Locals discuss leads, actions in parrot killings

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Reward money probably won't matter in catching the culprits, authorities are being tight-lipped about their investigation, the identity of the shooter(s) is possibly being hushed up and juvenile(s) are the most likely perpetrators.

That was the gist of a presentation by husband-and-wife team Josh Bridwell and Brooke Durham representing SoCal Parrot, a Jamul-based non-profit animal welfare group, at a special meeting held April 21 at All Souls Episcopal Church in Point Loma.

SeaWorld drops lawsuit

The operator of SeaWorld San Diego announced April 19 that it will drop a lawsuit that challenged the authority of the California Coastal Commission to regulate animal welfare issues. The commission in October approved a project to expand orca tanks at the theme park but only under the condition that the practice of breeding killer whales be stopped.

SeaWorld executives called the condition an overreach and contended that animal welfare is governed by federal and state laws that do not fall within the jurisdiction of the commission's board.

However, the company announced last month that it would no longer breed its orcas or pursue the tank expansion project.

In a letter sent to the commission on April 18, SeaWorld withdrew its development permit for the expansion and said the legal action was no longer warranted.

"SeaWorld counsel [sic] soon will contact Coastal Commission counsel [sic] to discuss dismissal of the pending litigation," the letter said.

SeaWorld has been under strong pressure in recent years from animal rights advocates and their political supporters to reform how its marine mammals are handled.

Robert George Lockwood

October 22, 1942 to April 21, 2016

Robert George Lockwood, born in San Diego, California on October 22, 1942 passed away on April 21, 2016. Bob-O as he was affectionately called by his family and friends passed away after a valiant fight from complications from spinal cancer.

Bob was preceded in death by his parents Harry and Catherine Lockwood of Ocean Beach. Bob has two children, Jessie (Monica) and Jamie (Doug Parkes) one grandchild, Barrett, and two grandchildren, Ella, and Wyatt.

Bob as he was growing up attended school at Stella Maris Academy in La Jolla, Sacred Heart Academy in Ocean Beach, he also attended Saint Augustine High School in San Diego and graduated from Point Loma High School.

He is survived by three brothers, Richard (Linda) of Ocean Beach, Thomas of Kauai, and Jim of La Mesa. Bob also enjoyed all his nieces and nephews that loved him dearly.

As Bob was growing up he was an avid surfer. He was an original member of the Sunset Cliffs Surf Club, and the O. B. Longhorns. He participated in many surfing contests throughout Southern California and Hawaii. His favorite surfing spots were Osprey St., Rincon, and Malibu, and the big waves on Oahu.

Bob later started a career as an electrical lineman with San Diego Gas & Electric and Southern Electric Inc. His career lasted many, many, years. He worked on numerous major projects throughout San Diego County including The San Onofre Nuclear Power Plant. He later retired and moved to the Big Island in Hawaii, to be close to his son, Jesse and his family.

Bob-O loved life and had many, many friends. He was an avid bicycle rider, a good basketball player, he played basketball in leagues at the OB rec, Muni Gym in Balboa Park, Skyline, and Barrio Logan. He was involved in helping set up the three on three Basketball Tournament for the Holiday Bowl. Bob even played street hockey at the OB rec with all the kids. He loved to hike, explore, camp, and basically do anything that was fun. He will be missed by his family and friends. May He Rest in Peace.

There will be a paddle out at Osprey Street beginning at 11 o'clock on Saturday, May 7, and following the paddle out, there will be a gathering at the Ocean Beach Women's Club, which is located on the corner of Bacon and Muir St. in Ocean Beach.

Truck crashes on Cañon

In the early afternoon of April 23, an alleged drunk driver in a white pick-up truck traveled at a high rate of speed up Cañon Street, fish-tailed near Willow Street, sideswiped a car coming down Cañon Street, left the road and flipped. The truck then hit a tree, two concrete walls, two other vehicles parked in their driveways and a utility box, then landed upside down in the middle of Cañon Street. No one was killed or seriously injured, according to witnesses, and the driver escaped the crash with a cut on his lip.

Peninsula Planning Board elects Romanian millennial

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Jon Linney has been elected to lead Peninsula Community Planning Board, which advises the city on important land-use matters.

Jon Linney

Linney, 24, was elected April 21 to lead the board in his third year of service. The election was somewhat a surprise, given that planning groups and similar governmental bodies are typically populated by retirees and established professionals, not twentysomethings.

Linney was born in Romania and housed in an orphanage his first seven years. In the early 1990s, following the fall of dictator Nicolae Ceausescu, the West was shocked to learn of squalid conditions in the centers.

Linney's earliest memories are of one decent meal a day while looking to older children for any semblance of care or protection.

At age 7, Linney was adopted by a San Diego family. The flight halfway around the globe was exciting, if not

'Public service is my passion and will be my avocation if not vocation.'

JON LINNEY
PENINSULA PLANNING BOARD

bewildering, for a boy who didn't know a word of English.

Learning a difficult language was his first and most pressing task in a new culture.

"My dad would point to something and say the word. I would repeat it," Linney recalls. "I learned English in just six months."

Spoken English, that is. Written English was another matter, because tutors conversant with Romanian are not exactly common in San Diego schools. It was an abrupt transition for Linney – or Ionut (Jon), his Romanian name. He went from being immersed in filth and hunger to plunging into language acquisition in one of the richest nation in the world.

