District 2 City Council primary race candidates have their say

By DAVE SCHWAB | BEACH & BAY PRESS

Candidates for public office in the City of San Diego must be citizens of the United States and at least 18 years of age.

In order to run for City Council office, a candidate must be a registered voter of the appropriate council district for at least 30 days prior to the date of filing nomination papers, and a resident in and registered voter of the district at the time of assuming the office.

Mail-in ballots will be sent out in mid-May, and the Primary Election Day is Tuesday, June 5.

San Diego Community Newspaper Group asked the seven candidates in the District 2 City Council primary race one question: "Why should someone vote for you?"

Here are their responses:

LORIE ZAPF (Incumbent councilmember)

As a San Diegan, my main concern is in ensuring that we all have safe, clean neighborhoods. I am proud of my record as a councilmember, having fought for critical community services, supported more funding for street repairs and worked to protect neighborhood character by supporting sensible regulations for short-term vacation rentals.

As the councilmember representing the beaches and bays, I pledge to oppose any effort to allow oil drilling off our coast.

KEVIN D. MELTON (Retired businessman)

I'm ready to stand for what the district believes in. For too long, we have had City Council representatives with the belief that they will act in the best interest of the residents. Sadly, that is not always the case. I am running for the District 2 City Council seat because I want to bring honesty and integrity to the political process. It is time to solve the issues with the condition and safety of our community streets. The vacation rental and homelessness in the area will be resolved.

Our goal is to bring more businesses into San Diego and provide more resources for market-rate employment for the residents.

Looking forward to serving the District 2 community. "Do what is right, not what is easy."

RANDY HAHN (Publisher/sales manager)

I am not the most seasoned politician, but I love this city and want to make a difference. I've lived in District 2 for 33 years and understand the old and new. My wife is an elementary school teacher for San Diego Unified and our two teenagers attend local public schools. I am a family man, your neighbor, and accessible.

BRYAN PEASE (Environmental attorney)

Pease is an environmental attorney and a legislation and land use expert, who has lived and worked for the public interest in San Diego for 14 years. Pease lives in Ocean Beach and served on the board of OB Peoples Organic Food Market for seven years, overseeing a $15M budget. He is pushing for evidence-based solutions to the homelessness crisis, better tenant protections, Community Choice Energy and restoring Mission Bay. See bryan-pease.com for more.

JORDAN BEANE (Small-business owner)

I'm running for City Council to bring our beaches and bays the kind of leadership they deserve. As a director on the Pacific Beach Town Council, I know what the issues are that affect our community and how to tackle them. I promise to be a responsive representative who will work tirelessly to fix our infrastructure, resolve our STVR problem, put a dent in our housing crisis, and provide real solutions to our homeless epidemic.

JENNIFER CAMPBELL (Medical doctor/professor)

"I decided to run for office for the first time after 30 years in medicine because of the City's meager response to the hepatitis A outbreak. San Diegans deserve responsive and attentive government and I'm not here to run for a higher office, so no special interests can sway me. We face a housing crisis, chronic homelessness, a boom in unregulated short-term vacation rentals, and crumbling infrastructure. Vote for me to bring responsible, intelligent leadership to District 2."

DANIEL SMIECHOWSKI (Real estate agent/landlord)

I have been your neighbor for more than 50 years. We must elect a council member who will vote without prejudice, sticking to the facts. If you desire a politically correct and establishment type, then vote for someone else. I am a moderate, a centrist and I believe this city has too much political polarization.

I will vote with both Republicans and Democrats offering a balance. I do not support rent control. I do support avoiding any more Prop. 13 tax assessments to your homes and lowering your out-of-control water bills. Also, this district needs less alcohol and more dog parks. We must regulate the shared bikes, especially in the beach areas. I am an old-fashioned Midwestern-born fiscally conservative Democrat, and will tell you the truth and not skirt the issues just to be elected.

EARLY VOTING BEGINS FOR JUNE 5 ELECTION

Voters interested in casting their ballots early for the June 5 Primary Election can now do so at the County Registrar of Voters office at 5600 Overland Ave.

Early voting began May 7 and will continue from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until the polls close at 8 p.m. on Election Day. The office will also be open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 2 and Sunday, June 3 for voting.

Also, more than 1 million mail ballots were sent out through the U.S. Postal Service, and voters could find them in their mailboxes as early as that same day.

Mail ballots are convenient for voters who'd rather not make a special trip to the Registrar of Voter's office to cast their ballots or wait for the polls to open on Election Day. Registered voters can request a mail ballot until May 29.

POLL WORKERS NEEDED

Poll workers, especially those who are bilingual in any one of six specific languages, are needed for the June 5 Gubernatorial Primary Election.

