SOCAL'S LOVE AFFAIR WITH SKATEBOARDING

By GILLIAN WEINSTEIN | THE BEACON

In Ocean Beach, skateboards are more than just a piece of maplewood with wheels. Skateboards are a method of transportation, a statement of identity, and are deeply ingrained in the vibrant beach culture.

High Tech High student John Boyce attempts a trick at the Robb Field Skate Park in Ocean Beach.

GILLIAN WEINSTEIN / PENINSULA BEACON

As the international "Go Skateboarding Day" approaches in San Diego (on June 21), area skate shops are organizing skate sessions, barbecues, and competitions that will gather the skating community together for fellowship, to raise awareness of the cause, and, of course, to have fun.

So how did skateboarding become the wheels of a generation in SoCal? The Peninsula Beacon asked several local skate shop owners about skateboarding's appeal.

"Skateboarding became popular because of the strong surf culture, which ultimately led to skate culture because there is a lot of overlap between the two," said Pablo Lanatta, owner of Adrenalina Skate in La Jolla.

Paul (Pablo) Smith, owner of Soul Grind Skate Shop in Pacific Beach, spoke about his experience in the skating community, saying that the connection is strong because it is created through a passion for a thrill-seeking sport. He also brought up the originality factor within the community of skating.

"There is a strong community of skaters," he said, "but each person has a different style, does unique tricks, and follows a certain brand to express themselves."

According to reports, the skateboarding market is worth an estimated $4.8 billion in annual revenue with 11.08 million active skateboarders in the world. A common way to celebrate Go Skateboarding Day is to purchase new equipment, and locally-owned shops are a great place to start.

Tyler Ashton, general manager at Sun Diego Boardshop in Mission

Beach, says that most shops that sell skating equipment actually stock the same products, only the brands are different. He mentioned that it is important to know that some brands are owned by big corporations and don't actually benefit the skating community.

"Brands owned by skaters are a better option to buy from because you know that the owner of the company is in it for the passion of skating," Tyler said. Some skater-owned companies that Tyler mentioned are Sk8mafia, Creature, and Santa Cruz.

If you are looking to be active on June 21, Lanatta says that Adrenalina Skate is holding its annual skate event. Every year, the skate shop typically meets at a secret location that is announced shortly before the day, and skates in a group around the beach area.

Lanatta also expressed his love for skating and how it benefits the environment by reducing the amount of motorized vehicles on the streets. He wants to share that message with the people outside of the skate community.

"Not only is skating a good alternative mode of transportation to keep you fit, but it also gets people out of their cars, which keeps the air clean," he said.

Another event will take place at Robb Field Skate Park in Ocean Beach, City of San Diego's first skatepark. Ocean Beach Surf and Skate organizes a ride every year from the store to the skate park, where they have a cookout to unite the community.

Andrew Stoner, general manager of Ocean Beach Surf and Skate, explained that OB has a large number of skaters mainly because of the culture that the community emits. He described this culture as "a Bohemian vibe," further clarifying that "Ocean Beach is a perfect beach area for people that enjoy the freedom of just riding around in the streets."

Ocean Beach Surf and Skate is known for being a family friendly skate shop that promotes and supports local skate companies. Revoked, a company that keeps its focus on the "lighter side of skating" while ensuring they give back to the community, sells their boards in OB Surf and Skate.

Josh Utley, owner of Revoked, is a long time skateboarder who actually attended the opening of the Robb Field Skate Park when he was a freshman in high school. Revoked is currently doing a promotion with the San Diego native, ska/punk band, Buck-O-Nine.

The company is selling 50 of each of the four unique deck designs that incorporate the band's logo. For every Buck-O-Nine deck purchase, a deck will be given to a young skater in need at a local San Diego skatepark.

"I lead the San Diego chapter of Skate For Change," Utley said, "I give either homeless kids, or kids that come from low income families skateboards products. We have already given out a board at Washington Street."