But Linney thrived in his new environment. Baseball became a passion, and by his midteens he was doing so well at Little League officiating that he received an invitation to call balls and strikes at Williamsport, Pa.

He was quite disappointed at being unable to make the trip to the Little League World Series. At Point Loma High School, his classmates noted his outgoing nature and political tendencies and began calling him Governor. They also elected him student body president.

The youthful urge to assert independence led to moving out of the house to attend Cuyamaca College and to take on jobs to pay the way. Linney committed to being a business major, but he acknowledged, "Public service is my passion and will be my avocation if not vocation."

Despite an ample load of studies and jobs to pay for college, public service has come easily to Linney. He became a YMCA director, running and being elected to the planning board in 2014. He's served as vice chair of the Point Loma Kiwanis Club and also joined the Optimists, where he and his colleagues put flags out along Rosecrans Street on Sundays. He also had a short but satisfying stint with Junior Achievement.

Sport Chalet closing all stores this month

Sport Chalet is closing all its stores and has already shut down its online sales, the La Canada Flintridge sporting goods company has announced.

The decision affects four stores in San Diego County and 33 stores in Southern California. Three Sport Chalet stores are located in San Diego – in Mission Valley, Point Loma and University Towne Center – with the fourth county location in San Marcos in North County.

A statement on the company's website said the stores will remain open until at least April 29 to accommodate gift cards and rewards certificates. An employee at the Mission Valley location said her store could be open for two more weeks or two months and that she was not told anything definitive. The store has marked everything at a 10 percent discount on already reduced prices, she said.

The announcement comes less than two months after another sporting goods retailer, Sports Authority, declared bankruptcy and announced it would be closing its Grossmont Center location in La Mesa.

Sport Chalet was founded in 1959 by Norbert Olberz, with its first store in La Canada Flintridge, where it remained headquartered for the next several decades. What began as one specialty sporting goods location expanded into a string of full-service sporting goods stores across the Southland and eventually expanded to Northern California, Arizona and Nevada. Sport Chalet went public in 1992.

San Diego Beach Winery Hosts Barbera Fest

Gianni Buonomo Vintners Celebrates Launch of Second Label

Gianni Buonomo Vintners Winery and Tasting Room is releasing the much anticipated 2013 Amador County Barbera and Zinfandel at their inaugural Barbera Fest on Saturday, April 30. This casual, picnic-style event is open to the public from 1PM to 5PM and takes place at the brand-new winery just steps from the Pacific in the heart of Ocean Beach. The showcased Barbera and Zinfandel were sourced from the renowned Oakmont Vineyard in the Shenandoah Valley of Amador County. Immediately after harvest the grapes were brought to San Diego to vinify and age in French oak barrels. These wines are being released under the winery's new second label, Gianni California.

And who is Gianni California? "It's probably important first to know who Gianni Buonomo is," explained Winemaker and Managing Partner Keith Rolle. "Gianni Buonomo is the consummate gentleman...always elegant, always well groomed, always well mannered. Buonomo means good man in Italian." And Gianni California? Rolle laughs, "You can think of him as the California beach version of Gianni Buonomo."

Hone your artistic skills at The Hot Spot Studio

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

If pottery painting and candle making is your thing, check out The Hot Spot Studio in Liberty Station this spring.

Budding ceramicists and chandlers can hone their skills at the studio serving all ages at 2770 Historic Decatur Road near Stone Brewing World Bistro & Gardens-Liberty Station.

Best of all, and unlike most similar studios, there are no studio fees at The Hot Spot.

"We serve anybody from 9 months old, coming in to get their hands and feet painted, to adults of all ages," said Lexi Champagne, company spokesperson, noting the studio's pottery is premade and that people select items to paint and finish them in kilns.

Kiln firing lends a super-glossy, shiny look to the finished, painted ceramic product.

Champagne said they get lots of school children.

"We get a lot of school activities and events," she said. "We have students from one school coming in and making a huge tile wall at their school with tile squares, and the students are painting the tiles."

The Hot Spot has been in Liberty Station nearly four years.

"It's an open studio," said Champagne. "People are welcome to come in and just take a walk around."

On a typical weekday late afternoon, a mom and her two kids were Another adult, a woman who identified herself as Kali from San Diego, was cutting wax pieces to melt into her ceramic cup.

"I made this mug here a few weeks ago for my birthday party, and now I'm making a candle to fit inside it," Kali said, noting the entire process "is really fun," while adding she likes that there are no studio fees, which cuts down on the cost.

RSVP to help San Diego police in Ocean Beach

By HANNA LAUKKANEN | THE BEACON

Retired Senior Volunteer Patrol (RSVP) in San Diego is calling for more volunteers age 50 and retired amid a large area to patrol – Point Loma, Ocean Beach, Linda Vista, Hillcrest, North Park and Mission Hills.

RSVP works with the San Diego Police Department and is a nonconfrontational group that doesn't carry weapons. "If we have any problems, we contact SDPD, and they will help," volunteer Mike Hughes says.

Uniformed volunteers enforce regulations on handicapped parking, conduct vacation home security checks, perform traffic control, patrol accident scenes, business districts, parking lots and school zones and provide homeland security support.

They also answer Balboa Park tourists' questions as ambassadors of San Diego.

The YANA project (You Are Not Alone) is also part of RSVP: Volunteers visit seniors in San Diego. If they are requested to do so, they'll visit three times a week to check that everything is OK and that the caregivers have done their job.