The Registrar's office is required by federal law to provide bilingual speakers and voting materials to voters who speak Spanish, Filipino, Vietnamese and Chinese. In addition, a survey conducted by the University of California, Berkeley showed a need for speakers of Arabic and Korean at just under 90 precincts across the county, so the Registrar's office is also recruiting poll workers who are bilingual in those languages.

To become a poll worker, applicants must be a U.S. citizen and registered to vote in California, or lawfully admitted for permanent residence in the United States. Poll workers must have transportation to their assigned polling location, access to the internet to take an online training and attend a two-hour class in person.

Poll workers receive a stipend ranging from $100 to $175 depending on the assignment, and those who are bilingual receive an additional $15 if they are assigned to provide language assistance.

CITY COUNCIL WAIVES FEES TO ACCELERATE 'GRANNY FLATS'

With the goal of increasing San Diego's housing supply for low- and middle-income San Diegans, the City Council April 30 adopted an additional strategy that supports Mayor Kevin L. Faulconer's "Housing SD" plan and makes it easier and more affordable for homeowners to build secondary units on their property.

The City Council voted unanimously to waive development impact fees, facility benefit assessment fees and general plan maintenance fees for the construction of "companion units," otherwise known as accessory dwelling units or "granny flats."

Faulconer also directed $100,000 to the Public Utilities Department to cover the cost of water and sewer capacity fees for the remainder of fiscal year 2018. The proposals were brought forward by Councilmember Scott Sherman.

'CLEAN SD' REMOVES RUBBISH FROM SAN DIEGO RIVER

Continuing with the "Clean SD" initiative to remove trash and debris from public areas, Mayor Kevin L. Faulconer recently announced that crews have cleared all of the City-owned property along the San Diego River at least once and the City will work proactively with other adjacent property owners to clean up the remaining portions of the riverbed.

The City owns about one-third of the property along the San Diego River and has removed nearly 99 tons of waste from 32 locations since September.

Trio charged with attempted murder of woman found shot at Sunset Cliffs

By NEAL PUTNAM | BEACH & BAY PRESS

A judge refused to set any bail on May 7 for three people accused of trying to kill a woman who was found shot three times at Sunset Cliffs on April 12 and was left paralyzed.

The 19-year-old woman, known only as Mya H., who had earlier been kidnapped, was in the trio's car when one man shot another driver to death in Chula Vista, according to Deputy District Attorney David Grapilon.

San Diego Superior Court Judge Yvonne Campos declined to set bail because special circumstance charges were filed against all three people in which the District Attorney's office could seek the death penalty if they are convicted of first-degree murder.

Grapilon said Cesar Alvarado, 39, saw Mario Serhan, 59, driving his sport utility vehicle at 12:50 p.m. in Chula Vista on April 11 and apparently thought Serhan was an undercover officer who may have known about Mya's kidnapping.

Alvarado, whose nickname is "Capone," saw Serhan and announced he was going to shoot him in the head, according to the prosecutor. Alvarado allegedly fired a shot that went into Serhan's temple, and he slumped over. Serhan's vehicle rolled across an intersection and hit a garage at a self-storage business.

Mya begged Pedraza not to shoot her, and he told her to die 'with dignity.'

DAVID GRAPILON

Mya was in the back seat – after she had been kidnapped and robbed several days earlier. She was acquainted with Michael Anthony Pedraza, 27, whose nickname is "Monster," and he was in the car. The driver was Britney Giselle Canal, 29. Canal, whose nickname is "Giggles," is also known as Britney Llamas.

Before Mya was shot, she was forced to "accompany the defendants who brought her to various locations in an effort to obtain money and goods from her" and to collect from one of her friends, according to Grapilon's written motion to deny bail.

Mya was shocked with a stun gun in the car, and then the group drove her to Sunset Cliffs. Canal parked and Pedraza and Alvarado forced Mya out of the car. Grapilon said Pedraza held a gun and ordered her to walk down the Ladera Street stairs to the ocean.

Mya begged Pedraza not to shoot her, and he told her to die "with dignity," according to Grapilon. She was shot three times. One bullet entered near her ear and traveled down her neck, striking her spinal cord, court documents say. She immediately fell onto the stairs and against a railing.

Pedraza shot two more times and he and Alvarado left her for dead at 2:35 a.m. before walking back up to the car, said Grapilon. She remained there all night and tourists found her at daybreak.

She was taken to a hospital in critical condition and had surgery. Detectives were able to speak with her a week later and she identified all three people as the ones who kidnapped and shot her, said Grapilon.

She is at an undisclosed medical facility and receiving 24-hour treatment. She is able to speak, but requires constant monitoring and care.

The trio pleaded not guilty to murder, special circumstances, two counts of attempted murder, two counts of kidnapping for robbery, felony assault, and three robberies.

