Fiesta Island

Prop C top
MBPC agenda

By SHANNON MULHALL | BEACH & BAY PRESS

On Nov. 4, San Diegans will decide who receives Mission Bay Park’s lease revenue when they weigh in on Proposition C. The Mission Bay Park Committee (MBPC) discussed the charter amendment as well as redevelopment of Fiesta Island at its Oct. 7 meeting at the Santa Clara Recreation Center.

SeaWorld and Mission Bay Park properties like The Bahia Resort Hotel annually generate approximately $28 million in revenue. San Diegans originally agreed to allow commercial development in 25 percent of the park on the condition that resulting revenues would go toward completing the vast recreational area.

“The Mission Bay compact has been broken for three decades,” Bob Ottillie, who served for years on the MBPC as a member at large and acting chairperson, said after the meeting.

Roughly 90 percent of Mission Bay Park’s lease revenues are funneled every year into the city’s general fund, which pays for emergency and basic services.

In 2004, City Council enacted the Mission Bay Ordinance. The measure gives 25 per-

MBHS Ladies win
Buccaneer Bash
Volleyball Tourney

By PAUL DOUGLAS | BEACH & BAY PRESS

The Mission Bay High School (MBHS) Lady Buccaneers girls varsity volleyball team won their own 8-team tournament for the second year in a row Saturday, Oct. 4.

“Two of our seniors, Megan Upp and Rosie Belden, took the SATs in the morning and showed up late in the first game — which we lost,” said varsity coach Steve Upp. “But they went on to help lead us to a tournament championship — it was quite a day.”

The Buccaneer Bash Tournament included Sweetwater High, El Capitan, Hoover, Montgomery, San Diego, Madison, Hilltop and Mission Bay.

“We faced Hilltop in the finals and they were a very good, very disciplined team,” Upp said. “But our ladies made the plays and got the ball to drop. No one really expected us to win, but they wanted it. This was a great tournament for this young team. Everyone contributed throughout the day.”

On Oct. 9 the Lady Bucs defeated Sweetwater High again in a regular Eastern League dual meet in Spring Valley.

Then on Oct. 14 Mission Bay defeated San Diego High again in a dual meet at Mission Bay in four games.

MBHS alum honor fallen soldiers with renovated monument

By BILL SWANK | BEACH & BAY PRESS

Fifty years ago, two girls loved the same boy. His name was Walter “Magoo” Stevens. The women met for the first time last Friday at the dedication of the renovated Vietnam War Memorial monument at Mission Bay High School. As they embraced, both women cried.

Judith Lancefield, 68, of Portland, Ore., was Stevens’ sweetheart when they graduated from MBHS in 1958. Magoo also dated an older sister of 58-year-old Rita Gaffney Price of Pacific Beach. Rita had a childhood crush on the handsome young Marine who would visit her family home and play with the neighborhood kids.

In May 1966, Stevens, Marines sergeant, was killed while leading his men in Vietnam. His name along with five other Mission Bay graduates — David Rose (class of 1958), Richard Friend (1965), William Fix and James Gulie (1967) and Charles Goldmeyer (1968) — appear on the newly renovated monument outside the school auditorium.

The event was the fulfillment of a dream for Rita Price, who 10 years earlier began her campaign to restore the forgotten ground level memorial. She first raised money, mostly her own, for plaques to identify the site as a Vietnam War memorial and to add Stevens’ name. The project didn’t gain traction until Cheryl Seelos became principal of Mission Bay High School and Walter Schneider, Stevens’ best friend, began thinking about his 50th high school reunion. In 2007, a Junior Marine Corps ROTC program, headed by Lt. Col. Brian Jostens, was added to the Mission Bay curriculum. Jostens, Sgt. Maj. Mark Harrell and the ROTC cadets cleaned the area and conducted Memorial Day services in May 2008.