Applicants for RSVP must be U.S. citizens, have valid California driver's licenses and have the physical ability to perform patrol duties. Volunteers have to participate in at least three patrols a month and attend a meeting once a month. The patrols last five to six hours. Volunteers are asked to commit for one year.

RSVP, half of whose volunteers are women, was established in the mid-1990s. Hughes has been a volunteer for 14 years and says it has been fulfilling.

WANT TO HELP?

■ Retired Senior Volunteer Patrol seeks more volunteers. If you want to apply to be part of RSVP, you have to be over age 50 and retired.

■ Volunteers offer a one-year commitment that includes at least three six-hour work shifts per month and attendance at a monthly training meeting usually the first Tuesday of the month.

■ Contact: Mike Hughes at (619) 692-4945, or m.hughes@cox.net.

ENJOY THE BEAUTY OF OLD TOWN

Mention Old Town San Diego and most folks will start talking about Mexican food whether it's the restaurant their family has been going to for generations or a new discovery they've made recently. And rightly so. If there is a capital of Mexican cuisine in San Diego, it's definitely Old Town.

Increasingly, though, people are discovering what locals have known for years. Old Town is also the place to go for shopping and Fiesta de Reyes is the place to hit up if you're in the market for a unique gift or specialty item you just can't find anywhere else.

Fiesta de Reyes is home to 19 unique specialty shops featuring authentic, historically themed, one-of-a-kind items that are perfect for gifts or for yourself. From hot sauces to silver jewelry, from olive oil to toys, from unique garden items to original artwork, books to wine to jerky all of the specialty shops of Fiesta de Reyes are locally owned and independently operated.

Of course, if you really want authentic Mexican food with your shopping, Fiesta de Reyes also features three fantastic restaurants that celebrate San Diego's rise from a Mexican village to a thriving culinary and commercial mecca. Add to that, the nightly entertainment and Fiesta de Reyes is not just a shopping center, it's a vibrant shopping and dining experience.

For more on the shopping, dining and entertainment at Fiesta de Reyes, go to fiestadereyes.com or just visit in the northeast corner of Old Town San Diego State Historic Park. 2754 Calhoun Street, San Diego, CA 92110.

11 Critical Home Inspection Traps to be Aware of Weeks Before Listing Your Peninsula Home for Sale

POINT LOMA AND OCEAN BEACH - According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the 11 most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an old home or a remodeled one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the closing of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether. In most cases, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for. And, knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help home sellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed, a free report entitled "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To order a FREE Special Report, visit www.SanDiegoHousingInformation.com To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-800-364-4730 and enter 1003. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Get your free special report NOW to learn how to ensure a home inspection doesn't cost you the sale of your home.

Pointers fall to Vikings in thriller at Petco Park

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

For 25 members of the Point Loma High School varsity baseball team, it was an evening they will never forget, three hours of their young lives that will live forever in their memories.

On April 18, they stepped through a gate along the left field foul line at Petco Park to do what few youthful players have done, playing a regulation Western League game against La Jolla on the immaculately manicured surface that is home to the San Diego Padres.

What was it like to play in the cavernous stadium?

"It was a great experience being able to pitch on that mound for a couple innings," said junior relief pitcher Roman Paniaqua. "I had a fun time out there, wasn't really nervous and just wanted to play the game and pitch. It's probably the one and only time I'll ever be able to play there."

Just days earlier, their scheduled game on the big ballfield was postponed following rains that undoubtedly left the Padres and their army of groundskeepers uncomfortable with the vulnerability of the wet turf. But the Padres had April 18 off between series with the Arizona Diamondbacks and the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the game was quickly rescheduled.

The Pointers warmed up on the big ballyard's surface with an 8-8 record (0-2 in league) while the Vikings came in at 13-4 (2-0).

"It was pretty special to get out there just to see what it's like," said senior third baseman Phillip Huber. "You see all these games played on TV and never realize how nice and how well taken care of those fields are. We're honored to play on a field like we do at Dana, but that was sure special, especially under the lights."

The game began well for the Pointers, designated as visitors and occupying the third base dugout, as they took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning then extended it to 3-1 in the sixth.

Entering the seventh and final inning, the Pointers needed only three outs to chalk up their first league win of the season. But it just wasn't meant to be.

Head coach David Wells paraded three relief pitchers to the mound in an attempt to quell the Viking rally, but a sharp single to center field brought home the winning run with two outs for a 4-3 walk-off La Jolla win.

Before the winning hit, the Vikings closed to 3-2 when the ball went through a Pointer outfielder's legs for the team's only error of the game.

A relief pitcher's balk brought home the tying run before the game-winning hit by the only batter faced by the third reliever.

Junior Mathew Amberg had a big day at the Petco plate, as he went 3-4 and scored a run.

Freshman Anthony Hall and junior Aidan Yackly each had two hits, with Yackly scoring once.

Junior Frank Rogozienski had a hit, as did Huber and Spencer Gedestad, each of whom drove in a run.

"I was honestly a little nervous going up there (to the plate) especially with runners in scoring position," Huber said of his run-producing hit. "I took a pretty big hack and missed, so I decided to shorten up (my swing) and try to put the ball in play and gave myself an RBI."

On the mound, senior Cole van den Helder drew the start, going five innings, giving up three hits, one earned run, walking six and striking out six.

"I was pretty nervous warming up, but it went away when the game started," van den Helder said. "I was very happy we got to play a night game. The lights really added to the whole experience." While he wasn't really pleased with his performance, he added, "I think I gave my team a pretty good chance to win."