A status conference will be held May 17 and a May 18 preliminary hearing was set, although it is likely it will be delayed.

EVERYDAY CALIFORNIA IPA LAUNCH AT OB SURF LODGE

San Diego's Resident Brewing Co. recently announced it is bringing back its popular limited-run Everyday California IPA in May. Created in partnership with La Jolla-based ocean adventure and apparel company Everyday California, the California-inspired craft beer will become part of Resident's permanent brews.

The companies will celebrate the launch with a beer release party from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday, May 11 at OB Surf Lodge, 5083 Santa Monica Ave.

Originally released in fall 2017, the medium-bodied IPA was an instant hit, selling out within days. The beer was designed to embody the "California cool" lifestyle, bringing together tropical flavors resembling San Diego with hints of pine from Northern California. The Everyday California IPA will be available at Resident Brewing inside the Local Downtown, (1065 4th Ave.), OB Surf Lodge, The Local PB, Bayside Landing, Shore Rider, Galaxy Taco, La Jolla Brewing Co. and select La Jolla area hotels, among other venues.

The May 11 release party will be open to the public and will feature food and drink specials, including $5 biscuit sandwiches and $5 Everyday California IPA pints. There will be a beach cleanup beforehand from 4 to 5 p.m.

BAY CITY AMONG FASTEST GROWING CRAFT BREWERIES

Bay City Brewing Co., located in the Midway District, recently announced it was named among the fastest-growing craft breweries in the U.S. It is one of two breweries listed from San Diego County.

The nonprofit Brewers Association released its inaugural list of the 50 fastest-growing small and independent craft brewing companies in 2017. The list represents 25 states and a diverse cross-section of the brewing community. The state of California claims the speediest growth with seven breweries listed.

"Being in the craft brewery capital of the world can present a lot of challenges to company growth," said Greg Anderson, co-owner of Bay City. "At Bay City, though, our priority has always been to grow community first – the families, friends and loved ones that want to make memories with good beer. It's what we owe our fast growth to, despite the ultra-competitive industry."

POINT LOMA HISTORY

Idea of Shelter Island was dredged up by former port director

By KAREN SCANLON | BEACH & BAY PRESS

John Bate was San Diego's second port director who had public vision clearer than most City officials in the 1940s through 1960s. Amidst ridicule and doubt, Bate's concern and creative reverie for San Diego Bay gave us two island playgrounds, a hefty-sized marine terminal, and an organization to direct activities along some 27 miles of waterfront.

La Playa Trail Association will delve into the life and genius of John Bate with presenter Sylvia Bate, John's former wife, at its next public history lecture on Tuesday, May 15 at Point Loma Assembly, 3035 Talbot St. Light appetizers will be served 5:30 to 6 p.m., and the lecture runs 6 to 7 p.m. A $10 donation at the door is welcome.

Before Bate, Joe Brennan was San Diego's first harbormaster in 1918. He had a history on the water at San Diego. His father, George, was second principal keeper at the lower Point Loma Light Station in the mid-1890s. Joe was also the quick-thinking tug operator who pushed the Navy gunboat USS Bennington into the shallows of the bay to keep her from sinking after the 1905 boiler explosion.

It was Joe Brennan's clever notion to dump dredging spoils on the unlovely natural shoal that choked the channel along La Playa and Roseville. In 1934, the federal government started dredging a 200-foot wide channel, 20 feet deep near Roseville.

That same year, San Diego Yacht Club ferried its Coronado clubhouse to La Playa. Dredging was good news to these yachtsmen, since spoils would be used to raise the nameless mudflat and fill in tidelands surrounding the yacht basin. Members of the club threw names into a "hat" and voted the moniker "Shelter Island."

Brennan said, "I guess that's as good a name as any!" The United States Board of Geographic Names then offi-

News of another deep channel dredging appeared in San Diego Union on June 20, 1940 – with pending war attached. Once again, Shelter Island would be dumped upon with harbor dredging. It was a quick national defense measure.

"There was enough island there during World War II that the Navy used it to store ammunition. 'Huts had been set up for this purpose,' recalled yacht builder Paul Kettenburg. He remembers the filling-in of the tidelands that met his family's property at Kettenburg Boat Works, adding more area for boatyard ways.

Sylvia Bate remembers the barrage balloon tethered on the island. "It was a strange sight out there, with steel streamers sticking out of it. The idea was that if a low-flying enemy airplane came in to strafe, it would get caught up in the streamers."

Two separate concepts were considered as to the formation of the island corridor. Brennan pushed the idea of connecting Shelter Island to the mainland at the Navy fence, approximately at the foot of Kellogg Street, then having Harbor Drive run along the bay front. Point Loma residents went to court and stopped the idea.