Purchasing one of these skateboards will not only treat you to a brand new deck, but also give back to the community. For more information, or to purchase a board, go to revokedmob.com.

Point Loma residents oppose affordable housing plan at former Famosa bike track

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Peninsulans opposed to a proposal for 78 affordable housing units in a deserted lot at Famosa and Nimitz boulevards, will have to petition the city for a zoning change if they want that five-acre parcel to become parkland or open space.

That was the upshot of a June 14 special meeting called by Peninsula Community Planning Board.

The special meeting was mostly a replay of the planning board's May 17 regular monthly meeting. Neighbors charged then that they were being ignored in planning for the undeveloped site.

The parcel located across from Bill Cleator Park has previously been converted for public use as a makeshift bicycle pump track. Neighbors emphatically said no then – and now – to reusing the property, owned by the San Diego Housing Commission, for affordable housing.

The contested site is proposed to be developed into a 78-unit affordable housing project. SDHC reps told the group again June 14 that the project is in the preliminary phase, with tests ongoing to ensure the site's viability for development.

About a year ago, PCPB had writ-

'Why not put this in a community that wants that and needs it?'

MARGARET VIRISSIMO
PENINSULA PLANNING BOARD MEMBER

ten a board letter supporting the housing commission's intention to inspect the site to determine its viability for redevelopment as affordable housing.

Heated from the start, neighbors at the special meeting were not disposed to change their view of the project. They argued it was in the wrong place, would invite the wrong element, and that the best use for the property would be as much-needed parkland or open space. Some suggested housing for seniors was a higher priority.

Neighbors also contended the project would be overly impactful adding to traffic, congestion, parking and densification. "We're already living on top of one another," argued one audience member.

From the audience John Seymour, a nonprofit affordable housing developer, invited Peninsulans to take a tour to see existing affordable housing stock firsthand.

"We're not interested," responded one audience member.

"There's a lot of mistrust with people thinking that we're hiding something," said Mike Pavco of SDHC, following a slideshow presentation. "The reality is that we're just not that far along in the process."

"Why not put this in a community that wants that and needs it?" asked board member Margaret Virissimo.

A couple of audience members questioned the wisdom of SDHC doing geotechnical and other preliminary studies on the proposed site before the traffic analysis is complete.

Some neighbors also reiterated their belief that the site is publicly owned, to which SDHC replied that the property had been open space, but that that had been changed by a binding citywide public ballot vote in 1956.

Asked whether SDHC would abandon pursuit of the contested site for affordable housing, SDHC general counsel Chuck Christensen replied, "We've been directed by the City to explore building affordable housing on this site."

City Council members float styrofoam ban

Some Ocean Beach eateries support measure

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

There's likely another commonly used petroleum-based product that could join single-use plastic bags in the banned category if City Council members Barbara Bry and Chris Ward get their way.

Polystyrene [styrofoam] food and beverage containers may become the second ocean-polluting, plastic-based item to be prohibited for public use as Bry of District 1 representing La Jolla, and Chris Ward representing mid-City in District 3, are co-sponsoring new legislation.

"What we have now is a draft ordinance," said Bry, noting the draft contains exceptions for "small businesses for customers requesting plastic utensils."

The impetus for taking action against styrofoam, said Bry, "comes from the realization that this is a major problem." She added environmental groups, including Surfrider, San Diego Coastkeeper and the Sierra Club, support banning styrofoam.

Concurrently, there is a similar measure at the state level proposed by Sen. Benjamin Allen (D-Santa Monica) for the second consecutive year, now stalled, that would prohibit California restaurants from distributing take-out orders in disposable polystyrene food service containers starting in 2020.

Reacting to the news that styrofoam may soon be verboten, two OB restaurants – Raglan Public House at 1851 Bacon St. and Tiki Port Outdoor Cafe at 2201 Cable St. – said they were supportive of eradicating it.