Perhaps Huber spoke for his teammates when he said, "I'm never going to forget that game. I'm never going to have that opportunity again, and I feel blessed to have played there."

Extra bases

Last Friday the Pointers rebounded to skunk Mission Bay at Dana on a complete game 1-0 shutout thrown by sophomore Mitchell Sardo for their first league win of the season. Sardo scattered four hits, walked one and struck out six.

The Petco Park game marked Gedestad's return to action following an injury sustained when the ball, following a failed bunt attempt, struck him in the eye, fracturing a number of facial bones in addition to injuring his eye. He played with a clear protective mask strapped around his head.

The Pointers last played in Petco Park April 19, 2013 as Josh Azar threw a complete game 1-0 shutout, also against the Vikings. Catcher Chance Jimenez's single to right field sent Cole Lemmel scampering home with the only run of the game.

Dehner named Athletic Trainer of the Year

Point Loma resident Niki Dehner, head athletic trainer at Francis W. Parker, and Robbie Bowers, head athletic trainer at Rancho Bernardo, have been co-named Athletic Trainer of the Year by the San Diego High Schools Athletic Trainers Association.

Dehner is a certified athletic trainer and a longstanding, respected member of the profession.

Under her leadership, Francis W. Parker School was awarded the first and only Safe Sports School Award in San Diego from the National Athletic Trainers Association, demonstrating that the school had taken crucial steps to keep its athletes free of injuries.

Coastkeeper's Ocean Commotion Concert on April 30 in Pacific Beach

San Diego Coastkeeper invites San Diego to party for area waters at its fifth annual Ocean Commotion Concert on Saturday, April 30 at Campland on the Bay. The event celebrates aquatic playgrounds and raises money to protect and restore San Diego County's water quality and supply.

"Ocean Commotion is a celebration of our water," says San Diego Coastkeeper Interim Executive Director Travis Pritchard. "Local musicians, businesses, families and friends put things on hold for a night to celebrate what makes San Diego so great: our fishable, swimmable, drinkable water."

Event sponsor Campland on the Bay provides the ideal outdoor setting for a night in honor of one of San Diego's most precious resources. Beer will be served by local breweries, and the stage remains in earshot of beach access to iconic Mission Bay. Attendees have the option to stay the night at Campland in a tent or RV.

Oceanside's The Barnwell Shift will again donate a performance and headline the show. Known for their progressive yet playful "shift rock," The Barnwell Shift is a talented trio of musicians who shift musical instruments and genres while artfully blending the sounds of funk, folk and rock. The band challenges the traditional one-person, one-instrument musical norms while eliciting a truly unique crowd response filled with their smooth and shifty grooves.

The Barnwell Shift and San Diego Coastkeeper started Ocean Commotion five years ago to unite musicians for a cause dear to residents of San Diego – clean water. The band and nonprofit recruit additional artists for the event, who offer volunteer performances so that ticket costs wholly benefit San Diego Coastkeeper's work. The organization will announce more bands soon.

In addition to funky music, guests can participate in a drawing for prizes from an array of local businesses. Past years' drawings included gift certificates to restaurants and breweries, surf and skate gear, apparel, vacation stays, beach rentals and more.

Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 the day of the show. Parking inside Campland is also available for $10 a vehicle. For more information about this event, visit sdcoastkeeper.org.

27 SDWS Members paintings selected for WFWS 41st annual exhibit

The San Diego Watercolor Society is pleased to announce that watercolor paintings by 27 of its members have been juried into the Western Federation of Watercolor Societies (WFWS) 41st annual exhibit to be held at the Arvada Center for the Arts and Humanities, in Arvada Colorado (a suburb northwest of Denver). These 27 SDWS paintings were chosen from among over 1065 entries from 12 watercolor societies by nationally known juror Sterling Edwards. The exhibit will be comprised of 135 paintings by WFWS members from throughout the Western United States.

The exhibit, which is free and open to the public, will run from June 9 through August 28, 2016. WFWS exhibitions are hosted by a different member society every year. This year's exhibition is hosted by the Colorado Watercolor Society. The Western Federation of Watercolor Societies has a combined membership exceeding 6,000 and was founded in 1974 to encourage and recognize artistic excellence in watercolor and encourages the visibility of watercolor as an artistic medium through these annual exhibitions.

Point Loma Artist Wins Top Award

Roberta Dyer, an artist and resident of Point Loma won First Place in the highly competitive April Member's exhibit, "Art Adventures" at The San Diego Watercolor Society. Her painting titled "Jongleur 3, Carnivale" was given the honor by award-winning juror Marilyn Grame who felt the painting was "dynamic, a strong image with nice, clean colors".

Roberta grew up in Atlanta, Georgia, visiting the High Museum of Art and going to the fledgling Piedmont Park Art Festival, imagining her art hanging on the panels among those artists. Art has always been a passion for her. She attended Vanderbilt University, earning a BA in Art History. Returning to Atlanta after graduation, she continued pursuing her love of art, taking classes in her spare time at the High Museum and Georgia State University.