Brennan retired with his newer title, port director, in 1948. Enter John Bate: It was his conviction of building a recreational island and moving the old High Seas Tuna cannery, its fleet and piers, out of the yacht basin.

Bate would build a mole out from Byron Street to divide the yacht basin from the commercial basin. Again, residents protested. They peered into the future of Shelter Island and envisioned high-rise buildings blocking their views of the channel and its operations, and noise.

Harbor Commission assistant Carl Reupsch said, "John Bate was so sold on his idea in his own mind that he and I called on every person in Point Loma." The two canvassed neighborhoods and assured residents that their concerns would be addressed.

After the war, the Harbor Commission provided a larger, 400-foot channel entrance to the yacht basin, an area of about 200 acres. Dredge spoils were used to extend the Byron Street mole to connect with Shelter Island. Additional materials were used to raise it to 14 feet above low water, which leaves the island seven feet above high tide, and was completed in 1950.

Shelter Island remained vacant until 1953 when the landfill had settled and the roadway was begun. Next came a fishing pier, parking for 300 cars, an outboard motorboat launching ramp, and grassed park areas – all for public use. No fishing license required.

Funds were further expended for the island's completion – lighting, sewer, water, electrical power, road signs, and the transplanting of palm trees. Short sandy beaches spilled to the water line around the perimeter, until rock revetment was installed to keep the landfill in place from changing tides and wash from passing ships.

Brennan died in 1974 at the age of 91, having lived the span of years it took to accomplish the island scheme he had imagined. "We didn't put in the improvements," he said, "we didn't have the money in those days."

Later, the Port invested $2.5 million in Shelter Island. "The best investment we ever made," Bate said. Revenues far above that amount from island rentals are returned every five years.

So, we can applaud Brennan's successor, "Commodore of the Mudflats" Bate – who took a great deal of ribbing from citizens who had called his plan "Bate's Folly" – for his broader dream in developing Shelter Island.

White elephants!

Bate's ideas for other harbor improvements met with more razzing. "Name-calling never bothered John," Sylvia says. "He had a gentle nature, no temper, and was very concerned about other people."

So concerned was Bate, that he wanted to increase industry and, thus, jobs and dollars, through San Diego's natural resource. In 1955, voters authorized a bond issue of $9.6 million for construction of the 10th Avenue Marine Terminal. The new pier was soon crowded with cargo loading and off-loading that included, for example, sheep, alfalfa pellets, tobacco, logs for Japan, cotton, and for kelp storage.

In 1961, the port director took advantage of building up a second island playground when the Navy cut nine million cubic yards from the bottom of San Diego Bay to create a 42-foot carrier turning basin. "Bate's White Elephant: Harbor Island!" commissioners declared.

But the real feather in his proverbial cap came with the creation of the Port of San Diego. Sylvia remembers that John nearly single-handedly worked on developing a port district that included the five communities of San Diego, Coronado, Imperial Beach, Chula Vista, and National City. "We traveled to other ports at Bremerton and San Francisco to see what they were doing."

Parking problems and protests greet Target Express in OB

By DAVE SCHWAB | BEACH & BAY PRESS

With the Antique Center out and a Target Express apparently in on Newport Avenue, there are still some bugs to work out before the mini version of a big box store becomes a reality in Ocean Beach.

According to Franco Realty Group in Pacific Beach, Minneapolis-based Target took over the 18,000-square-foot Antique Center at 4864 Newport Ave. on April 20. Target says OB is among the sites it is considering.

City officials, however, said the Target deal hinges on a shared parking agreement yet to be worked out between the corporation and South Beach Bar and Grill restaurant at 5059 Newport Ave.

Also, as of May 7, an online petition on change.org, seeking to keep Target out of OB, was more than halfway – 2,559 signatures – to its 5,000-signature goal.

The battle over a corporation entering the mom-and-pop-centric Ocean Beach market is reminiscent of a similar battle the community waged in 2001. Back then, an unsuccessful attempt was made to prevent Starbucks entering the beach market.

Will the end result be different now?

Paul Bearce, co-owner of the 41-year-old renowned OB printer, The James Gang, which recently returned to Newport Avenue, hopes so. James Gang has been all-in on the protest from the start, doing a brisk business selling "No OB Target" starting last July and "Boycott Target" T-shirts more recently.

Bearce spoke for some in the community in saying that, this time around, the community is truly drawing a line in the sand. He said the corporate opposition is reflective of the beach community's will.

"I've been to public meetings attended by 125 people where they asked how many people were in favor of Target, and maybe half a dozen people raised their hands," Bearce said pointing out, even if everyone in favor didn't raise their hands, that still constituted "only a small percentage."

Bearce fears Target in OB would change the community's character.

"They have a Target two miles from here [in Midway]," said Bearce, arguing the corporation "is forcing their way into our community," while adding, "It's going to change the fate of OB, one of the last true beach communities left."

