NEW MURAL IN OB IS THE BEE'S KNEES

By THOMAS MELVILLE

Earlier this year, Celeste Byers received a message from local beekeeper Shauna Aiken. She wanted to commission Byers to create a mural to honor the memory of her late Grandma Willie, while calling attention to the importance of bees, as well as history of OB.

Peninsulans walk to end homelessness

Local women raise funds for the cause

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Some people are talking the talk with the homeless. Others are walking the walk.

Father Joe's Villages' A Short Walk Home, the first 2.1-mile charity walk to end homelessness, will take place Saturday, Aug. 5 from 8 to 11 a.m. starting at the Embarcadero Marina Park, 200 Marina Park Way. Marchers will walk through a giant door at the finish line.

March participants are forming teams and working together with family, friends and neighbors to support Father Joe's Villages' mission on this charity walk. All contributions will help Father Joe's Villages move individuals and families off the streets and into their own permanent homes.

Two Peninsulans are marching for the homeless on Aug. 5.

Judge commits Guerrero to state psychiatric facility

By NEAL PUTNAM | THE BEACON

A judge has committed Jon David Guerrero to a state psychiatric facility after he was found mentally incompetent to stand trial in four murders in Mission Bay, Ocean Beach, and elsewhere.

San Diego Superior Court Judge Margo Woods read the psychiatric report on Guerrero, 40, and committed him July 26 for treatment. Another judge had suspended criminal proceedings July 14 and sent it to Woods to hear the report.

This is the second time Guerrero has been sent to Patton State Hospital for treatment. He was first

MURAL

Maybe those three things don't seem like they would work together in a painting, but Byers has a little different perspective of things. The Ocean Beach native describes her work as conveying the "mystical in the everyday and magic beyond what we can perceive."

Byers is an internationally-renowned muralist, who has painted more than 45 murals in the United States, Sri Lanka, Vietnam, Mexico, New Zealand, and Australia. This mural will be her fourth in her hometown.

Obecians are familiar with her work on the side of Teeter, at 5032 Niagara Ave., the store front of Often Wander Noon, at 4993 Niagara Ave., and on the alley side of Chris' Liquor and Deli, at 2275 Sunset Cliffs Blvd.

The 28-year-old artist has a BFA from Art Center College of Design in Pasadena and makes her living creating freelance illustration and murals. You can check out (and buy) more of her artwork at her new art show at Culture Brewing Co., at 4845 Newport Ave., from 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 4.

This latest mural, in the alley between Newport and Niagara avenues (near Kilowatt Brewing), is on the side of an apartment building owned by the Aiken family, who bought property in Ocean Beach in 1887 when lots were only $50.

The woman portrayed in the mural, Grandma Willie, was a colorful character who lived in Ocean Beach in the '60s. She wore different colored nail polish on every nail and her husband built UFOs in the front yard and sold tickets for people to view them, according to Aiken.

ART SHOW

What: Ocean Beach artist Celeste Byers, will exhibit her paintings, and drawings.

Where: Culture Brewing Co., at 4845 Newport Ave.

When: 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 4.

Info: celestebyers.com.

Byers used a black-and-white photo of Grandma Willie – wearing the hat and glasses – added color and included bees and honeycomb on a blue background. "I like bright, bold colors," she said. "I want it to stand out."

Byers stood out in her early 20s when she stood up and painted the side of her father's airplane hanger with humpback whales in kelp beds. That painting got her noticed and led to more mural requests and eventually a paying gig, which led to another, and another, and now 46 and counting.

She has worked for such diverse companies as New York Times, American Express, Medium.com, and Lucky Peach Magazine.

Last year, Warner Bros. asked Byers to design a Wonder Woman mural to paint at Comic Con for the superhero's 75th anniversary.

Also in 2016, she created a mural titled "Freedom / Captivity" on the side of La Bodega Gallery, at 2196 Logan Ave., for PangeaSeed Foundation's Sea Walls: Murals for Oceans project.

"It's great to be able to paint at home in Ocean Beach and around San Diego, but I love being able to travel," Byers said.

"When I'm in another country, I like to immerse myself in a community and let it inspire me for my next mural. That makes me happy, and hopefully other people are happy with the results."

Ocean Beach Woman's Club: Laying a new foundation

(This article is the final one in a series about the history of the Ocean Beach Woman's Club.)

The Ocean Beach Woman's Club has reached more than 50 percent of the floor campaign goal. This article focuses on a more recent event, historically speaking – 1997 – when a fire nearly destroyed the club's entire building.

But first, some heartfelt thank you's.

To the Peninsula Beacon and editor Thomas Melville, who have faithfully published our stories on page 4 over the last seven issues. We appreciate your support. Thank you!

To Steve Yeng and Steve O, San Diego, for providing a Facebook voting opportunity on Social Ocean Beach FB, which kick-started our campaign with a $2,500 donation. And to the community who voted those dollars to us! Thank you!

To The Holding Company (Steve Yeng again!), which is hosting a fundraiser on our behalf to generate the remaining funds needed for our new floors. Please join us on Thursday, Aug. 17. Tickets cost $30, include a one-hour hosted bar before the show, and 100 percent of ticket sales go directly to our campaign. There will be raffles with excellent prizes as well as great reggae music by Big Mountain. Thank you!

To the Ocean Beach Town Council, who generously included the OBWC in their grants for 2017. Thank you!

To the many of you who sent in donations, including a woman who received a scholarship from the OBWC in 1957, thank you!

We're still shy of our goal and would greatly appreciate your support. Please visit GoFundMe at www.oceanbeachwomensclub.com. Every dollar counts!

And now, the fire!