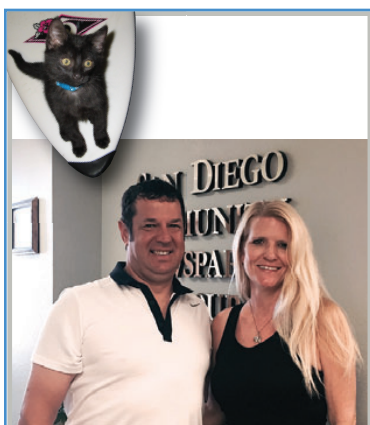

"Through art, I try to show my surroundings in a different way. Having lived in a city all of my life, my art reflects an urban environment. I am fascinated by people existing in a crowded world while maintaining personal space, and I love the commercial/industrial areas of cities. By combining drawing and painting with collage, I can illustrate my world, whether the work is representational or abstract."

The exhibit will continue at the San Diego Watercolor Society's gallery through Sunday, April 30th. The gallery is located in the Arts District Liberty Station at 2825 Dewey Road and is open Wednesday through Sunday, 10 am to 4 pm. The exhibit is free to the public. Log on to www.sdws.org to see more of the exhibition paintings.

Experience the artistry of tea

If you want to know about Point Loma Tea, you need to get to know its owner, Cheryl Graf. Cheryl is a life-long tea enthusiast, really – since childhood. Some of her earliest memories are of spending time with her Grandmothers in the Midwest having tea parties. Her Mother, as a Minister's wife, was well known for her hospitality, welcoming visitors to her home with fresh-baked goodies and tea. Cheryl's first job as a teenager was assisting the British owner of a Boarding House in Bellflower, CA provide afternoon teas for her guests, serving tea, polishing the silver, and more. As a wife and mother, she often worked in Church Hospitality and Women's Ministries, and helped organize many tea events, from a dozen participants in a home, to kid's tea and etiquette events, to hundreds of women in hotel ballrooms. In 2000, after a successful career in office administration, Cheryl had the opportunity to "retire" from that career, and follow her passion for tea and hospitality as a full-time career. And that journey over the last dozen years culminated in the opening of Point Loma Tea in October 2012. For Cheryl, it is all about the experience you will have when you explore the awesome specialty teas and related accessories in our store, and in your home, with your family and friends.

Bite of Point Loma feeds PLHS' coffers

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Hundreds of hungry, happy people will descend upon Liberty Station's finest restaurants Tuesday, May 3 to sample their tastiest wares during the third annual Bite of Point Loma event.

The event is a major fundraiser for Point Loma High School, supplying many needed items to enrich the academic lives of students that are critically needed and not included in today's lean school budgets.

For $35 a person, patrons will be able to stroll the peaceful grounds of Liberty Station from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., socializing with others and sampling offerings from such favorites as Oggi's Pizza & Brew-house, Luna Grill, Fig Tree Cafe, Tender Greens, Panera Bread, Cold Stone Creamery, Slater's 50/50, Point Loma Tea and Vons in addition to newer eateries such as the Mess Hall and Cecilia's Taqueria, located in the just-opened Public Market.

Tickets for the event were still available at press time; however, the event has sold out each year, leaving late registrants unable to satisfy disappointed taste buds.

Tickets can be purchased at biteofpointloma2016.mydagsite.com/. $250 sponsorships and contributions of any dollar amount can also be made there. A link also allows persons to sponsor a specific PLHS teacher or staff member for $20.

Students are also welcome at $20 per ticket.

Organizers are hoping to raise $10,000 to continue funding items that directly affect students and their ability to complete projects and progress toward college entrance.

The event is hosted by the school's Pointer Association and has raised funds during its first two years for items such as a new sound system for the heavily used Performing Arts Center on campus; paint, tools, tables and canvases for art classes; recovery beds for the nurse's office; musical instruments; science lab equipment and lab stools and equipment and even to replace outdated textbooks for advanced placement classes.

Dana Middle students performing 'Anything Goes'

The musical theater class at Dana Middle School will be presenting the Cole Porter musical "Anything Goes" in the Jackson Theater Auditorium at 7 p.m. Friday, May 6.

Forty-two students in fifth and sixth grades have been rehearsing the young performers edition since coming back from winter break in January. The great Porter hits are there – "De-Lovely," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Friendship" and the rousing title song top the list.

The show, under the direction of Dana's award-winning theater teacher Bill Cobb, is the 16th presentation in the 15 years since the inception of the elective class.

This has been a busy year for the class. In November, the children performed their annual song and dance revue. A week before the show, the Paris terrorist attacks occurred, and the students elected to add a song: "Do You Hear the People Sing," from "Les Miserables." In January, they were invited by the San Diego Gulls hockey team to sing the national anthem before a game. They were then invited back in March for both the national anthem and "God Bless America." They've already performed before more than 20,000 people this year.

Tickets for "Anything Goes" can be purchased online by going to the box office link at danamiddle.com. The cost is $9 a ticket plus service charges. Handicapped seating is available by contacting Cobb at (619) 225-3897 or via email at wcobb1@sandi.net.

Middle schoolers honored for documentaries

By HANNA LAUKKANEN | THE BEACON

A class of middle schoolers from Correia Middle School in Ocean Beach participated in a nationwide documentary contest called StudentCam, held by the C-Span cable television network, with three winning an honorable mention in the contest.

C-Span received 2,887 films from almost 6,000 students in the nationwide contest, with the winners announced last month.

Tristan Cooper made a document about the Syrian refugee crisis, and he noted he would want that issue to be discussed in presidential election. He had seen the crisis in the news and thought that he would help the refugees by making the issue known.

"At first," Cooper said, "I thought that this was only a school project and I was just going to get it done. But after talking with everyone, it was really a good learning experience, and I learned a lot about Syrian refugees."