Regarding the outcome of the previous Starbucks protest, Bearce noted, "They didn't have social media back then, which is really strong now."

The Ocean Beach Town Council recently drafted a letter supporting opposition to, and boycotting of, corporate Target coming to OB.

"The communications we received have been mainly opposed to the presence of Target Express ... The OBTC believes small, locally owned businesses are vital to maintaining the strong fabric of the OB community and are a primary reason residents remain and tourists return year after year to visit our shores and stores. The OBTC urged the owners of the Antique Mall to seriously consider options other than leasing the space to the second-largest discount store retailer in the U.S."

'It's going to change the fate of OB, one of the last true beach communities left.'

PAUL BEARCE
CO-OWNER OF JAMES GANG

Reset Float Therapy relieves and relaxes

By THOMAS MELVILLE | BEACH & BAY PRESS

The best part of my 90-minute session at Reset Float Therapy? The grilled chicken and avocado burrito dipped in spicy verde sauce and washed down with cold bottle of Coca Cola.

Huh? That's the usual response from friends curious about the float; so let me explain.

Climbing into a steel tube filled with 12 inches of skin temperature water (94-95 degrees) and 1,000 pounds of dissolved Epsom salt, while naked, will, at first, cause some anxiety. What's going to happen in here? Will I float? Is that shark fin?

Those questions were quickly answered: sleep, yes, and no, that's a blue floatie thing for my head.

While in the tank, the lack of temperature difference between you and the water tricks the mind and your ability to perceive where your body ends, and where the water begins. After a few minutes of floating, the warm caress of the salt water, along with the lack of lights, sounds and cell phones, unties tension in your back and you drift off.

"It's a place to relax, get relief from every day stress, and rediscover yourself," said Nikki Ruesch, who co-owns and co-runs Reset Float Therapy with Derrick Shepard. "It's a powerful way to reconnect to yourself."

It also connected Shepard and Ruesch. The two met cute at a party in

RESET FLOAT THERAPY

Where: 4967 Newport Ave. Ste. 10.

LA after Shepard just finished a float session. He couldn't shut up about it and she was intrigued. Their first date was at Float Lab in Venice Beach and they bonded over the experience.

Two weeks later they quit their professional jobs and headed for Thailand, and then traveled the globe for the next seven months. Along the way the two created a business plan to open a float spa and ended up settling in Ocean Beach in 2015.

"We love Ocean Beach and wanted to open our business here," Shepard said. "And the community has embraced us."

The couple had the massive tank installed in pieces, set up the spa room, which includes a shower, and hung out their placard in September 2016. They have been filled with floaters ever since.

"At first, it can be hard to explain to people what the benefits are, and there is some apprehension," Ruesch said. "After the first float, you lose that anxiety and immediately feel the benefits."

Epsom salt is sort of an old school cure-all, and it works well to relieve sore muscles, headaches, joint pain and – if needed – constipation. Add in the sensory deprivation float to clear your mind and revive your soul, and the 90 minutes is time well spent.

"We've had people with severe headaches, hip and back pain who have found relief," Ruesch said. "Athletes use it for recovery, and many pregnant women have floated here to reduce stress on their bodies. They love it."

Me? I woke up from my float nap snoring. But I still had plenty of time to just relax and enjoy the silence. I didn't have any profound revelations, but Shepard said most people don't on their first float.

"The more you float, the deeper the experience," Shepard said. "But right now, all your senses are heightened. I always tell people, the best meal you ever eat, is right after a float."

Which brings me back to the best burrito I've ever bit into – only a few minutes after floating.

It reminded me of the famous Warren Zevon quote during his last appearance on David Letterman. Zevon, wrecked with lung cancer, had only months to live, and Letterman dedicated an entire show to him.

At the end of the evening, Letterman asked Zevon if he had learned anything about life and death.

"How much you're supposed to enjoy every sandwich," Zevon answered.

Or burritos.

NY Yankees honor David Wells

By SCOTT HOPKINS | BEACH & BAY PRESS

Pointer varsity baseball coach David Wells was recently honored by the New York Yankees for something he accomplished 20 years ago.

On May 17, 1998, Wells took the mound in Yankee Stadium in front of a crowd of 49,820 to pitch against the Minnesota Twins. Wells retired all 27 batters he faced for a rare "perfect game."

On April 23, nearing the 20th anniversary of that feat, the Yankees honored Wells' feat by giving away bobbleheads of him and having him throw out the first pitch.

Coincidentally, the Twins were in town for the event as the Yankees clobbered them 14-1 before 39,249 fans who cheered as videos of Wells' perfect game were shown on the scoreboard.