There are more than four boxes of archival history on the fire that nearly consumed the clubhouse on Sunday, Sept. 21, 1997. It is believed the fire began when a couch, that stood over an open-grated floor furnace, caught alight. It took 20 firefighters about 20 minutes to extinguish the blaze, which charred the entire interior of the club.

"There was so much heat ... fire and heat damaged the whole thing, the whole assembly area. There's pretty extensive damage. They'll totally have to rebuild." (Fred Herrera, SDFD, Beacon, 9/25/97).

As we poured over our archives to create this series of articles, many of the documents and scrapbooks had burned edges, having been rescued and spared from destruction.

Deflated, but not defeated, the

The Peninsula Beacon's coverage of the 1997 Ocean Beach Woman's Club fire.

OBWC launched a campaign called "We Will Rise from the Ashes." And they did! Through the support and continued charity of our giving community, the club raised enough money to completely rebuild, and hosted a community thank you event.

Following suit, we also want to thank the community for their support in our fundraising campaign. Perhaps it's just coincidence but we will begin laying our new floors exactly 20 years after the fire. So on Thursday, Oct. 5, the OBWC will host a free community open house. Look for more information as the date approaches in both the Beacon and social media. And to those of you who have already donated, thank you! We hope to see everyone at the club to admire our new look in October.

Ask The Trust & Estate Attorneys

Question:

My child is having their 18th birthday soon, is there anything that I need to know?

Answer:

At the age of eighteen your child is no longer a minor in this state.

You can no longer get health information from their doctors or deal with their school and the paperwork. Your child needs to make their own decisions in their Advance Healthcare Directive regarding whether or not they want their life artificially prolonged and whether they want to donate organs. They also need to name an agent to make healthcare decisions for them in the event that they cannot do so for themselves. It is also a good idea for them to name an agent on a Power of Attorney to perform financial transactions for them and access their bank account.

In order to fix this, I had my son sign an Advance Healthcare Directive and Power of Attorney on his 18th birthday!

While at age eighteen your child may not be ready to create a Trust, having an Advance Healthcare Directive and Power of Attorney in place can save their family a lot of trouble in the event that something does happen. Have them come in and create these documents before they go away to college!

WALK

Point Loman Ann Wiczorek is leading a team of walkers, including her daughter and several women from her church. Calling themselves "Heart of Gold," the team has already fundraised more than $300, earning a spot in the top five fundraisers so far.

Obecian Ann Link regularly volunteers at Father Joe's Villages. She is now leading a team of walkers calling themselves "Leading Ladies." Her team has already raised more than $600 – the second highest fundraising effort thus far.

Together, these two women are rallying Point Loma and Ocean Beach to tackle San Diego's homelessness crisis.

Link first got involved with Father Joe's Villages when she retired five years ago.

"I wanted to do something to help our community and it seems like we have a disproportionately large homeless population in San Diego. I wanted to know why and what was being done about it," she said. "I chose Father Joe's Villages because they are a well-established non-profit and seem to be tackling the homeless problem in a comprehensive, this as an opportunity to combine really living my faith with my profession. My motivation is simple: to help serve others."

Obecian Ann Link and Point Loman Ann Wiczorek will walk for the homeless.

Wiczorek said the purpose of a Short Walk Home is to "Spread the work of FJV's mission: ending homelessness one life at a time. It's intended to benefit all of FJV's efforts throughout San Diego. In my own 'neck of the woods,' Ocean Beach and Point Loma communities have seen a significant increase in homelessness, to the point where homelessness awareness and issues surrounding homelessness constitute some of the central issues facing the community, and certainly some of the most discussed issues."

Wiczorek added, "Rents have increased, pushing more and more individuals out on the street. We love San Diego and our community, but we can't be blind to the significant problems facing the margins of our society – and I should mention those margins are getting bigger. On our part, I've created a team called 'Heart of Gold' made up of the men and women of Sacred Heart Church in OB. We will walk together on Aug. 5 in support of FJV's mission."

New sculpture approved for Nimitz Blvd.

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Thanks to the Point Loma Association, Taiji, a 13-foot sculpture the nonprofit has commissioned, is being donated to the city for public display in Point Loma on the Nimitz Boulevard median.

The money for the PLA's sculpture was donated by Point Loma philanthropist Dorothea Laub.

Working closely with the city's senior public art manager, a group of volunteers on PLA's Art Committee has applied to, and been accepted by, the Commission for Arts and Culture to have the aesthetic, kinetic Taiji sculpture approved. The committee vetted artists and commissioned submissions. People voted their preferences at multiple public presentations.

Taiji or kinetic art is art from any medium that contains movement perceivable by the viewer or depends on motion for its effect. Canvas paintings that extend the viewer's perspective of the artwork and incorporate multidimensional movement are the earliest examples of kinetic art. Kinetic art is a term that, today, most often refers to three-dimensional sculptures and figures such as mobiles that move naturally or are machine-operated. The moving parts are generally powered by wind, a motor or the observer.

Discussing his work, sculptor Jeffrey Laudenslager said he was approached by the PLA and happened to have an "existing inventory piece" that the nonprofit approved of for its median beautification project. Though Laudenslager's wind-driven sculpture is 14-feet tall, he noted, "It's not a heavy piece," pointing out it comes apart in pieces and can be relatively easily installed.

"It's a serious sculpture working on the yin-yang principle," said the sculptor.

In Chinese, yin and yang describe how seemingly opposite or contrary forces may actually be complementary, interconnected, and interdependent in the natural world, and how they may give rise to each other as they interrelate to one another.

"All of my sculptures have the character of movement, which tends to be slow, deliberate and very precise," Laudenslager said. "I don't do rapid spinning objects. Taiji is a particular yin-yang symbol, not the black-and-white symbol most are familiar with. It's more of an open work. Each of the black or white symbols have a circle in it. It's a simple piece — yet very complicated."