In response to a Beach & Bay Press article at that time, almost $2,000 was raised by alumni from the MBHS Class of 1958 and other individuals. During the summer, Seelos and Jostens formalized plans to beautify the entire garden area. The xeriscape was donated by school secretary Pam Connelly and her husband.

Jostens assumed responsibility for the actual memorial, which he designed and built. The plaques were cleaned, polished and anodized without cost by San Diego Plating. A black granite base with gold highlights was donated by San Diego Granite. When individuals at these businesses learned the memorial was for Mission Bay High School, they wanted to give something to their school. Both of these men had played ball for Coach Dennis Pugh. The dedication ceremony was part of a five-day 50th cent of the park's lease revenue exceeding $20 million to both the Mission Bay Improvement Fund and the Regional Park Fund, not to exceed $2.5 million in a fiscal year.

City Council can vote to waive the measure and usually has. In 2006, however, approximately $1 million was returned to the park to pay for a replacement lifeguard dock at Quivira Basin. The same year, approximately $98,000 was earmarked for road repairs on Fiesta Island.

The initiative is not a reliable revenue source because the cash-strapped city too often votes to waive it, Otilie said.

If Proposition C passes, starting in July, $23 million in lease revenue would go to the city every year. The remainder would go toward completing the capital improvement projects outlined in the Mission Bay Park Master Plan. When the plan was approved in 1994, the price tag for trail improvements, shoreline maintenance and other projects was $200 million. Otilie estimates that total is now close to $400 million.

Proposition C would provide "a guaranteed revenue stream," Otilie said. After five years, the city's cut of Mission Bay lease revenues would go from $23 million to $20 million.

Continuing to give the city the lion's share of lease revenues helps "ease economic withdrawal," said Otilie. "It's not a dramatic impact on the city, but over time it could have a dramatic impact on the park," he said. If Proposition C passes, Mission Bay Park could receive between $5 million to $12 million annually. Regional parks could net $2 million to $4 million every year.

Though the measure has the support of Mayor Jerry Sanders, Councilwoman Donna Frye, Councilman Kevin Faulconer and the Sierra Club, it has also raised some concerns.

The measure does not include public input, longtime MBPC member Judy Swink said. The committee, which would provide primary oversight if Proposition C passes, did not debate the ballot initiative before it went to City Council for a vote, she added.

The priorities outlined in the measure could also prove too rigid, slowing completion of Fiesta Island and other key projects, Swink said.

Citing similar concerns about limited flexibility, Council President Scott Peters and Councilmen Ben Hueso and Jim Madaffer voted against putting the measure on the ballot.

Proposition C identifies seven priorities, including dredging, the expansion of wetlands and preserves for endangered and threatened species, and completion of bicycle trails, that would be addressed in a specific sequence. The prioritization is an important part of the measure, according to Otilie, because it allows voters to see exactly what they would get.

Under the measure, the MBPC would determine the order of priorities and City Council would approve it. The council could change the sequence, he said, if funding becomes available for another project.

Though the committee did not vote on Proposition C or formally solicit community input, Otilie said the measure is the culmination of years of discussion on how to fund park projects. Furthermore, he added, the measure reflects the community's interest in improving parks.

"You talk to people in San Diego and everyone uses Mission Bay Park," he said. "It's the symbol of our community and people know that."

One of Mission Bay Park's most popular attractions, Fiesta Island, will remain as is for the time being. A proposed redevelopment project has drawn strong opposition from area dog owners who say the sandy, expansive island is the ideal location for their pets to run and play.

According to Michael Singleton of KTU+A, the firm handling the project, redevelopment is on hold until City Council approves funding for an environmental review. Project planners are also exploring another alternative to accommodate dog owners' wishes.

The MBPC will hold its next meeting Tuesday, Nov. 4, at 6 p.m., at the Santa Clara Recreation Center, 1008 Santa Clara Place.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's not fair blaming RVs for parking problems

Take a drive around our area and see how many law-abiding citizens have RVs parked in front of their homes, then ask yourself where they're going to park.