"It's a great honor and very humbling," Wells said. "The Yankees are very good at honoring their players and ex-players and bringing excitement to the stadium. It's a milestone and to go back, have a bobblehead given out and throw out the first pitch... I'll take that any day."

The Yankees provided Wells a suite for 80 people and several celebrities reportedly stopped by during the game.

Point Loma High remains the only school in the U.S. with two alumni who have thrown perfect games in major league history. Don Larsen, class of 1947, threw his in the 1956 World Series. Wells is a 1982 alum of the school.

OB WINERY WINS GOLD MEDAL

Gianni Buonomo Vintners in Ocean Beach was awarded a gold medal for its 2013 Blaufra$isch at the Hilton Head Island International Wine Competition, which played host to the event that brought in the heavy hitters from the international wine world. Wines were judged by master sommeliers, advanced sommeliers and certified wine educators.

"Winning a gold medal right next to Tuscan wine god Marchese Piero Antinori is really unbelievable, but it happened," said Keith Rolle, winemaker of Gianni Buonomo Vintners, located at 4836 Newport Ave. "They've been making wine for more than 600 years. I've been making wine for just a bit less than that."

Gianni Buonomo will be hosting a celebration event and the release of their 2014 vintage Blaufra$isch from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 2. Traditional Austrian bites will also be served. The ticketed event is open to the public.

Have a heart and help Lyric with hers

Fundraiser at OB Brewery to help with medical expenses

By DAVE SCHWAB | BEACH & BAY PRESS

A young girl needs surgery for a rare heart condition, and the Ocean Beach community is stepping in to help with her medical expenses at a fundraiser at OB Brewery Monday, May 21 from 4 to 10 p.m. at 5041 Newport Ave.

Lyric Ivy Spracklen was born with Ebstein's anomaly, a rare congenital heart defect. Her heart of the nearly 4-year-old has enlarged to the point where it requires open-heart surgery for her to continue a normal life.

"The event is an opportunity for us to share in light and positivity with Lyric and her family, as well as to help with the cost of this surgery and subsequent appointments," said Joey Jubran, of Hoppy Beer Gear, a fundraiser organizer. "Lyric's Heart is an event that will help financially support Lyric's family during her heart surgery and many travels to the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, where the specialist resides that will be performing her open-heart surgery, which will take place in the next several months."

Jubran added the fundraiser will involve the launch of OB Brewery's 'Lyric's Heart Pale Ale.'

Lyric Ivy Spracklen

"A total of $1 from each pint gets donated to Lyric's heart fund (until the kegs run out)," said OB Brewery general manager Scott Watkins. "A percentage of all food and beverage purchases during this event will also go towards Lyric's fund and her family to help with the surgery. Ten percent of our net sales that night will be going to the family."

Watkins added the fundraiser will include "our amazing silent auction and raffle, filled with lovingly donated goods and services from several local artists and businesses."

Jubran said the fundraiser got started with a Facebook post about a Go Fund Me for Lyric and her family from some mutual friends. She added, "I immediately thought, 'How can I rally my craft beer community behind this little girl?'"

After speaking with OB Brewery's gm and brewmaster, the notion of creating a special craft brew to benefit Lyric was born.

Speaking for the local craft-brew industry, Jubran said, "We love to work with the local community whenever possible to continue to give back and be supportive of people in need. Community, fundraising and support are a part of our ethos, and we are so happy to help great causes like Lyric's Heart, in addition to other charitable causes like Sarah's Miracle and Chat with Champs, which raise funds to help families that battle pediatric cancer."

As of May 8, a total of $13,767 had been raised out of a $20,000 fundraising goal.

BRIEFSOB KITE FESTIVAL FLIES AT ROBB FIELD ON MAY 12

The annual OB Kite Festival to be held Saturday, May 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Robb Field, 2525 Bacon St., is observing a major milestone this year.

"This is the 70th annual Ocean Beach Kite Festival, and it is the oldest kite festival for children in the country," said Melanie Nickel, spokesperson for the Kiwanis Club of Ocean Beach, which co-sponsors the event along with Ocean Beach Recreation Center.

Nickel noted the fun event is multifaceted. "Children are taught how to make and fly a simple kite, and there are prizes for the best decorated kite," she said, adding, "It's all free."

The event is new and improved for another reason.

"It is moving to a new location this year - Robb Field instead of Dusty Rhodes Park," Nickel said. "This should give us more room for the professional kite fliers to do their spectacular displays, more room for the kids to fly their kites, and much more parking."