"At Raglan we have never used styrofoam materials for any of our packaging," said GM Kyle Jaworski. "It's never really been a hardship on us. We use sustainable materials whenever possible."

Jaworski added: "Raglan still uses some plastics as the design of items such as sustainable carryout silverware and straws are still not durable enough to stand up to most uses. We have never found a need to use styrofoam containers and don't foresee the potential ban being an issue for us in any of our operations going forward."

Noted Robert Allen of Tiki Port: "It's unfortunate folks still use styrofoam in the restaurant industry. There are many eco-friendly substitutes, at a minimal cost, and the packaging looks better in most cases, from a marketing concept."

Allen stopped using styrofoam a decade ago "immediately switching our use out of styrofoam to clear cornstarch cold containers, lids and reusable eco-paper cups for hot products."

Added Allen, "We are just moving into paper straws as well."

What advice did Allen offer to other Peninsula eateries on the styrofoam ban?

"Those businesses that are making bank and that can afford to do the switch out of styrofoam, do it now. And those that are not doing it due to complacency, or laziness, or because everyone else isn't doing it yet, is a very poor excuse."

Pointing out some OB businesses are "still using styrofoam and making huge profits," Allen said, "Go after them first ... The time has come."

Michael Torti, executive committee chair for Surfrider Foundation San Diego Chapter, was all in on the styrofoam ban.

"Surfrider supports the City's proposed expanded polystyrene reduction ordinance," Torti said. "Expanded polystyrene foodware containers and other single-use plastics are damaging the environment, marine life and humans. The product cannot be recycled effectively, does not biodegrade and costs tax payers millions in litter cleanup and landfill annually."

Man charged with killing OB man who vanished last year

By NEAL PUTNAM | THE BEACON

Bail of $2.25 million was set for a man suspected of killing 68-year-old Peter Bentz of Ocean Beach who vanished shortly before Thanksgiving and is now believed to be dead.

Bentz, 68, lived in the same Ocean Beach apartment complex for 23 years before he was last seen on Nov. 19, 2017 at Dog Beach. Bentz was expected to travel to San Pedro to visit family for Thanksgiving but never arrived. Relatives called police.

A missing person announcement was made and his photo was distributed to local media including the Peninsula Beacon.

San Diego Police announced last week that Brian Eleron Hancock, 47, of National City, was charged with killing Bentz. They did not give any details other than they believed Bentz had been killed.

"The investigation is continuing," said Deputy District Attorney Genaro Ramirez on June 15.

Ramirez referred a reporter to San Diego Police for any further information. The press release says if anyone had any information about Bentz or Hancock to call them at 619-531-2293 or Crime Stoppers at 888-580-8477.

A television news station said in a report that Bentz' body has not been found. This could not be confirmed.

Hancock was arrested Jan. 23 on another case involving child endangerment. He was later charged in a separate case of possession and transportation of controlled substances.

Hancock was re-arrested while in the Vista Detention Facility last week and charged with murder. He pleaded not guilty in San Diego Superior Court.

Ask The Trust & Estate Attorneys

Question: What is the End of Life Option Act and is it still in effect?

Answer: In California, the End of Life Option Act says that an adult with a terminal disease may request to receive a prescription for an aid-in-dying drug from their primary attending physician. To receive a prescription, the adult with a terminal disease must: (1) submit two oral requests to their physician that are at least 15 days apart, (2) submit a signed form to their physician, and (3) receive determination from their physician that they have the capacity to make medical decisions. The End of Life Option Act was recently overturned by a Riverside County judge but was then reinstated by the 4th District Court of Appeal, who ruled that the law can remain in effect, at least temporarily. Opponents of the Act have until July 2, 2018 to file a petition opposing the court's decision. While the Act remains in effect for now, it's future is uncertain and it is likely that it will end up in California Supreme Court.

Class of 2018's voices heard at Point Loma High's commencement ceremony

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

A recurring theme of Point Loma High School's 93rd commencement ceremony last Wednesday was "Voices."