He also interviewed 52nd District Congressman Scott Peters for his documentary.

"Going to Scott Peters' office was the most fun I had with this project. It was a really cool opportunity to meet and interview him," Cooper said.

Jacqui Power and Stella Bruce made a documentary about ocean pollution. They have always lived by the ocean and love animals. They note they are concerned about the fish and sea animals dying because of waste and pollution in the sea, adding they are interested in politics.

Hill named Blunt Scholarship winner at PLNU

By NEAL PUTNAM | THE BEACON

Jordan Hill, a junior English literature education major at Point Loma Nazarene University, was named April 8 as winner of the Blunt Scholarship, named for an underground student newspaper that published in 1976 at the college.

Hill is the first person to win the $1,000 scholarship, funded by former students and supporters who published The Blunt newspaper. They have contributed $13,000 to the scholarship fund, with the former students playing a role in selecting Hill.

Hill was deemed "Blunt-worthy" by the alumni selection committee, said Dr. Michael Christensen, who is on the committee and now works at the Wesleyan Center on the Point Loma campus.

"He demonstrated...not only his social consciousness and progressive ideas but his willingness to push the boundaries of the dominant culture of PLNU with a playful wit and satirical style," said Christensen.

The criteria for selection as Blunt scholars include the requirement that recipients embody the original radical spirit of The Blunt and are committed to free expression and fair exchange of controversial ideas.

The name of the underground paper was satirical, and its pages were filled with humor. The students who formed The Blunt previously worked on the official student newspaper, The Point, before The Point's funding was cut by the college administration.

"This scholarship is directed toward students with an interest in creative writing and reporting," said Carol Foster, a former Point editor and Blunt writer who helped negotiate the agreement and endowment campaign with the college administration.

The scholarship is also conferred in honor of literature professors Noel Riley Fitch and Michael McKinney.

Hill, from Bonita vista, is the son of a Lutheran pastor. He is the creator, producer and host of a show on YouTube in which he impersonates a conservative pundit.

"Jordan has distinguished himself through his quick wit, cultural satire and intelligent participation in my literature courses... (and) he is an independent thinker who does not always follow the rules," said Prof. Carol Blessings.

A 40th anniversary issue of The Blunt will also be published on campus.

ADMINISTERING YOUR TRUST UPON YOUR DEATH

by: Dick McEntyre, Attorney at Law

You may wonder what is involved when your successor trustee administers your revocable living trust following your death. Here are the primary actions (not necessarily sequential) your successor trustee will need to take:

1. Arrange for the on-going care of your pets; secure your home; and make the final arrangements for the disposition of your body.
2. Order several Death Certificates through the mortuary to be used in connection with closing financial accounts and transferring title to real property.
3. Mail out "Notice to Beneficiary/Heir" letters as required by California law.
4. Obtain preliminary value of your estate to determine whether a federal estate tax return may need to be filed with the IRS (within nine (9) months from the date of your death).
5. Open a new checking account in the trust name (or convert an existing account). This account will be used to pay all of your debts and on-going trust expenses. In this connection, obtain from the IRS a new income tax reporting number (EIN) for the trust which the bank will require, since your trust became irrevocable upon your death.
6. Transfer title to all financial/brokerage accounts from your name into the successor trustee's name, or close (sell the assets in) all or some of such accounts and transfer the proceeds into the new account in the trust referred to in Para. 5 above.
7. Locate all outstanding bills and pay same from the account referred to in Para 5. above.
8. Make claim for any death benefit(s) payable on your death.

9. As to any personal property in your estate, have an appraisal of such property made by an estate personal property appraiser, and sell such property and deposit the sale proceeds into the trust bank account, or divide such property among the entitled beneficiaries based on value or as otherwise required by the terms of your trust.

10. Obtain date of death values of all other property in your estate. Your banks and brokerage firms can provide the trustee with a statement(s) covering the time of your death and/or a letter providing the date of death value(s) of such account(s). The trustee will probably need to hire a qualified real estate appraiser to value your real property(ies) (needed for income tax basis purposes).

11. The trustee should keep a good record of all trust income and expenses and trust distributions, since an accounting should be provided to each beneficiary at the end of the trust administration.

12. The trustee should pay to himself or herself the compensation he or she is entitled to under the terms of the trust; and if none is provided for, "reasonable compensation" as authorized by California law.

13. After all estate expenses and debts have been paid, make the distributions to your beneficiaries called for by the trust.

14. Have an accountant prepare and file the needed income tax returns for you and for the trust.

Rhapsody on the Point showcases young musicians

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

A celebration of student music will take place May 13 when the Instrumental Music Program people at Point Loma High School take over Shelter Island's Humphreys Concerts venue to showcase the excellence of young musicians in the program.

This year marks the ninth annual Rhapsody on the Point at the stunning bayside location, an opportunity for the community to enjoy classical music in an intimate and elegant setting while sharing its pride in the astonishing talent and energy of PLHS musicians.

A cocktail hour begins at 6 p.m., followed by the concert at 7 p.m.

Performing will be the PLHS Instrumental Music Wind Ensemble, Concert Band and Symphony Orchestra.

The concert is the primary fundraiser for the popular program that now occupies the new Dr. Dan Nelson Music Center on campus.

How badly is funding needed?

"There are kids right now in band without an instrument to play," said PLHS Instrumental Music director James Sepulvado. "It's a wonderful problem to have!"

The program flourishes not only from the dedication of students and staff but also from a collaboration with Dana and Correia middle schools, which annually send talented musicians.