Speaking on behalf of public art on the Peninsula, PLA president Clark Anthony said, "In 60 years of working to beautify our community, the PLA has used addition and subtraction. We've worked to subtract bill boards, overhead powerlines, weeds, graffiti and strip clubs. We have added colorful, water-wise plantings, and public art, like brightly decorated utility boxes and inviting welcome banners showcasing unique Peninsula features."

"In Point Loma today, we have four pieces of art from the city's collection of about 500," said Anthony. "One piece is at the Hervey Branch Library. Another is at 2392 Kincaid Road at the SDPD and Fire Training Center near the airport. Another is at 2799 Carlton near the road to Shelter Island, except it's on a side street with next to no traffic — wheeled or walking."

Anthony noted the final piece of PLA-commissioned art is tucked away at the Point Loma Wastewater Treatment Plant, way beyond the SPAWAR entrance and nearly inaccessible by unauthorized personnel. This is why PLA volunteers have worked for several years to bring a wonderful sculpture to the Nimitz Boulevard median, where people can actually see and enjoy it without having to make a pilgrimage."

Anthony added the city, about six years ago, approved a PLA plan to turn barren plots of land at the end of Interstate 8 and Friars Road into a well-landscaped entryway to the Peninsula. "The plan called for trees and other vegetation to reach all the way down Nimitz Boulevard," he said. "It also called for public art, and a cement pad was installed in the median. However, at that time no funding was available."

Taiji, a 14-foot sculpture, will be installed at the Nimitz Boulevard median.

Peninsula Community Planning Board discusses Jennings Street housing project

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

At Peninsula Community Planning Board's July meeting, planners grappled over approving a controversial proposal to put two single dwellings on two contiguous lots on Jennings Street, before deadlocking and taking no action following multiple motions.

The project at 3424 and 3434 Jennings Street was asking for a Coastal Development Permit to construct two single dwellings totaling 4,894 square feet on the two adjoining lots totaling 0.17 acres in Point Loma's wooded area.

"We couldn't find anything we could 'go after' based on our community plan," said Mark Krencik of PCPB's project review committee regarding the Jennings Street proposal.

Noting the controversial project was originally approved in 2009 and permitted in 2011, (an approval which expired in 2013), Krencik said the resubmit is for "a new and improved project."

According to the San Diego Development Services Department, there have been five building permits filed at this property over the past six years.

'We couldn't find anything we could go after based on our community plan.'

MARK KRENCIK
PENINSULA COMMUNITY PLANNING BOARD MEMBER

Krencik pointed out both homes are three stories, adding the project site is designed for up to nine units per acre.

A couple of community members spoke out against the Jennings project, arguing its bulk and scale was too great, and that the project's style would be out of character with the surrounding neighborhood.

One critic at the July 20 PCPB meeting argued the project, if passed, would "set a precedence we don't want to see for the whole Peninsula community."

Another opponent contended the project's lot size would far exceed the percentage of lot coverage typical for that neighborhood.

Other neighbors suggested the project was dangerous because it would be built on a hillside with a history of mudslides.

"None of the neighbors want two homes built on these lots — they're too small," argued one critic summarizing opposition to it.

PCPB planner Robert Goldyn pointed out the community plan suggests that "lots that need to be merged, we need to take a look at it."

Other points were raised both for and against the Jennings Street project. One person argued that, with projects similar to this one, "The intent has always been to merge these substandard lots." Yet another neighbor countered they believed current zoning regulations "do not allow building on lots less than 5,000 feet."

"I think the neighbors should be listened to," said board member Jerry Lohla before casting his vote on the project.

Motions were brought both to deny, and approve the project, neither of which vote carried a majority. So the project officially went down as being stalemated, with no action officially taken on group approval or disapproval of the project.

Midway planners consider adding private security

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

The Midway Community Planning Group in July debated whether or not to continue to seek a private security company to increase surveillance in the large commercial-industrial Midway District, before opting to continue to pursue that objective.

"We need to talk about the business improvement district funds and the (enhanced) security project," said group chair Cathy Kenton, who had some bad news for the group on the effort.

"The City Attorney's office came back and informed us there would have to be a limitation in the contract with the (private) security service," Kenton said, adding, "We were also told that that security could only be provided in the public right-of-way with letters of intent."

Kenton questioned whether that was an acceptable condition. She suggested the group ought to consider "pulling our authority (previously given) to move forward on this project."

that existed several years ago in the North Bay has long since disbanded. Kenton estimated there is about $70,000 in previously collected fees from the defunct North Bay bid, which must be reused in prescribed ways for business improvement in the area.

Though she has serious reservations about spending that bid money on adding security now, when doing so could only be done in the public right-of-way, Kenton concluded, "I would prefer not to just drop [security], or table it, for the time being."

MCPG voted in favor of continuing to consider adding private security.

The group also announced it will not meet in August. MCPG meets the third Wednesday of the month from 3 to 5 p.m. at San Diego Community College.

Dramatic helicopter rescue at Sunset Cliffs on Sunday

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

The dullness of a warm and humid Sunday afternoon along Sunset Cliffs was interrupted by numerous sirens and eventually a rescue helicopter after a beachgoer experienced difficulty breathing Sunday, July 30.

That man is now safe after a dramatic rescue from a shrinking beach as tides rose.

Original reports at 4:38 p.m. described the stricken man located at the foot of Ladera Street. However, first responders learned he was actually about 200 yards south and directly below the Point Loma Nazarene University campus.

A second call was placed for a fire truck with its increased amount of equipment.

Terrain above the man's location, with plentiful deep ravines and little level land, prompted San Diego Fire-Rescue personnel, including numerous lifeguards on the scene, to put in a call for the department's Copter 2.