Kite festival attendees can expect:

- To make and decorate kites;
- To get materials, instructions and help with kite making;
- Receive prizes;
- Fly and show off their kites;
- See exotic kites and watch professionals do tricks;
- Participate in a carnival to include artisans, booths and food trucks;
- Groove to the live music of Beer Feat from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

PORTUGUESE FESTA DO DIVINO ESPIRITO SANTO ON MAY 18-20

Perhaps San Diego's oldest ethnic celebration, the 108th Portuguese Festa do Divino Espirito Santo (Feast of the Holy Spirit) will be held Friday, May 18 through Sunday, May 20 on the grounds of UPSES Portuguese Hall, 2818 Avenida de Portugal, and St. Agnes Catholic Church, 1140 Evergreen St.

The Festa Parade, the highlight of the event, begins at 10 a.m. May 20 and follows a route from the UPSES hall to St. Agnes. The celebration of High Mass and the coronations of the festival king and queen take place at St. Agnes at 11 a.m., with singing by the church choir.

The Portuguese people have been celebrating the feast for the last 700 years amid the lore of Queen St. Isabel, who was said to have rescued her countrymen from starvation.

The festival has been mounted in San Diego since the city's first Portuguese families settled here in 1884. It was formally organized in 1910.

"The event pays homage to and is our Portuguese dedication to the Holy Spirit, and her belief in God and serving the people," said Diana Balelo, president of UPSES Hall. "On May 18-19, there will be booths at Portuguese Hall where people can buy ethnic foods, like authentic Portuguese bread with meat and potatoes, and be entertained."

The 2018 festival president is Ermelinda Jorge and family.

Pointers struggling as regular season wraps

By SCOTT HOPKINS | BEACH & BAY PRESS

As the Eastern League baseball schedule winds down, the Pointers will have to sweep their current series with league opponent La Jolla if they are to repeat as league champions. And even then, Mira Mesa and Serra will have to lose at least three of their five remaining games if the Pointers are to come out on top. At present, the Pointers, Marauders and Conquistadors have each won five league games but the Pointers (5-4) have played, and lost, two more games than the other two (5-2).

Point Loma's Mitchell Sardo, right, dives for home plate during the Pointers' recent 9-3 victory over Mira Mesa. Sardo was ruled out on the play. SCOTT HOPKINS / PENINSULA BEACON

Perhaps the Pointers' extra-inning loss to Mira Mesa last week (4-3 in 9 innings) was a microcosm of their struggles this season. The Pointers jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning as leadoff batter Duce Gourson reached base on a Marauder error. After a first out, Ben Berry was hit by a pitch before A.J. Schrader's double scored Gourson. Starting pitcher Austin Correia went through 1-2-3 innings in the first and second before a Pointer error allowed the No. 8 Marauder hitter to reach base in the third. The runner stole second base before Correia gave up a triple to the leadoff hitter to score one run and his wild pitch allowed the Marauders to take a 2-1 lead after three innings.

The Marauders increased their lead to 3-1 in their fifth on two singles and a double. The Pointers stranded runners in the third and fifth before Connor Ludwig led off the sixth with a triple and cut the lead in half when he stole home while the Marauders failed to catch Joe DaLuz in a rundown between first and second bases. In the Pointers' last-chance seventh, pinch hitter RJ Larocco lifted a one-out single into left-center that was mis-played by the Marauders as Larocco slid into third on the two-base error. At that moment, a balk was called on the Mira Mesa pitcher, sending the Pointer bench into a frenzy and infuriating the Marauder coaching staff as Larocco trotted across home plate to tie the game at three. Starting pitcher Correia had to be lifted after seven innings when his pitch count reached the prep limit of 110. Schrader took the mound in relief. The Marauders threatened in the 8th before Ludwig caught a fly ball in center field and gunned down their runner at the plate for a double play. The Pointers went meekly in their 8th except for Gourson's single. The Marauders' leadoff batter in the 9th, their cleanup hitter, lofted a long home run to left center, boosting the score to 4-3 and putting pressure on the Pointers once again. Schrader's second hit of the game with one out gave brief hope, but he was erased on a fielder's choice before a groundout ended the three-hour marathon. For the game, the Pointers had baserunners in eight of nine innings. They had seven hits, were walked four times and three players were hit by pitches. Only three of these baserunners scored. For the game, Correia gave up five hits, walked only one and struck out seven. Of the three runs the Marauders scored only one was earned. Schrader gave up two hits in his two-inning appearance, walking none and striking out two. He was charged with the loss.

PLNU HAS AMERICA'S MOST SCENIC BALLPARK
The nickname of Carroll B. Land Stadium, "America's Most Scenic Ballpark," was not one that was handed out lightly. The phrase was coined in an article by Baseball America's writer Kevin Kernan when he visited the PLNU campus back in 1993, and it has stuck ever since. However, it should not be taken for granted that because Point Loma had "America's Most Scenic Ballpark" nearly 25 years ago, it would still be the best in 2017. An independent poll was conducted in by HERO Sports earlier this season, and it was confirmed by nearly 3,000 voters that even today the Sea Lions are playing on the most panoramic park in the NCAA. The Sea Lions received 55 percent of the 2,862 votes to edge second place Angelo State by 815 votes, as PLNU totaled more votes than the other three teams combined.