We already abide by an existing law of a 72-hour limit with nothing over 23 feet allowed on public streets. It hardly seems fair to make RVers bear all the weight for parking problems in the beach and surrounding neighborhoods.

Where exactly do you have in mind that they could park? There are no facilities available locally that could handle that many RVs.

Mixing housing and parking seems to be a bit far off the mark. Blaming an RV for an irresponsible pet owner seems equally ridiculous.

Illegally parking too close to the corner is already against the law. I have a similar problem on my busy intersection as well and take precautions with my visibility before I enter the intersection. Perhaps you should too.

Water monitoring cuts puts public at risk

Almost two weeks ago now, the state of California took a giant step backward in an already reeling, calamitous world. Governor Schwarzenegger, in one stroke of his pen, undid all state-funded ocean water quality monitoring of public beaches.

This was done in an effort to balance the state's obviously over-extended budget. There is no question that cuts and sacrifices need to be made. But we must examine the necessity of monitoring oceans and bays not just from an environmental perspective but also from a public health standpoint as well. How can we afford not to be aware of potential toxins and/or biologically harmful substances in our frequently visited coastal waters?

First and foremost, the public's health is at stake when there is no longer any water testing going on nor any public notification. With millions of local San Diego county residents diving into the water, how many more individuals will contract waterborne illnesses?

Imagine taking your children to the beach, knowing that there had been beach closures in the past and that now the water may or may not be safe. The end of water monitoring increases the risk of beachgoers getting sick, and on an even grander scale, it could jeopardize one of California's most precious resources — the ocean itself.

Environmentally, monitoring the bacteria levels seems like a thermometer (albiet crude) that could alert us to detrimental changes in the ocean. In the event of an undetected sewage spill, the spill could go unnoticed until numerous people are sick and then have the wherewithal to report it. Then and only, then what could have been a relatively simple fix has turned into a much larger environmental and public health issue.

So the public health and environmental benefits are an easy sell. But in these drastic economic times for our city, state and country, how do we afford this? The obvious question is, how much money does it take to run the program locally?

Apparently, the whole program costs $300,000 a year. That's not a lot of money to test the waters of San Diego County (from the Mexico border up to San Onofre) and notify the public when bacteria levels are high. It's a small price to pay for safer beaches and potentially cleaner water.

That $300,000 price tag looks even smaller when you consider the billions of dollars generated by ocean-and beach-related industries (everything from surf-board manufacturing to a waterfront hotel boasting coastal access). Consider what a central part our beaches and bays are to tourism and life in San Diego — economically and aesthetically.

Politicians, including our mayor, boasted about the fewer beach closures from year to year in San Diego. The program was making San Diego look good here and abroad. Politicians were quick to claim credit for it until the governor decided to do away with state funding for the California's beach water monitoring programs.

Where do we turn now? San Diego County doesn't seem to want make it a priority now either. So then what? If every one of the millions of beachgoers paid a quarter when they went to the beach, the program could still run. If all San Diego residents contributed 15 cents, testing could continue and the water quality could be designated as safe or unsafe allowing us to know what risks we were taking by going for a swim or a surf in our oceans.

As more and more Americans become aware that they are part of the solution to the environmental deterioration of our city and country, we need to move forward, not backward, in protecting our precious resources. Why are we dismantling one of the country's most respected water quality programs and turning a blind eye to our citizens' and oceans health?

Governor Schwarzenegger's line-item veto was short-sighted, and, unfortunately, is a done deal. But now what? I ask the county to consider assisting with funding or even local nonprofit environmental organizations to come together to work on an alternative plan so that our beaches and bays of San Diego are safe and clean.

dents. A recitation of the poem, “In Flanders Fields,” struck a chord with the audience. Former ASB president Chuck McGregor of San Diego was moved by the ceremony.