In congratulating the approximately 415 members of the Class of 2018, principal Hans Becker noted that one characteristic of the group was its voice, citing the students' rallies and outcry in support of gun control after recent school shootings.

Earlier in his speech, co-valedictorian Jonathan Omens spoke of a poster he saw in the classroom of popular history teacher Glenn Richard. It featured a photo of author Kurt Vonnegut and a quote: "True terror is to wake up one morning and discover that your high school class is running the country."

Omens admitted he was scared at this thought when he first saw the poster as an underclassman but now, in retrospect, he realized every high school class in history has made mistakes.

"We're all going to make mistakes but we can't let that be what defines our class," Omens said. "If we own our mistakes and come back from them even stronger then we have what it takes (voices) to be defined by our successes and not our failures."

The ceremony (above) ends with the traditional tossing of caps into the air. ASB President Charlie Ekstrom (right) welcomes a huge crowd.
SCOTT HOPKINS / PENINSULA BEACON

Omens said he now feels confident in his classmates' ability to someday run the country.

For co-valedictorian Kyle Grady, it was a recent trip to India followed by traveling alone through 11 European countries that taught him the value of non-verbal communication. He often found himself in situations where he was unable to communicate (voices) with local people when, for instance, he was trying to locate a hostel for the night.

Grady said he learned the value of a smile in communicating with those he sought help from on the streets and in stores, a universal recipe for interacting with others.

The Class of 2018 is headed to universities from Hawaii to New Hampshire and has been awarded more than $2 million in scholarships. Sixteen are attending SDSU, nine will go to UC San Diego, five will be at PLNU, six at CSU San Marcos. Six are entering local junior colleges and several are joining the armed services.

Senior class president Andrew Bass (top) leads the tassel-turning moment. Two jubilant grads celebrate after the ceremony.

Co-valedictorian Omens makes sweet music

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Co-valedictorian Jonathan Omens has dressed in a tuxedo to play in formal Point Loma High School orchestral performances, and someday he hopes to pull on a white lab coat as a physician.

Omens finished in a tie with co-valedictorian Kyle Grady, both finishing with a grade point average of 4.83. Omens noted freshman year and physical education grades are not used in calculating valedictorian standings.

During this period, Omens never received a grade other than "A," although in a Spanish class he once finished with a score of 90.

After three years of Spanish, Omens chuckled when asked if he is now fluent in the language. "I am definitely not fluent," he said.

Omens is headed to UCLA to study biology. He hopes to eventually get into medical school and pursue a degree.

He is the son of Jeff and Madonna Omens of Ocean Beach. An older brother, Dalton, is at UC Berkeley and is a 2016 alumni of PLHS who finished third in his class.

Omens was involved heavily in Boy Scouts during his first two-plus years at PLHS. He finished as an Eagle Scout, building new tables for a wildlife sanctuary in Bonsall.

"They have some cheetahs they are rehabilitating," Omens said, "and they have tables used to train and feed them that were old and worn down. One of our troupe leaders and some Eagle Scout counselors both knew about this organization."

The job required Omens to drive to Bonsall "several times" during the project.

He was a member of the Pointer marching band and the orchestra and also played four years of varsity tennis.

He was also involved in California Scholarship Federation and a proud member of the Entymology Club or "bug club" as he called it.

Co-valedictorian Grady eyes high-flying future

By SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Kyle Grady has a different perspective on his hometown than any other 18-year-old.

The Point Loma High School co-valedictorian has spent more than two years flying above San Diego while piloting a helicopter.

Grady began lessons after expressing interest to his parents, Doug and Christina Grady of Point Loma. He started at 16 years of age and was licensed as a pilot at 17, both the minimum legal ages permitted by federal aviation rules. At 18, he is now working on his commercial license.

While doing this, Grady finished his studies at PLHS with a grade point average of "about 4.83" he recalls. He tied for the top position with co-valedictorian Jonathan Omens.