Within minutes, the helicopter approached, circled the site and landed on a nearly-level patch away from the cliffs, hurling brush and sand into the air.

A plan was formulated and the rescue craft again rose into the air, hovering over the beach while lowering a cable hundreds of feet to lifeguards on the beach.

Minutes later, the stricken man, strapped into a rescue basket and accompanied by a firefighter/paramedic, became visible as they were raised up slowly to the copter, which began slowly moving out over the ocean as the pair rose towards it.

After the patient was aboard, the helicopter returned to its original landing spot below the PLNU campus where he was transferred to a waiting paramedic unit for transport to a local hospital.

A San Diego Fire-Rescue battalion chief on the scene said an evaluation of the subject by paramedics indicated a flight to the hospital was not warranted.

The battalion chief estimated a total of 25 personnel responded to the incident, which concluded in about 55 minutes.

Longtime reverend retires from Holy Trinity Anglican Church

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

After some 37 years, the Rev. Canon Lawrence Bausch, of Holy Trinity Anglican Church of on Sunset Cliffs Boulevard, is passing the baton to colleague Father Paul Gibbons, whom he's known since seminary.

"I'm 68, and, as much as I love still being involved, the church is at the point where, in its future, there needs to be someone able to have a vision and strategy to see us into the next phase in our congregation's life," said Bausch, adding, of his successor Gibbons, "Mostly, I'm hoping I can get out of his way so he can build his own pastoral relationship."

Bausch has presided over Holy Trinity since 1979. All four of his children, now young adults, attended Point Loma High School.

Located four blocks from the ocean, Holy Trinity Parish has been a continuous Anglo-Catholic denomination for 95 years. In 2006, with virtually unanimous concurrence of its members, Holy Trinity separated from the Episcopal Church. The Episcopal Diocese immediately filed suit; and in 2010 the parish was ordered by the court to surrender all its church buildings and personal property. The church has soldiered on, leasing space at Bethany Lutheran Church across the street to continue to host its weekly church services. Meanwhile, Holy Trinity's active search for a new permanent home continues.

Among other things, the parish is widely known for hosting four to six Celtic music concerts annually.

On its website, www.holytrinity-ob.com, the congregation notes two significant challenges face the next rector: an aging, shrinking population and lack of adequate physical facilities, which hampers both activities and membership growth.

'I started surfing before I started praying.'

REV. CANON LAWRENCE BAUSCH
RETIRING FROM HOLY TRINITY ANGLICAN CHURCH

In 2010, the parish had approximately 200 members and its average Sunday attendance (with two services) was approximately 99 people. In the intervening five years, parish membership had dropped to approximately 142; and (with only a single, early service) Sunday attendance has declined to approximately 52.

Bausch, an SDSU grad, noted Holy Trinity has only had two rectors in the last 63 years. Interestingly enough, Bausch was familiar with OB before he became a minister there.

"I started surfing before I started praying," he quipped.

Among the community-based things Holy Trinity has been doing during the Bausch administration, is cooperating with Loaves and Fishes, a local food bank that distributes food three mornings a week from the Episcopal Ministry Center.

"Since the late '90s we've also done community outreach, which is to host Celtic concerts," Bausch added.

Of his legacy, Bausch commented, "We've left what I would call a theologically orthodox, yet socially open-minded community, to help people to come to a deeper knowledge of God, if they wish, and to support them in that wherever they are."

Bausch believes the old days of

"you build a church and they will come," are done.

For Holy Trinity to continue to remain viable, Bausch said, "We need to go to wherever the people are, instead of them coming to us. We have to make ourselves increasingly available."

Guerrero's attorney, Dan Tandon, said his client suffers from "severe mental illness."

Guerrero has yet to even have a preliminary hearing and Deputy District Attorney Makenzie Harvey had planned on presenting four days of witnesses in the grisly slayings that occurred a year ago.

Railroad spikes were plunged into the bodies of three of the murder victims and other survivors. The identification of two victims was found in Guerrero's apartment after he was arrested on July 15, 2016.

The first homicide victim was Angelo DeNardo, 53, who was attacked where he was sleeping under the Interstate 5 bridge near Mission Bay on July 3, 2016. His body was set on fire after he died.

Shawn Longley, 41, died in Ocean Beach where he was sleeping on July 4, 2016. Another man was attacked in the Midway District after a railroad spike was driven into his sinus cavity and he survived, but was left blind.

The third murder victim was Dionicio Vahidy, 23, who was found dead on July 6, 2016, downtown. A fourth murder victim was Molly Simons, 83, who was walking to a bus stop in North Park on July 13, 2016 when she suffered a skull fracture. Simons is the only female victim.

He previously has pleaded not guilty. He is also charged with special circumstance allegations that allege multiple victims were killed. He is also charged with assaulting many victims who also survived.

That's the spirit: Moniker General to launch cocktail venue

By MARTIN JONES WESTLIN | THE BEACON

Even as it falls apart around your ears, your bathroom doesn't get a re-do without the proper tools and materials and lots of planning. Neither do you buzz your lawn unless your mower's crazy with gas and has the blades to match (presumably, you've switched out the rockery for grass by now).

So why would you invest in barware from afar, especially against that immaculate new landscape and the 21st-century lavatory? Well, you wouldn't. Or at least you won't have to after Aug. 3. That's when San Diego-based Moniker General will introduce The Bar at Moniker General – a made-to-order cocktail concept at Liberty Station's premiere space for all things community and retail.

Twenty San Diego- and Baja-sourced beer selections await, along with wine and cocktails from an indoor space that won't quit. If you prefer, you can take it all in from a new gated 1,300-square-foot patio, replete with picnic tables, Adirondack chairs and greenery.

