Float 7 — ice cream and Young's Double Chocolate Stout for the 21-and-up crowd. Under 21? You can have the Virgin Float

7 with IBC Root Beer. Additional dessert offerings involve chocolate chip, oatmeal or peanut butter cookies with ice cream.

Specials include a burger of the month, a weekly Wednesday Farmers Market special and a Saturday and Sunday happy hour drink special from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. General manager Mikey Zouroudis said, "on Sundays after 8 p.m. until closing, our entire food menu is half off. This also includes some select beers."

Raglan also has a Saturday and Sunday happy hour drink menu from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. with $3 drink specials. Since they do change-up their specials on a regular basis, be sure to ask your server what's new.

In addition to sponsoring a soccer team and hosting the 2012 award ceremony, Raglan also hosted a charity benefit for the two women who fell from Sunset Cliffs, according to Jaworski. Zouroudis said they also hosted a Big Brothers and Big Sisters event this month.

"We want to continue to grow and excel at providing quality food, quality beer and offering something new for our customers to enjoy," said Jaworski.

The Raglan Public House is open Mondays through Fridays from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 11 p.m. It is located at 1851 Bacon St. For information, call (619)-794-2304, or visit www.raglanpublichouse.com.

WWW.CUTTINGEDGEK9.COM CUTTING EDGE K9 REHAB Has Been Featured On Local & National News, Radio, A Number Of Local Papers & Magazine Articles. Swimming is one of our strongest recommendations for most K9's. It is an ideal form of exercise for a many reasons. Our rehab services offer assisted swimming in a warm water environment. The benefits are: • Non-weight-bearing (reducing stress on joints) • Facilitates full use of the front and hind legs vs. partial use as seen with underwater treadmills • Dogs are often able to actively swim although unable to move their legs on land (due to stroke/ spinal injury) • Allows manual techniques by therapist/ manual resistance to an affected limb • Swimming in a controlled environment is the safest way for clients to exercise. • Speeds recovery following injury/ surgery • Improves function & quality of life • Works reciprocal muscle groups (helps correct muscle imbalances) • Reduces pain & inflammation • Reduces canine obesity thus decreasing the risk of other health-related problems • Increases strength, range of motion & cardiovascular conditioning • Prevents overheating through proper water temperature • Increases tolerance for extended cardiovascular training • Decreases recovery time • Reduces post-exercise soreness • Provides good cross training for the competitive, athletic dog (619) 227-7802

Indie-rock Mad Traffic sets gig in advance of summer tour

By BART MENDOZA | THE BEACON

There are plenty of indie-rock bands out there trying to get the public's attention these days. Some resort to gimmicks, some to mass promotion. But the ones that seem to stick it out in the public eye for any length of time seem to have one thing in common: the ability to pen a hook-filled tune and do so repeatedly. Such is the case with Mad Traffic.

Mixing powerpop, hip-hop, new wave, rock and folk, the band has come up with a melodic sound, complete with instantly memorable songs that are big on anthemic choruses. Amid a flurry of activity, Mad Traffic is preparing to tour this summer. But, in the meantime, it will release a new single, "Thunder & Lightning," on April 20 with a CD-release show at Mother's Saloon. Then, on April 28, the band will appear on the FM94.9 program, "The Local Pyle," with host Tim Pyles. The band will wrap up the month with the release of an EP, "City," and adjacent release show at the Casbah on April 29.

Mad Traffic was formed in 2008, shortly after singer Blaise Guld moved to California from Philadelphia in search of new inspiration. He soon met drummer Dave Torr. The two ended up renting a house in Clairemont and holding living-room jam sessions and nascent songwriting sessions.

"We tried a couple of different bassists and started with two guitarists, but in the end the group grew into what it is almost organically," Guld said.

Torr suggested trying out guitarist Brian Fletcher, as well as bassist Chris Murray, who he knew from local reggae band High Tide. Blaise Garza was the last member to join Mad Traffic.