This year, 40 new students entered the program, stretching the marching band's inventory to the limit. Every last uniform and instrument is in use, and forecasts say more than $15,000 may be needed just to keep up with enrollment.

Sepulvado's message to the Peninsula community is blunt: "We can't keep up with the skyrocketing enrollment, and we need help from the community."

Tickets to the event at all levels are available, and donations can be made at rhapsodyonthe-point.com until May 10. General admission tickets only may be purchased at the door.

General admission tickets are $45 each or $80 for a pair. Future Pointer tickets for those up to age 15 are $15. All include admission and an unreserved seat. Hosted dessert and coffee at intermission are also included in all tickets.

Preferred seating closer to the stage is $100 per pair and includes an appetizer plate.

Reserved and premium cabaret seating is available at $250 (table for two), $500 (table for four) and $1,000 (table for eight) and includes varying numbers of drink tickets, program listings or ads and event signage.

The event is black tie optional and includes a cash bar.

Event sponsorships are being accepted in the amounts of $250, $500 and $1,000.

A silent auction featuring vacations and other luxury items will be held, with bids ending at intermission.

This year's Rhapsody on the Point honoree is the Point Loma Summer Concert Series, which organizers emphasize has very generously supported all music programs in Point Loma and Ocean Beach.

Ocean Beach's Jesse Egan hosts 'Tonight In San Diego'

By BART MENDOZA | THE BEACON

San Diego has had several TV programs dedicated to entertainment over the years, but nothing quite like "Tonight in San Diego," a full-scale variety talk show celebrating the people, art and sounds of the area, staged in the tradition of such classics as the "Tonight Show," "The Late Show" and Conan. Viewable on YouTube, episodes started filming in 2014.

Hosted by long-time Ocean Beach resident, comedian Jesse Egan and produced by Fale Louis with a cast of 35 volunteers, the program is taped Mondays at the Spreckels Raw Space downtown, with each week's episode including an opening monologue, guests from a wide range of fields, comedy bits and a musical guest, all with a live studio audience.

A native of Arlington, Va., following a brief stay in Clairemont, Egan has lived in Ocean Beach for 16 years.

"I remember visiting a friend in

Jesse Egan

OB and thinking "wow, what a fun place, it's right by the water and there's like 20 bars in a row on this one street, I want to move here!" he said. "The thing I like about OB is it's got a small-town feel, a lot of the people that work there and live there know each other and say hello - so it's friendly and it's a less touristy beach town than some of the other ones in San Diego."

He credits his family for a life in comedy. "I think I was mostly inspired to be a comedian by them," he said. "I've always wanted to make my mom laugh, to make her happy. My younger brother is very funny and my father tells a lot of dumb puns, so I think it's a combination of all that."

A list of Egan's favorite comedians would include Richard Pryor, Rodney Dangerfield and Dave Chapelle. "I think the first comedy album I ever heard was Mel Brooks' '2000-Year-Old Man,'" he recalled. "I thought it was so funny - it made me want to tape little skits with my brother." He notes that he was influenced by more than comedy. "I also always loved Dean Martin; he's like my entertainment role model. The guy made everything look like a breeze. He was so talented and funny at everything."

Egan became host of "Tonight in San Diego" this year, in its fourth season, rising up through the ranks of the folks who work on the show.

"I started as a guest, doing stand-up," he remarked. "After that they had a season with all guest hosts and I did one episode. They liked it and I became a writer for the show and the co-host for Jeff Krapf who had got the hosting gig.

"We did two seasons together, and when he left they wanted me to stay on as the co-host. They were holding auditions for the host position and some other comics that I knew were going out for it. I really wanted to try out the big chair, so I had a meeting to ask the producer, Fale Luis, if I could audition for the role.

"I think he saw that I'd cut my pony tail off and was serious about this, so he gave me a shot."

It was the last audition for the host that was held and it was quickly apparent that it went well.

"They showed up later that night at a stand-up show that I had downtown with champagne and signs that said 'You are the new host!' It was unbelievable and exciting, and I am truly just so grateful for the opportunity," he said.

With so much hard work going in to a weekly show, Egan notes how he won't be able to do much stand-up

TONIGHT IN SAN DIEGO

Where: The Spreckels Raw Space, 923 First Ave.

When: 7:30 p.m. Mondays, all ages.

for the moment - but don't count him out completely.

"I haven't been booking as much lately just so that I can focus on the show," he said. "I feel a responsibility to do my absolute best on that show so I maybe neglect doing stand-up as much as I would like. But whenever I have a new joke that I'm excited about I make sure to get out there and try it somewhere."

With three shows under his belt as host, Egan is clear on his mission for the show. "We want to keep getting the best guests in town and showcasing the amazing personalities and talents of America's Finest City," he said.

"My goal is to try to bring in as many of my friends and comedians, improv people, musicians, artists and writers to collaborate with us on this show to make this a project that San Diego does together."

parrots since Feb. 19 in the Ocean Beach area, Durham said reward money being offered for information leading to prosecution of the culprit(s) is now up to $7,000.

But she added she doubts that will make a real difference in capturing those guilty of animal cruelty, a crime punishable by up to one year in jail and a $20,000 fine per count with any conviction remaining on the defendant's record.

"We know career criminals will give up other criminals for money," Durham said. "But here we're dealing with something that is much more community-based, and (therefore) money is not the motivating thing here."