This can't help but set the mood for the latest installment of the shopping experience that's made Moniker General a destination venue; the ambience is designed to move the venue's bar carts, glassware and items for homemade craft cocktails. They're welcomed additions to the store's stock of Southern California-style brands, including furniture and select national names like Linus bikes and Stevan Alan sunglasses.

In its quest for the unusual fare and the palate to go with it, Moniker General has launched a toast menu featuring locally made ingredients from the Liberty Public Farmers Market and several Point Loma vendors. It's proven such a success that Moniker plans to bring the delicacies to The Bar. Cheese plates, vegan options and gluten-free bread will be among the orders of the day.

And don't you dare pass up the Hunky Dory sandwich, comprising goat cheese, zucchini, turkey, honey and cracked pepper.

"The whole Moniker General concept," spokesperson Carissa O'Connor says, "is to create a space for the (NTC) community. Families, artists, Point Loma residents and everyone can come together to grab a coffee and a cocktail or a bite to eat." O'Connor adds that Moniker has quite a few dining events and other leisure activities as it pursues its creation of a neighborhood within a neighborhood.

The peeps at NTC like Moniker so much, in fact, that they're rolling out some new venues sooner than you realize. A colorful Peruvian rotisserie called Pisco (named for Peru's national drink) is set to open its 5,000-square-foot space in a couple weeks, followed by chicken and vegan options at health-conscious Poke 1-2-3.

Club Pilates, opening in August, sounds like the ticket to exercise away all that extra grub. Or you could walk it off at Pigment, expanding to NTC this fall from its well-known North Park location. Pigment features a curated collection of local giftware and postmodern furniture and will offer space for shoppers to create custom plant arrangements.

NTC has announced a number of updates on new properties and six new tenants among its more than 30 vendors. For more, see liberty-publicmarket.com.

Local entrepreneurs find success with Rau, a healthy chocolate vitality drink

By MARSHA KAY SEFF | THE BEACON

Thanks to two Pacific Beach millennials, you can have your chocolate and drink it too – guilt-free.

Brian Watrous and his former college roommate and track teammate, Daren Myers, came up with the "concoction that kept us revitalized and feeling great all day long" in their own kitchen. Their organic breakfast shake proved so popular with people who tasted it that the buddies decided three years ago they had the beginning of a business.

Today, according to the partners, Rau Chocolate is sold in 500 West Coast locations, including Whole Foods, Spouts and Ralphs, for about $3.99. The company hopes to add another 250 outlets in the next few months.

When Watrous earned his degree in economics from the University of Connecticut and Myers finished his bachelor of science with a pre-med specialty, the two decided to head west. Back in 2009, they bought one-way tickets to San Diego and Watrous found a job in financial services, while Myers worked as a personal trainer.

The self-proclaimed health enthusiasts describe their creation as "a

WHAT IS RAU?

Rau is the result of hand picking organic, fair trade cacao beans straight from the tree, infusing them with pure organic spices; creating a concoction inspired by the Mayans – naked of all unhealthy refined sugar, dairy, and preservatives.

Info: www.drinkrau.com drinking chocolate with healthy fats, antioxidants and a few thousand plant nutrients. We looked at what is unhealthy about chocolate milk and did the opposite," Watrous says.

Meanwhile, they scoured the market for "healthy, quick-on-the-go, taste-great chocolate drinks" and say they didn't find anything without lots of sugar and preservatives.

Not marketed as a protein or energy drink or a meal supplement, Rau is a "vitality beverage," according to the co-founders.

Watrous says, "It's similar to drinking a cold-pressed, green vegetable juice." It's sweetened with low-glycemic, organic coconut palm sugar and includes theobromine, "which is like caffeine but without the jittery effect. The other side of the coin is what's not in it: high amounts of refined sugar, dairy, soy, artificial colors and flavors."

The partners say Rau is the first cold-pressed chocolate drink on the market, meaning it maintains the nutritional value of the cacao. They're especially proud that the ingredients are sourced from farms that "pay a healthy, living wage and don't cut down the rain forests."

Myers points out, "We're a generation that realizes the planet is going in the wrong direction and we are the ones who can do something about it."

The dark chocolate drink comes in six flavors: bold original, semi-sweet, salted caramel, coconut, cold brew mocha and mint.

The name Rau is invented "just three letters to express the simplicity and the cleanliness of the brand."

Myers, who's in charge of manufacturing and operations, and Watrous, who finds new markets, used their savings to get started. They launched the business with in-store demos, asking customers for feedback.

Along the way, family and friends invested and, recently, Greg Koch, founder of Stone Brewing Co., became an investor. A year and a half ago, Rau became a full-time business for the co-founders.

Lyle W. Butler

Lyle W. Butler, a native San Diegan, passed away peacefully July 20, 2017 at age 92. Perhaps being born on St. Patrick's Day and part Irish contributed to the luck of him having a fulfilling and rich long life.

Lyle spent his early years in Mission Beach during the Great Depression. He frequently said those days were the best days of his life. One of the many stories he told was of how he would hop over the fence at night at Belmont Park and search under the rollercoaster for coins that fell out of the rider's pockets because he knew just the right spot. Later he attended Loma Portal Elementary, and graduated from Point Loma High in 1943. Lyle was an enthusiastic swimmer and surfer, one of the few who was well known at that time in the Ocean Beach and the Sunset Cliffs areas. Summer of '42 he was a lifeguard in Pacific Beach.

During WWII he served aboard three battleships as a Seagoing Marine in the South Pacific arena. Most notably, he was an orderly to the legendary Rear Admiral Oscar Badger aboard the Iowa which is permanently berthed in Long Beach.