But Grady also launched objects through the air the past two seasons as the quarterback of the Pointer football team. As a senior, he completed 77 of 135 passes for 1,249 yards, a 16.2 average, with Kyle Grady pilots a helicopter.

12 touchdowns against only six interceptions.

He also ran the ball 92 times for 525 more yards, a 5.7 average, scoring eight touchdowns. Listed at 6 foot 3 inches tall and weighing a generous 175 pounds, Grady took the biggest hits his opponents could give and bounced up each time.

But perhaps most importantly, he led the Pointers to wins over rivals Madison and Cathedral Catholic on consecutive Fridays, teams that had owned the Pointers for years.

It was during a summer University of San Diego passing camp before his senior season Grady's future took a unique twist.

"I had heard some of the University of Michigan coaches were going to be there," Grady recalled, "and I figured it would be a few assistant coaches. I was there mainly to try and get recruited by USD."

But Michigan head coach Jim Harbaugh (a former USD head coach) was also among the visitors. After watching Grady quarterback and then make some excellent pass receptions, Harbaugh offered him a preferred walk-on spot with his famed Wolverines football team. This means Grady is on the team with an opportunity to earn a scholarship.

And so, on June 20 Grady moved into student housing in Ann Arbor to start working out with the team and enrolling in the Stephen M. Ross School of Business.

California Hardwoods

In celebration of their 3-year anniversary California Hardwoods is running promotions on finished furniture, cutting boards, slabs, lumber, and DIY accessories all month long.

The California Hardwoods family is excited to announce that they recently have become the only distributor of Ecopoxy in San Diego. Ecopoxy is the clearest, strongest, and easiest to use epoxy product on the market, it is entirely non-toxic and made from soybeans. Fun and easy to use for DIY projects.

The company was founded by Derick Wyman and his father, Mark Wyman as an offshoot of their previous business Wyman Enterprises, a lumber mill in Northern California which was founded by Mark and his father Chuck Wyman.

To cap off the great deals that California Hardwoods is offering this month, they are also hosting an evening of food and drink on June 29th from 6:00pm to 9:00pm open to the public. Catering provided by Banyan Kitchen and live music. Please contact for more details.

Marina the mermaid overlooks Sunset Cliffs from her perch on Ross Rock earlier in June.

THOMAS MELVILLE / PENINSULA BEACON

Magical mermaid vanishes from Sunset Cliffs

As mysteriously as she arrived, the nautical nymph perched on top of Ross Rock vanished during the night of June 13. Although high tides have been pounding the cliffs the past week, it seems her departure was not from natural causes.

According to 10News.com, the "Cliffs Crew" is claiming they removed the mermaid. Members of this group told 10News that they witnessed people trying to climb 50-foot-high Ross Rock to take selfies with the blue-haired goddess. The crew didn't want anyone to be harmed attempting to scale the rock.

An Arizona man, who admitted to being part of the group who placed the mermaid on the rock, told KUSI News they want it back. The man, who remained anonymous, said it took a year of planning and that they're disappointed she's missing.

He added it would be great if there was a local business or restaurant that would want to put her up.

Point Loma resident Lucie Leonard took photos on May 31 that showed a rope ladder and two men on the rock installing the Marina the mermaid.

"I wouldn't call it art. I wouldn't call it vandalism. I think that someone was just trying to bring some joy to the world," Leonard said.

She said one of the men must have free-climbed the side and dropped a rope ladder for the mermaid to reach her seat.

Slow down and find peace at Kadampa Meditation Center

By GILLIAN WEINSTEIN | THE BEACON

Are you looking to relieve stress, create a more positive state of mind, and/or become more self-aware? Kadampa Meditation Center, off Rosecrans Street in Point Loma, may help you achieve those goals.