"He had been playing in another local project with Dave and came to one of our band practices one day," Guld said. "He jumped into some of our songs with his saxophone and we all knew that night that this was going to be our band."

Though the quintet has been gigging since 2008, it didn't rush the decision to become Mad Traffic.

"We played many shows nameless and used random names we came up with, like, 'Tambourine Space Helmet' and 'Cabbages and Kings,'" Guld said.

One day, Guld was stuck in traffic on the I-5 on the way to a gig, and explaining why he was running late, told band members that there is "Mad traffic on the freeway!"

"After that, the name seemed to stick and came to represent the bustling streets and lifestyles of Southern California," he said.

While the energetic sound the band conjures up is strong on its own, Guld considers lyrics to be a crucial component of the band. "(I started) writing songs, poem and short stories from an early age," Guld said. "My best friend and I back in Philly wrote a rock opera when we were 15 years old," he recalled. "From then on I knew I wanted to write lyrics and be able to perform them on stage."

Brian Fleck also pens lyrics for the band, inspired by the feeling of the words, not just the literal meanings.

"He and I bounce lyrics off each other sometimes for days or weeks until they congeal into something we can all experience," he continued. "The songs are very visual and sometimes thought provoking, with themes ranging from love to aliens and philosophy."

The band has survived all the usual ups and downs any band does. After four years of preparation, everything seems to be in place to take the band to the next level, from songs to musician-ship. Guld is succinct on the reasons why.

"Every band member has been in multiple projects throughout the years," he said. "This band is our life, music is what we care about most," Guld said. "Mad Traffic has stuck together so well because we are all writers, creators and self-innovators. We enjoy the journey of writing a song from start to finish and challenge ourselves and each other to push the envelope of our style."

He points out that everyone is equally involved in the creative process.

"It is like five fathers and the band is our baby," Guld said. "We raised it from an infant over four years ago and it is now getting smarter, reasoning and beginning to understand the way the world works."

Goals for the band this year and next include more touring, recording and releasing new material. Guld said he is happy with what the band has accomplished so far, but he's hungry for more.

"My favorite thing about being in Mad Traffic is writing and playing music with these guys," Guld said. "Every time a song comes together and we all leave band practice feeling like we made a difference somehow."

FIESTA DE REYES SPRING ENTERTAINMENT SCHEDULE SET

This spring, Fiesta de Reyes offers live, free entertainment every day of the week. The stage, located in the Fiesta de Reyes courtyard, will host a variety of authentic folk-culture performances for the pleasure of diners, shoppers and passers-by. All performances are free and open to the public.

Folklorico dancing will be performed on the Fiesta de Reyes stage Mondays and Tuesdays from 5:30 to 7:45 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 3 p.m. The term folklorico means "folk dance" in Spanish and is a collective term for traditional Latin American dances that celebrate local folk culture. Dancers wear brightly colored costumes reflecting traditional Spanish influence and dance to music featuring horns and guitars. The dancing groups at Fiesta de Reyes consist of professional dancers, students and young children.

On Wednesdays, Mariachi Divinas, the only all-female mariachi group in San Diego, will occupy the Fiesta de Reyes stage from 5:30 to 7:45 p.m.

On Fridays, the Fiesta de Reyes stage will welcome Luis Max & Blue Moon from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The band features music straight from the heart and was influenced by growing up in Mexico. Its sounds are a fusion of Latin, rock and pop music. Rich in Latin percussion with a hint of jazz, it will satisfy even the most sophisticated of musical tastes.

Last and surely not least, Fiesta de Reyes also has a roving house Mariachi band. Los Rios performs every Monday, Thursdays, and Fridays from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m., Thursdays at 5:30 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays at 3:30 p.m. Los Rios sings traditional mariachi songs, Santana, Kool and the Gang and even Pink Floyd tunes.