Returning to civilian life in 1945 Lyle attended San Diego State College. He made lifelong friends at Sigma Chi fraternity. Two years later, he joined his father, Corney and brother, Neil and established Butler Realty. With his admirable work ethic, charm and integrity, Lyle was a trusted and respected Real Estate businessman for over 50 years. He developed properties in the Midway and Chula Vista areas.

In 1948 Lyle married his high school sweet heart, Marylyn Stevenson of Ocean Beach with whom he shared 50 years of commitment until her passing in 1998. They lived in Point Loma where they raised two children.

Too numerous to name, Lyle participated in a wide variety of clubs and community organizations. He was a Charger ticket holder for over 40 years and supported Aztec football as well. He traveled extensively but happily contended that San Diego was the best place on earth.

Later in life, Lyle was fortunate to find love a second time, and in 2007 married Bonnie Brauel with whom he shared a wonderful and affectionate marriage for 10 years.

As a friend, father, a grandfather and a husband Lyle was literally the best. He was a treasure to all who knew him, hence the nickname "Mr. Wonderful". The generosity and love he gave his children and grandchildren was inspirational. He will be deeply missed and loved forever.

Lyle was predeceased by his brother, Neil. He is survived by his wife, Bonnie; his daughter, Patricia Butler; son, Peter; son-in-law, Jim Seman; and daughter-in-law, Wendy Butler; grand-daughters Liz and Katie Seman.

A faithful follower of Christ, Lyle was the last remaining Charter member of the Point Loma Community Presbyterian Church where he was active for 80 years. In lieu of flowers donations may be sent to the church. His Celebration of Life is planned for Aug. 14th, 2 PM at the church.

Apricot Yarn & Supply opens in Liberty Station

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Apricot Yarn & Supply is the definition of mom and pop.

On a typical afternoon, owner Sara Heckman, two of her children and her mom can be found in their retail space tucked away in Liberty Station's Arts District at Suite 101, Barracks 19 at 2690 Historic Decatur Road. They are doing what they love to do best — spinning yarn and helping others negotiate the home arts.

Heckman grew up in the Peninsula, but lived for a time with her husband and family in New Jersey.

"In the town where we were living there was a woman who opened an art shop," said Heckman explaining how she first got the notion of getting into yarn retail. "I learned knitting from my mom, and when I was pregnant with my first daughter, I started knitting again and I had little kids and was making sweaters and stuff."

She talked about how her plans to invest in her own business led her to Liberty Station.

"Liberty Station is an up-and-coming thing, I had an art studio painting upstairs a couple years ago," Heckman said. "We were looking at Point Loma and Ocean Beach, and it just wasn't really the right vibe. So we ended up in Liberty Station and are really happy to be here."

Apricot has been open since July 14. The fruit for which the yarn shop is named derives from an apricot tree in Heckman's grandmother's yard that reminds her of the jams her grandmother made.

Heckman pointed out making garments from hand by yarn is relatively inexpensive. With a skein, which costs about $10 to $30, you can make a shawl, a wrap or other similar garments.

"A set of knitting needles you can get for under $10, yarn for $10 and a pattern for $5 — and you could have something to start going," Heckman said adding, "We have three accredited teachers who teach knitting and crocheting."

Apricot carries yarn made from fibers from both animals, like wool and alpaca, and plants, instead of yarn from petroleum-based fibers, like acrylic. "We also have yarn from wool where the sheep were raised here in the United States and all the milling and dyeing, the whole process, was made here in the United States," Heckman said.

"We also teach classes on different techniques of making crochet," Heckman noted. "We have all the accessories and other things, like kits for kids, anything that you might need."

Discussing her motivation for opening a yarn shop, Heckman said, "I love having a place where people can learn and fall in love with some new fibers that they've never seen before."

Apricot also carries special soap for washing hand-created woven garments.

MohaviSoul CD release show in OB

By BART MENDOZA | THE BEACON

One of Ocean Beach's favorite bands, MohaviSoul, will host a CD release show at The Holding Company on Aug. 10. The modern bluegrass sextet will unveil their debut album, "Hometown Blues," on a bill set to include Americana combo, Coral Bells.

Featuring Randy Hanson (mandolin), Dan Sankey (fiddle), Mark Miller (guitar), Jason Weiss (banjo), Orion Boucher (bass) and Will Jaffe (dobro), with all except Sankey contributing vocals, MohaviSoul formed in 2012 as an outgrowth of a San Diego songwriters group where Miller and Hanson met and began collaborating, initially for songwriting contest "The Game," in which contestants write a song to a given title.

"We came together through song writing which is still one of our strengths, along with some amazing musicianship," Hanson said good naturedly. "Basically, Mark and I collaborated on a 'Game' song called 'Every Second,' which was so well-received we knew we needed to take this further." The pair were joined by Boucher and Weiss shortly after that and immediately headed into the studio to record their first EP, "Every Second," followed in quick succession by a second EP, "Blue Diesel" later that year.

While MohaviSoul is definitely an Americana group, Hanson points out their sound is actually a little expansive. "While we have the full instrumentation of a traditional bluegrass band, our song writing and musical influences span the gambit of genres and styles," he said. "Most of the members of the band started in bluegrass but also have roots in rock, jazz, folk, and blues."

The current public fascination with Americana in general began with the 2000 film, "Oh Brother Where Art Thou," but rather than create a short-lived fad as some other music related films have, bluegrass and other folk music have shown amazing staying power.

"My influences in bluegrass go back to the amazing revolution of contemporary bluegrass from the 1970s-1990s such as the Seldom Scene, Country Gentlemen and the Dillard's, as well as the Dead, New Riders, Poco and many others." He points out that "amazingly, San Diego has a rich tradition of bluegrass artists and bands, but both contemporary bluegrass and Americana have really emerged in popularity because there is so much new and original music," Hanson said. "Plus there are great festivals and venues that are supporting this type of music for all ages, but especially for younger music lovers. So the genre keeps growing and creating new sounds, songs and artists."