Kadampa Meditation Center holds weekly meditation classes that are open to everyone. Mondays and Fridays offer a lunchtime meditation class from noon to 12:45 p.m. They also have longer classes on Sundays from 10:30 a.m.-noon and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

To modernize the ancient Buddhist-style of meditation retreats, Kadampa holds mini meditation retreats that take place one Saturday a month. These half-day retreats are meditation workshops that teach the attendees how to achieve a positive state of mind and on letting go of the past. This experience is $25 for non-members.

Pacific Beach resident, and member of Kadampa Meditation Center, Marcella Teran, describes her experience at the center to be "life changing. As someone who previously could never meditate, it truly has changed my life for the better."

Since mid-January, Gen Kelsang Lhadron, resident teacher and Buddhist nun, has been teaching at the center. Offering insight about how to integrate Buddhist wisdom into modern society, Lhadron has been practicing Buddhism as a student of Geshe Kelsang Gyatso since 2001.

KADAMPA MEDITATION CENTER

Where: B Street, 3125 Rosecrans Place.

Info: meditateinsandiego.org.

A quote that Gyatso lives by, and teaches to his students, is "Without inner peace, outer peace is impossible." Lhadron said that this understanding of inner peace is where the importance of meditation comes in.

"We all want a more peaceful world, but you can't have a more peaceful world without more peaceful people in the world. When we train in meditation, we ourselves are becoming more peaceful people," Lhadron said.

Questions that outside observers of Buddhism have are usually: "How do you get to a state of happiness?" "How do you achieve this peaceful and positive state of mind?"

The answer is meditation. Lhadron explains: "Meditations are step-by-step methods to change our state of mind. After a meditation session, you feel peaceful, but you also leave with a specific intention. While meditating, you make a promise to yourself that you will live the rest of the day with positive thoughts, actions, and speeches. Once meditation becomes a daily activity, your encouraging state of mind will follow."

Multi-million dollar renovation updates iconic Kona Kai Resort

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Kona Kai Resort & Spa on the tip of Shelter Island has completed a $14 million renovation and $13 million remodel expanding its luxury suites, Marina View Terrace, and Paloma Pool and Bar just in time for summer.

"We are thrilled to unveil the highly-anticipated addition of our new luxury coastal suites and pool area," said Scott Colee, creative director of Noble House Hotels & Resorts. "After a sensational transformation, the next chapter of Kona Kai presents a stunning paradise with an abundance of activities around the island."

Kona Kai Resort & Spa's 41 newest suites feature hand-hewn wooden ceiling beams, spa-inspired bathrooms with dual vanities, deep-soaking tubs, rainfall showers and oversized balconies to enjoy ocean breezes and take in the sunset.

The newly-added Paloma Pool and Bar is an exclusive pool area for guests ages 18 and up. Guests can enjoy poolside lunch or dinner service featuring California Coastal specialties while gazing at sparkling ocean and marina views in chic cabanas with 75 lounge chairs on the sunny pool deck.

Kelly Commerford, Noble's regional marketing director, said the total tab of $27 million to reconfigure the resort, which took five years, has added unique features besides luxurious suites and recently renovated guest rooms such as oversized bathrooms and gas fireplaces.

"The new suites are done with Mediterranean coastal design," Commerford said noting the western side of the island now includes "new event space including a second adult swimming pool."

Commerford added the renovation with new additions brings the total of guest rooms and suites available to 170.

"The iconic resort, built in the '50s, has been brought back to its previous splendor with all-new landscaping," the marketing director noted adding the resort's updated event space now accommodates up to 250 people for weddings and other special occasions.

Kona Kai has also introduced double family fun summer packages offering: Two connecting suites, one king or two queen beds; two bathrooms with deep-soaking tubs and rainfall showers; two oversized balconies; one-day cabana rental at the family pool or on the private beach; and luxurious suites with marina or bay views.