POINT LOMA PIRATES WIN
The Point Loma Pirates (6-0) beat the Red Devils 16-0 in San Diego Adult Baseball League action last week. Notable players: Jake Magness was 3-for-3 with 1 HR, AJ Rodrigues went 3-for-4, and Matt Correia was 3-for-4 as the Pirates exploded early on, ending the game by the 4th inning with 16 runs on the board. Jacob Coleman pitched a shut out. Next game: 1:30 p.m. May 20 at Castle Park High School against the Diablos Rojos MX (3-4).

Health and Safety Tips for Your BBQ Grill

San Diego is home to the best weather in the country. Even during our chilliest days, we love to grill - it's a way of life in sunny southern California. What we don't love is the clean-up. It's messy and takes us away from game-time and family time. If you are like most people, your grill could use some serious attention. Grease drippings are not only a safety hazard; they can cause unhealthy grilling conditions and other health hazards.

Most of the time the grill goes uncleaned far beyond the point of health and safety guidelines. I mean really cleaned. Scraping off the most offensive bits of build-up really doesn't count. Don't ignore the warning signs:

- Flame-ups charring your perfect steak
- Old grease making your food taste old
- Dried out meats and vegetables

You know the drill. How many times do you throw food out due to bad grilling? A clean grill will improve the quality and flavor of food plus save you time and money.

Following a few basic safety rules is the key to successful grilling. So before you bust out the spatulas and tongs this weekend, take some time to learn about grill safety with these tips:

1. Know Your Grill

You should always keep the instructions for your grill handy. Even if it's not your first barbecue, occasionally reviewing the manual will remind you of how to operate your grill correctly.

2. Clean Your Grill

A clean grill is a safe grill for several reasons. There have been reports that metal bristles from some scouring brushes can break off and get left behind on the grill and ultimately end up in the food. Some people who have ingested these bristles have ended up in the hospital.

There is some medical evidence that the charred particles left on the grill rack contain cancer causing agents.

Having your grill cleaned regularly will extend the life of your grill. It is absolutely worth it in the long run.

3. Location, Location, Location

While you're deciding what to grill, don't forget to consider where to place the grill itself. The location of your barbecue grill makes a big difference in terms of grill safety.

- Always grill outside in an open space. Never grill in garages, tents, trailers or on balconies, you run the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning or setting fire to the structure.
- Place all grills on a non-flammable surface, such as a concrete patio.
- Make sure the grill is a minimum of ten feet from the house, deck, eaves and tree branches.

4. Prepare for the Worst

Always be prepared for grilling mishaps so you can keep them from becoming grilling tragedies. There are several ways to keep a bad situation from becoming worse:

- Keep a fire extinguisher close by when you're grilling.
- Control grease fires by tossing baking soda on them.
- A bucket of sand can be used to put out errant fires.
- Have a water source, such as a garden hose, nearby. Any one or more of these will help to keep a fire under control or extinguish it entirely. Always have the fire department number on hand.

Grill safety really comes down to using common sense. Make sure your grill is in good working condition. Clean-up after your cookout only takes a few minutes - about the same amount of time it takes a fire to get out of control.

Fourth annual Cabrillo Under the Stars fundraiser in June

What better way to get spectacular views under a star-studded sky while contributing to a worthy cause than by attending the fourth annual "Cabrillo Under the Stars" from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Saturday, June 2 at 1800 Cabrillo Memorial Drive.

Sponsored by the Cabrillo National Monument Foundation, the fundraising gala offers a rare opportunity to enjoy San Diego's only national park, Cabrillo National Monument, after dark as monument gates usually close at 5 p.m.

"By attending the event, you help fund a wide range of scientific and educational programs no longer funded at our park by the federal government," said Foundation President John Martinez.

Noting the Cabrillo National Monument Foundation has been in existence more than 60 years, Martinez added the organization "has supported the park with funding for its interpretive and educational programs ... It was with this purpose that Cabrillo Under the Stars came into being."

"Cabrillo Under the Stars is also the chance to treat yourself and friends to a great party at a stunning location," said Martinez pointing out Stars "is our single largest fundraising event of the year serving to highlight efforts such as Ecologik, a platform for underrepresented young girls (ages 9-16) who show specialized interest in the natural and technical sciences, but lack opportunity to explore these careers; and our Community Outreach Program, which last year exposed the wonders of the park to 17,000-plus local school children, many underprivileged.

This event sells out every year. Tickets cost $75 for the general public. Purchase tickets at cnmf.org or call 619-557-5450, ext. 4570.