"Hometown Blues," was recorded with producer/engineer Ben Moore at Singing Serpent Studios in Kensington and was mastered by Gavin Lurssen at Lurssen Mastering in Los Angeles, perhaps best known for working on "Oh Brother Where Art Thou." "It's our third and first full length CD on Mannequin Vanity Records," Hanson explained. "The album also features San Diegan John Mailander on fiddle."

Following their show at The Holding Company, MohaviSoul will be promoting the new album by hitting the Southwestern festival circuit, including Vista's SummerGrass (Aug. 18), the Santee Bluegrass Festival (Sept. 9) and the Las VeGrass Festival (Oct. 15). In the meantime, Hanson is happy to be back at the Holding Company.

"OB is our home, so even though we are mainly playing festivals these days," he said. "We love to come back and play for the home crowd in the hood so this should be fun. We played at THC earlier in the year with the Alabama band, Iron Horse, so we know this is a great venue for bluegrass."

MohaviSoul will play Thursday, Aug. 10 at The Holding Company, 5046 Newport Ave. at 9 p.m.

The BBQ House-serving the best BBQ for 25 years

BBQ House OB has been devotedly serving San Diego with award winning BBQ since 1991. For over 25 years, their family has been working to bring you nothing but the best slow smoked meats and homemade side dishes the BBQ world has to offer.

Abdullah and sons Davin and Melvin completed their 3rd expansion just last year. As for the oak smoked meats, the slow method they use produces tender, mouth-watering beef, pork, ham, chicken, and ribs for you to enjoy. Originality is key to their many delectable side dishes, crafted from family recipes that have been perfected over the years. And Don't forget what ties this all together, the award winning BBQ sauce. Whether you like it sweet, savory, spicy, or all of the above, the divine sauce is sure to please your taste buds. BBQ House also offers a full bar with 30 beers on tap.

The menu offers a multitude of intriguing selections that exceed conventional BBQ. They also offer catering; whether it's a business meeting, special event, or party, BBQ House has several delicious options that are perfect for your guests. Allow them to handle the food and ease your work load so you can focus on enjoying yourself. Located on Newport Avenue, in the heart of Ocean Beach, the restaurant is just steps away from the pier. The outdoor seating is perfect for those of you who'd like to take in the ocean breeze and sunshine while dining in with us. We offer indoor seating as well; both options are suitable for families, small groups, and single diners, with * outdoor seating even being dog-friendly. Watch your favorite sports on one of the 10 big screen TV's or on the giant 80" screen. Hand in hand, the unbeatable food and helpful, friendly staff will leave you happy, comfortable, and, most importantly, fully satisfied. Consistently voted "Best BBQ".

Local and international artists showcased at this year's ArtWalk @ Liberty Station

By LUCIA VITI | THE BEACON

ArtWalk @ Liberty Station celebrates a potpourri of fine art nestled within the grassy knolls and picturesque rose gardens of Ingram Plaza on Saturday, Aug. 12 and Sunday, Aug. 13. More than 200 local, regional and international artists will showcase their paintings, sculptures, photography, jewelry, metal and woodwork set against the backdrop of San Diego's burgeoning arts and culture district.

Touting its theme, "Liberate Your Senses," the annual event will also host live music and dancing as well as interactive, family-friendly arts and crafts activities featured as the ever-so popular KidsWalk. More than 25,000 attendees are expected to peruse and enjoy the arts festival along with Liberty Station's Arts District's wide array of artistic and retail space, historical museums, dining and entertainment.

"ArtWalk is delighted to host our fine arts festival at Liberty Station, one of San Diego's premier arts and culture venues," said Sandi Cottrell, managing director of ArtWalk @ Liberty Station. "Sandi Cottrell and her team do erty Station, NTC. "The art festival places the Arts District on the map for artists and art patrons to enjoy all that Liberty Station offers. Community involvement and reception is good. It's not unusual to see smiling, happy people carrying purchased art – even huge canvases – in their arms."

Artists, both seasoned professionals and proven newcomers, will show their artwork to collectors and first-time fine art buyers. Kevin Winger, artist extraordinaire and owner of Mod-Est Studio Gallery, located at Liberty Station, finds sharing real-estate with ArtWalk a great opportunity to show guests his "unique" approach to oil painting.

"Liberty Station is a gem of a location for ArtWalk," he said. "The event – which has grown every year – offers easy access, free parking and a great setting. Families can enjoy a picnic on the grassy parks without worrying about cars and the heat; we're cooler by the water. And there are so many galleries to enjoy and eateries to choose from. ArtWalk @ Liberty Station is a great place to see art and enjoy a cultural experience."

Winger will share his unique style of painting by painting live. Years ago, frustrated with his training in "traditional and classical" artistic methods, Winger serendipitously discarded his paintbrushes and used palette knives on large canvases to "use up" extra paint. Pleased with the visual outcome he experimented further, adding sculpture tools to create pieces "vibrant in color and texture." Today, he continues to "push" the limits of dimension, driven by "spontaneous expression" to create work that expresses "joy."

"Kevin's signature abstract and colorful paintings have a depth of texture that make them very unique and intriguing," added Cottrell.

Point Loma resident and returning abstract artist, Sally Samins, is also excited to participate in an art show that exhibits original arts – not "crafty crafts."

"Liberty Station is a great place to celebrate true art," she said. "I'm

ARTWALK @ LIBERTY STATION

thrilled to be here again. The show is always a success. It's a pleasure to share space with such talented local artists."