In addition to soaking up the sun at the tropical paradise of Kona Kai Resort & Spa, guests can opt for activities such as relaxing on Kona Kai's private beach; enjoying live music poolside; visiting the marina to rent sailboats, speedboats, paddle boards, and jet skis; accessing the Kids Club; watching dive-in movies or live entertainment at Vessel Restaurant; partaking in fitness classes like yoga and Pilates; indulging in globally-inspired treatments at SpaTerre; enjoying nightly s'mores at the beach fire pits; exploring Shelter Island with 10 miles of hiking and walking paths; taking a cruise on a complimentary beach cruiser bicycle; or bringing Fido along with the Island Pet Paws program.

Free-spirited Point Loma woman creates Wild Hearts & Halos

By LUCIA VITI | THE BEACON

Krystal Usher is a free-spirited wanderlust, destined to crisscross the globe crowning heads with her vibrant, turban-style halos. Wild Hearts & Halos, her signature headband line, combines fashion panache with "hair-style function." Chic, colorful and full of Usher's "travel" character, halos are individually named after celebrated habitats in hopes of inspiring everyone to journey God's beautiful planet.

Passionate about trekking all over the world, Usher believes that "travel propels growth, ignites outward compassion, invites self-discovery, encourages community and sparks obsessions to life."

"Travel molds us," said the Point

Loma resident. "And all travel should be done with the cutest and most functional hair accessories."

Usher, a forever budding entrepreneur, is no stranger to juggling business with exploration. While owning and operating Dapper In A Day, an independent hairstyling business, she gave birth to Wild Hearts & Halos to fund a mission trip to Africa. Falling short of the necessary funds for teaching Christian Bible School, she designed turban headbands to sell on Facebook and Instagram. The response was so overwhelming – 80 – in "an instant." She knew she "had something that could work really well."

"I've always dreamed of owning a handmade product line," she said. "I'm a creative. Creativity led me to crafting beautiful hair. Making halos just made sense. For the whimsical Bohemian, this is a stylish accessory that makes it easier to style your hair whether your travelling, working out or simply wearing as an accessory to a cute outfit."

Usher's creativity is in her DNA. Her mother saw her "knack for hair" and urged her to follow in the footsteps of her father and grandfather – both barbers – while attending high school. A scholarship for beauty school afforded her the opportunity to work her way through college.

Touting a bachelor of science degree from Colorado Christian University in business administration with an emphasis in marketing and finance, the Colorado native readily admits that she's a "free spirit not meant for the corporate world."

"Styling hair and designing headbands fits my personality and my lifestyle," she said. "It's rewarding to own my own business. Both businesses fulfill my need for versatility, creativity and freedom."

Familiar with the art of taming her own long locks, Usher encourages wearing her hand-crafted halos as you "wander and explore the world in style to let your wild heart soar free."

Halos are named after the travel bug's accomplished and desired adventures. For her, nothing is more exciting than "pedaling through Provence wearing a sundress, sandals and a Lavender Fields Halo."

PLHS dedicates music room to late student

On June 6, Point Loma High School and its music program paid tribute to the late Eric Pratt, naming a campus building music room in his memory during a short ceremony.

“Eric was a drummer in the band for four years, and then came back to work as a percussion coach for the program,” said Carissa Mattison, the high school’s music director. “Eric passed away last year, and his parents, Tim Pratt and Leslie Perlis (both lifelong members of the OB/Point Loma community) started a memorial scholarship and fund in Eric’s name.”

Mattison said Pratt’s parents contacted her last year with the notion of “getting up some scholarship money for a student participating in the music program on percussion instruments. We thought maybe it would be a nice thing to do to dedicate the percussion room to Eric’s memory.”

“Last year we gave out five $1,000 college scholarships to graduating drum line seniors,” said Eric’s mother Leslie Perlis. “We gave out six $1,000 scholarships this year plus one for leadership camp for the new drum line captain.”

Some of the funds were used to purchase new percussion equipment, including a new set of chimes and a xylophone. “We are channeling the fund through the PLHS Pointer Association,” Perlis said. “All funds go directly to scholarships and equipment.”