Animal cruelty is defined as "malicious, intentional or cruel maiming, mutilation, torture or causing unjustified pain, suffering, wounding or killing of living animals."

Durham hinted there are some strong leads in identifying the Ocean Beach parrot killers, but added, "Right now there's not enough to go forward with a prosecution." She said SoCal Parrot has taken the initiative in "going out into the community and encouraging people to say what they've seen."

Durham suggested the identities of those responsible is known, but that that information is likely being withheld due to neighborhood peer pressure.

Noting the shooter(s) are probably using airguns with BBs and pellets, Durham pointed out, "It's illegal for anyone under age 18 to use an air-gun without written parental consent." But Durham was quick to note air-guns are not in the same category as hand guns and other firearms, which use black powder for pellet propulsion.

As to leads, Durham said, "We have clear indications, from multiple sources, that a particular group of juveniles may be involved," while adding there's also a strong likelihood that the identities of youths who may be involved is being suppressed by their parents, who could be threatening their neighbors with legal action if they allege their children are involved.

Durham also said SoCal Parrot has essentially been "locked out" of the investigation into the parrot killings by police and animal control. She's been told by those organizations that SoCal Parrot's involvement would interfere with the ongoing investigation.

Josh Bridwell gave a slideshow presentation on parrots noting there are three primary species found in San Diego and the Peninsula, none of which are native and most of which are threatened. He said most of the wild parrots in San Diego and Southern California have migrated here from Mexico, where deforestation has destroyed trees they live in and feed off causing them to

The slideshow presentation showed an alarming decline in the wild parrots' habitat, which has dwindled to a remnant of the huge areas they once inhabited before agriculture led to wide-scale deforestation altering the natural environment and driving the birds out.

Durham likened the parrot-killing case to a jigsaw puzzle.

"Every little bit of information given to the authorities, the better the picture is," she concluded.

Anyone with information about the parrot killings is urged to call the county Department of Animal Services' parrot information hotline at (619) 767-2766 or (619) 236-2341. Callers can remain anonymous.

Community planners in Midway also got an invitation from Ocean Beach Town Council to participate in a Sunday, May 22 get-together of Peninsula civic leaders. The event will start at 10 a.m. at a yet-to-be-determined location in the beach community.

The Point Loma Patients Consumer Co-Op at 3452 Hancock St., the first medical marijuana dispensary legally approved in Council District 2 and which opened in August of 2015, came in asking for planning group permission for a proposed building expansion.

Jim Bartell, of Bartell & Associates, representing the co-op, said the expansion was a small addition of 672 square feet, enough to expand counter space and relocate the manager's office and a dispensary safe room.

An architect for the remodel said the expansion would bring additional lighting, security and landscaping out front within the same building.

Asked why the expansion was necessary, attorney Gina Austin, of the Austin Legal Group, representing the dispensary, replied, "The space we have today can't service the clients we have."

Planning group board member Jacob McKean, proprietor of Modern Times Beer, an existing Midway microbrewery, said the dispensary so far has exhibited exemplary behavior.

"We're just down the street from them, and there's been no negative impact at all," McKean said.

The vote was 6-1-2 in favor of the dispensary's expansion.

In an information item, Patti Phillips and Cybele Thomson, from the city's Real Estate Assets Department, briefed planners on the status of city-owned Sports Arena leases.

"A permit has been pulled to demolish the old (vacant) Black Angus Restaurant, something I'm sure you'll be happy about," said Phillips about the former restaurant space at 3340 Sports Arena Blvd.

The remnant restaurant, long an eyesore, will be torn down soon, Phillips said. She added the city is also in the middle of negotiating a lease extension to 2020 for newly remodeled Dixieline Lumber at 3250 Sports Arena Blvd.

"I feel the city has been less than forthcoming with this group in terms of its future plans (for the Sports Arena)," Kenton said, adding, "I understand you're not obligated to share anything with us. But a lot of us have significant investments in residences, businesses or properties, and we're not getting anything back from the city in terms of what it's thinking about."

City officials responded that they weren't holding back information, adding that they will continue to apprise the group of new real estate developments as they arise.

Staff members at Dana Middle School are proud of their campus and are eager to share it with prospective families and community members, so they've set aside time

Dana Middle School is the public school serving grades 5 and 6 on the Peninsula. It operates on a traditional calendar. The school is located at 1775 Chatsworth Blvd. at the corner of Narragansett Ave. The principal is Scott Irwin.

The San Diego Military Advisory Council announced Tuesday that it has formed the SDMAC Foundation, a nonprofit charity to support the

The funding is designed to supple-

"We started the SDMAC Foundation as a means to allow individuals and corporations the opportunity to make tax-deductible, charitable contributions toward initiatives that truly benefit our active duty military based in San Diego and help us better educate San Diegans about the importance of the military and defense communities in our region," said Pete Hedley, president of the foundation and a founding member of SDMAC. "One hundred percent of dollars raised will go directly toward these efforts."

The proposed center is currently being designed, and the plan will go before City Council for approval soon. It would be located on a lot owned by Hillel at the intersection of La Jolla Village Drive and Torrey Pines Road.

The reopening will feature a two-part celebration, highlighting the start of a 25-year public-private partnership between the City of San Diego and Westfield. The afternoon portion will consist of a ribbon-cutting with the mayor and community leaders, followed by a larger community celebration in the evening. The community celebration will include live music, art and entertainment, featuring an internationally renowned performer and artist (to be announced at a later date). Both events will be free and open to the public.