“The ROTC, the principal, the teachers, the students, our classmates... I’m proud to be a member of the Mission Bay Class of 1958. Walt and Dave were our friends. I’m so proud of our class. It was a wonderful event,” McGregor said.

The Rose family was represented at the dedication by Chuck and Sandy Devereux. An older brother, Daniel Rose, was killed in a traffic accident during his senior year at the Citadel in Charleston, S.C. The only surviving family member is Terry Rose of Sacramento. Terry, a Mission Bay graduate, was in his senior year at the Citadel in September 1966 when the middle son, David, an Army lieutenant, was killed in action. At the time, Terry was captain of the Citadel rifle team and the top collegiate marksman in America. As the sole surviving son, he was not given his commission in the Army and became a civil engineer instead.

Aline Minga Brown, class of 1958, and her husband, Don, drove to the reunion from Washington state.

“We didn’t get to our hotel until 1 a.m. on Friday and had to get up early to attend the service. I didn’t want to miss it. To me and my husband, it was more important than the reunion,” she said.

Susan Senour Wraight, ROTC queen from the class of 1962, attended with her husband, David, and son, Ian.

“It’s difficult to put my emotions into words,” Wraight said. “To see the large turnout honor those who gave their lives for our country was gratifying. It’s nice to know that our generation still cares about such things, but I was also very impressed with the students who attended. They were respectful and wanted to learn about the memorial. I was treated so nicely by a student named Jonte.”

Following the tour, the class of 1958 was treated to lunch donated by Submarina of Pacific Beach in the auditorium. ASB advisor Emmitt Dodd, who organized the luncheon, said, “It was an honor to host the class of 1958. They were the pioneers at our school. It was wonderful to see the kids interact with the alums. They were dancing together with the students during lunch just like it was the 1950s again. The kids loved it.”

Bill Dague, class of 1958, of Magalia, Calif., said he had a great time at the service.

“The kids were great. They were so friendly and interested in learning about what it was like to go to Mission Bay back in the ’50s. They made us feel like kids again.”

Seelos agreed.

“I was delighted to see how open the students and the alumni were to one another. We’ve never had such a large group of former students tour the campus. The interaction in the classrooms was amazing. The morning started with a solemn ceremony and then everyone caught the spirit the class of 1958 brought with them. It was a wonderful opportunity for our students to get a perspective and history from those who attended the school when it was new. They learned some of the traditions and how much the school meant to the alumni. I was so proud of our kids.”

Price reflected on the day: “The Vietnam War Memorial that was rededicated at MBHS was a long time coming. It is nice to know that each Memorial Day there will be a tribute to the students who were killed in the Vietnam War. For years, it was just me going over with my clippers to trim back the grass and weeds, standing for a moment of silence to honor my six friends. Now the school is deeply involved. I have told our four grandchildren that they will be the keepers of the Vietnam War Memorial at the school in the years to come, to honor and respect it forever.”

For the Class of 1958, it was a time for tears... and laughter. It was about generations making a connection with one another — young and old together showing respect for fellow Buccaneers who made the supreme sacrifice for our country despite conflicted attitudes on the homefront. It was about sharing the importance of education, public service and the greater good of society.

A special reserved table with settings for Rose and Stevens was prepared for Saturday evening’s reunion dinner party at the Mission Bay Yacht Club. The class of 1958 donated $500 to help pay off the remaining debt on the memorial. Additionally, a Gordon & Smith poster was auctioned for $270.

Anyone wishing to make further donations can contact Seelos at (858) 273-1313.

“Doctor Regrets Unfortunate Mistake...”

And what you should know about it...

Dear friend,

Mistakes are tough. Real tough. But, sometimes an admission can set the record straight, and I want to give credit where credit is due. Before I talk about my mistake, though, let me say a few other things first.