Fiesta de Reyes is a lively experience with a permanent party ambiance. It is located at Juan and Calhoun streets, a one-block stroll from the Old Town Trolley Station. For more information call (619) 297-3100 or visit www.FiestaDeReyes.com.

Colbert realty team notches two awards

The Kathleen Colbert Team at Prudential California Realty — consisting of Colbert, Joel Young and Andrea Young — is entering its 26th year with Prudential and boasts a total of 53 combined years of real-estate experience.

The team has just received two prestigious awards: Prudential's Chairman's Circle Award, signifying the top 4 percent of Prudential agents in production nationally; and San Diego Magazine's Five Star Real Estate Agent Award, which is given to fewer than 5 percent of agents in San Diego County. The latter award is based in part on surveys in areas as overall satisfaction and whether they would recommend the provider to a friend.

In addition to the awards, the team placed in the top 100 among all Prudential agents in San Diego County and third out of over 60 agents in their office. They represent buyers and sellers all over San Diego County with special concentration in the areas of Point Loma, North Park, Del Cerro, San Carlos, Allied Gardens and the College Area.

A majority of the team's success comes from referrals and repeat business from past clients, Prudential officials said.

"Kathleen, Joel and Andrea are strongly devoted to helping their clients achieve satisfaction in all their real estate dealings," said Jim Reifuss, manager of Prudential's San Diego central office.

Pointer wins Republican Women honor

Point Loma High School senior Brooke

Justus was selected as this year's winner of a $2,000 scholarship offered annually by San Diego County Federation of Republican Women (SDCFRW).

Point Loma Peninsula Republican Women Federated (PLPRWF), one of 23 Republican Women Federated clubs in San Diego County, chose Justus as its representative in the county contest because of her excellent essay on "What the U.S. Constitution Means to Me" and a track record of academic achievement that outpaced other entrants.

During a PLPRWF membership tea on Wednesday, April 17 at the historic Point Loma Assembly, 3035 Talbot St., District Attorney Bonnie Dumanis spoke on "Important Citizen Updates" and introduced Justus as the SDCFRW scholarship winner.

Grab Bars Provide Safety for Seniors

SAN DIEGO GRAB BARS is dedicated to helping you stay independent and safe in your own home. We offer grab bars, shower seats, and hand held shower heads to help make the bathroom a safer environment. And while the bathroom is where people normally think that they need grab bars, we can install hand rails and grab bars anywhere in your home: next to the bed, at the top of the stair case, in the hall or outside the back door.

When we visit you, we bring along a great selection of products for same day installation. Decide what diameter and texture feels best before you buy. We can match the finish of your existing hardware.

Falls are one of the main reasons people leave home and move into assisted care. Let us help you prevent falls and stay in the home you love.

Are Your Elderly Parents Resistant To What You Suggest?

Has this happened to you before? You are pretty sure that your Mom and Dad aren't eating right, aren't getting out for shopping or doctor's appointments and just seem to be having more problems than usual. You want to help but they always say, "I'll think about it" or "maybe later."

Sometimes approaching them in a different manner makes all the difference. Success may happen when you suggest change by taking into account their value system or needs.

1) They worry about the cost. Pay for the caregiver as a gift to them. Ask all the siblings to chip in a little each month.

2) Negotiate with them and avoid putting them down or being sarcastic.

3) Ask them why they don't want help and answer their fears with factual answers.

4) Tell them how worried you are. Say you'll be helping my peace of mind not "You should."

5) If they need a caregiver in the home, start small, address their concerns about losing control and let them choose the days and hours to come.

Hiring a geriatric care manager to assess your parent's will help recognize whether their resistance is coming from a cognitive deficit, she can talk things over with their doctor. You love and respect your parents and trying to help them keep a good quality of life can be frustrating with guidance and support. Call the RN Geriatric Care Managers at (877) 731-1442 or view us online at www.innovativehc.com.