Eric Pratt started playing drums in fourth grade in Sunset View Elementary School Band. He continued with bands at Dana Middle and Correia Middle.

He was a member of the PLHS Class of 2006, where he was a three-year drum-line captain and drum-line instructor from 2007-2016.

“He was a real good drummer and he loved teaching the kids that whole process,” said Eric’s dad, Tim Pratt, noting he was surprised at the turnout for Eric’s celebration of life on Sunset Cliffs in November 2016.

“We were just amazed at how many people showed up,” Tim Pratt said. “We didn’t know if we’d get 10 people – and at least 200 showed up. It was a great honor. We just didn’t realize how many people loved him, and how well liked he was.”

Tim Pratt said he inscribed a cymbal for his son, which now hangs in the Eric Pratt Drum Room honoring all PLHS drummers “past, present and future.” “We’re going to keep providing funding just as long as we can,” he added.

Mattison said the Pratt Music Room is a fitting memorial.

“Now all my students, who didn’t know Eric, will be able to share that story and his commitment to excellence, which will continue with the program,” she said.

If you would like to donate to the Eric Pratt Drum Line Fund, email LeslieInp@cox.net.

Tim Pratt, Carissa Mattison and Leslie Perlis dedicate the Point Loma High School percussion room in Eric Pratt’s memory.

Health and Safety Tips for Your BBQ Grill

San Diego is home to the best weather in the country. Even during our chilliest days, we love to grill - it’s a way of life in sunny southern California. What we don’t love is the clean-up. It’s messy and takes us away from game-time and family time. If you are like most people, your grill could use some serious attention. Grease drippings are not only a safety hazard; they can cause unhealthy grilling conditions and other health hazards.

Most of the time the grill gets cleaned far beyond the point of health and safety guidelines. I mean really cleaned. Scraping off the most offensive bits of build-up really doesn’t count.

- Don’t ignore the warning signs:
- Flame-ups charring your perfect steak
 - Old grease making your food taste old
 - Dried out meats and vegetables

You know the drill. How many times do you throw food out due to bad grilling? A clean grill will improve the quality and flavor of food plus save you time and money.

Following a few basic safety rules is the key to successful grilling. So before you bust out the spatulas and tongs this weekend, take some time to learn about grill safety with these tips:

1. Know Your Grill

You should always keep the instructions for your grill handy. Even if it’s not your first barbecue, occasionally reviewing the manual will remind you of how to operate your grill correctly.

2. Clean Your Grill

A clean grill is a safe grill for several reasons. There have been reports that metal bristles from some scouring brushes can break off and get left behind on the grill and ultimately end up in the food. Some people who have ingested these bristles have ended up in the hospital.

There is some medical evidence that the charred particles left on the grill rack contain cancer causing agents.

Having your grill cleaned regularly will extend the life of your grill. It is absolutely worth it in the long run.

3. Location, Location, Location

While you’re deciding what to grill, don’t forget to consider where to place the grill itself. The location of your barbecue grill makes a big difference in terms of grill safety.

- Always grill outside in an open space. Never grill in garages, tents, trailers or on balconies, you run the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning or setting fire to the structure.
- Place all grills on a non-flammable surface, such as a concrete patio.
- Make sure the grill is a minimum of ten feet from the house, deck, eaves and tree branches.

4. Prepare for the Worst

Always be prepared for grilling mishaps so you can keep them from becoming grilling tragedies. There are several ways to keep a bad situation from becoming worse:

- Keep a fire extinguisher close by when you’re grilling.
- Control grease fires by tossing baking soda on them.
- A bucket of sand can be used to put out errant fires.
- Have a water source, such as a garden hose, nearby. Any one or more of these will help to keep a fire under control or extinguish it entirely. Always have the fire department number on hand.

Grill safety really comes down to using common sense. Make sure your grill is in good working condition. Clean-up after your cookout only takes a few minutes – about the same amount of time it takes a fire to get out of control.