Sporting a degree in graphic arts, Samins became a well-known sports photographer most noted for her work with America's Cup. Influenced by her Australian childhood, life as a painter followed suit. Richly colored and detailed compositions of deserts, oceans and urban landscapes have become her signature trademarks.

"My paintings combine color, texture, layering and design influenced by the sea, travel and my constantly changing life experiences," she said. "I enjoy geometric components and creating movements and patterns with composition."

A portion of the event's proceeds will go to ArtReach San Diego, a non-profit organization that offers children from kindergarten to sixth grade, free hands-on, visual education workshops regardless of their socioeconomic status.

"ArtReach has provided free art classes to students who wouldn't normally have access to art programs in San Diego County," explained Cottrell. "To date, we have worked with thousands of students and look forward to working with even more."

"We work closely with our sponsors, vendors, featured artists, entertainment, community and local non-profit organizations to bring an extraordinary art experience to San Diego," concluded Cottrell.

Arts District Liberty Station, noted as one of San Diego's largest arts and dining districts, is located within 38 historic buildings of the former Naval Training Center. Nearly 120 museums and galleries, art studios, dance companies, educational groups, creative and retail space along with fine dining and entertainment venues span across its 28-acres.

OB Historical Society presentation on activism

Ocean Beach Historical Society will present "OB Activism in My Activist Youth" by Robert Burns at Point Loma United Methodist Church, 1984 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 17.

"This presentation will address OB activism of which I was aware or in which I was involved in the 1970s and 1980s," Burns said. "The focus is not on me but, rather, on that of which I was aware of sometimes with my involvement and sometimes only with my observation."

Organizations and phenomena to be discussed encompass: Ocean Beach Planning Board, OB Free School, OB collectivism, OB rock 'n' roll bands, OB Tenants Union, Winchell's opposition, Committee to Save Black's Beach, CEAN, OB CRAB, OB People's Food Store, Committee to Save Red House, Committee to Save Sunset Cliffs, and Friends of Famosa Slough.

Burns grew up in Ohio where Lake Erie died, the Cuyahoga River caught fire, forests were clear-cut, farms were strip-mined, and students were murdered at Kent State by the Ohio National Guard. After five months of ill living within the Big Ag plume in Imperial Valley, he moved to OB to go to law school, with a passion for organic produce.

Burns was involved in quite a few grassroots movements and causes, particularly in the 1970s and 1980s. He became a lawyer in 1980 and for a while used the legal system as a vehicle for grassroots activism and change. Over time, marriage, children, music, and spiritualism competed for his time.

Local forecaster and news anchor, Tabitha Lipkin, swims with white tip sharks in Malaysia. Although she has dove at some of the most exotic locales around the globe, she still enjoys seeing the nursing leopard sharks in La Jolla. PHOTO CONTRIBUTED

Put swimming with sharks on the Tab

Summer is the season to snorkel with leopard sharks at La Jolla Shores

By THOMAS MELVILLE | THE BEACON

Walk along the coast of La Jolla and seals, seagulls and sea lions are abundant on the rocks and beaches of the Jewel.

But if you want to experience something more exotic, such as close encounters with sharks, you need to ditch the flip flops for flippers, the sundress for a bikini, and sunglasses for a mask. That's what certified scuba enthusiast and adventurer Tabitha Lipkin calls a typical afternoon.

From July through December, next to The Marine Room restaurant at La Jolla Shores, leopard sharks converge in the warm shallows and snorkelers floating above get to watch these elegant swimmers search for food and socialize a few feet away. During the peak season for the leopard sharks, Lipkin took the opportunity to swim with the sharks for her first time in La Jolla.

"I have swam with sharks in other places in the world. But never in such a way that they are so abundant and they're so docile," she said.

Lipkin, who is an anchor on One America News Network and a forecaster with Fox 5 San Diego, has dived in picturesque places throughout the globe — from Malaysia to the Maldives.

Tabitha Lipkin won the title Miss SCUBA International 2014.

But being able to have this experience right on the coast of La Jolla is one of the reasons the native Texan lives here.

"It's really amazing. There are few places in the world where you can see a creature in its natural habitat and interact with it and you both benefit from it," Lipkin said.

The visiting leopard sharks are mostly female and mostly pregnant and seek out the warm, calm water near La Jolla Shores. They have small mouths, feed mainly on crustaceans, and can grow up to six feet in length. They are also not big fans of aggressive humans.

"They are very skittish — so you can't touch them but just getting to see them just swimming and living is incredible," Lipkin said. "I've swam with whitetip reef sharks in Malaysia. Also, I've seen little sharks off Catalina, but nothing too crazy."

Lipkin's love of underwater adventure began at University of Texas when she took a class to get scuba certified her junior year. She was hooked and headed to the coast after graduating with a degree in broadcast journalism. She worked as an intern on TV shows in LA and then moved to San Diego where she spent a summer in Mission Bay as a hydroflight instructor.

"We have great dive spots in San Diego. The Yukon — a Canadian destroyer sunk off Mission Beach — and in La Jolla there's a wall dive and people doing their first scuba dive get taken out there — it's calm, fun and a good location," she said.

In between adventures as a bartender, zip line tour guide, and scuba diving off St. Lucia and Costa Rica, Lipkin earned the title Miss SCUBA International 2014. "It was another incredible year that afforded me the ability to explore the world and share my knowledge of marine conservation."

With her desk jobs, she has all of Southern California to explore.

"Here in California we've been blessed with a beautiful coastline, but that's not the case everywhere in the U.S. and not everywhere in the world," she said. "With something as exciting as snorkeling with leopard sharks, I think it's important that we remember that our oceans do need protection and they are not in the best state right now. Wherever you are you should do your part to keep it clean and we can have a beautiful ocean together to explore."