Let me start by explaining the photo in this letter. You know, people usually say, “Oh, yeah, you’re Dr. Wong. I’ve seen your ad with that picture of you and the cute little girl.” Let’s start with me, the guy on the right.

Thirteen years ago something happened to me that changed my life forever. Let me tell you my story...

Back then I was working part time delivering fresh seafood when I developed an excruciating pain in the middle of my back. In my case it came on suddenly. The pain in my back was so intense that I couldn’t bend over, twist, and sometimes I couldn’t even button my shirt. I was afraid that I’d lose my job if the disability continued. After seeing a doctor and taking lots of pain medications, the discomfort was still there. I even remember one instance where I just couldn’t stand the agony any longer, and I broke down and cried. Knowing I didn’t want to take pain killers forever, I was desperate for answers. But, there’s more...

A friend of mine convinced me to give their doctor a try. This new doctor did an exam, took some films, and then “adjusted” my spine. The adjustment didn’t hurt, it actually felt really good. I got relief, and I could bend over again. It worked so well for me, and I was so impressed with the other ‘miracles’ I saw in his office, that I eventually went to chiropractic school myself.

Now for Cierra, she’s the little girl in the photo. Growing up, she was (and still is) very active. She slipped and hit her head on the sidewalk once before, she’s fallen out of bed numerous times and on top of that, she suffered from ear infections. Cierra’s been getting adjusted regularly now for over a year and she is as healthy as can be. She knows that her adjustments help her immune system to fight off the “bad stuff” when she’s starting to feel a little sick. She loves getting adjusted and it seems like a huge difference to her.

It’s strange how life is, because now people come to see me with their health problems. Also they come to me with their headaches, migraines, chronic pain, neck pain, shoulder/arm pain, whiplash from car accidents, backaches, ear infections, asthma, allergies, numbness in limbs, athletic injuries, just to name a few.

Here’s what some of my patients had to say:

 UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL ***

“I was having so much back pain, neck pain and terrible headaches that affected my job. I was misdiagnosed so many times but now, I live pain free since I’ve been seeing Dr. Wong. My husband and kids used to call me ‘grumpy’ but not anymore! Thank you Dr. Wong!”

Signed,
Ligaya A. RN, San Diego, CA.

 UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL ***

When I first came to Dr. Wong, I was in constant pain and could barely walk up the steps to his office. Now, after being under his care, exercise to strengthen my back and body, I can honestly say that I am pain free! I am no longer taking any pain medication. My bowling game is better and I am now walking about 3 miles a day. I am back to enjoying life as I did before my back problems.

Signed,
Larry D. San Diego, CA

Several times a day, patients thank me for helping them with their health problems. But I can’t really take the credit. My unfortunate mistake is that I’ve neglected to tell people that their bodies heal from within and that taking medications only covers their problems. My commitment is to tell as many people as possible about how an adjustment removes nerve pressure, and the body responds by healing itself. We get tremendous results. It’s as simple as that!

You Benefit from an Amazing Offer - Look, it shouldn’t cost you an arm and a leg to correct your health. You are going to write a check to someone for your health care expenses, you may as well write one for a lesser amount for chiropractic.

When you bring in this article, you will receive my entire new patient exam for $47. That’s with x-rays, computerized testing...the whole ball of wax. This exam could cost you $270 elsewhere. But, please call right away because this offer expires on November 15th, 2008, and I don’t want you to miss out. By the way, further care is very affordable and you’ll be happy to know that I have affordable family plans. You see I’m not trying to seduce you to come see me with this low start up fee, then to only make it up with high fees after that. Further care is very important to consider when making your choice of doctor. High costs can add up very quickly.

Great care at a great fee...Please, I hope that there’s no misunderstanding about quality of care just because I have a lower exam fee. You’ll get great care at a great fee. My qualifications...I’m a graduate of the California State University System with a bachelors in biochemistry and then I completed my doctorate at Palmer College of Chiropractic in San Jose, CA. I’ve been entrusted to take care of tiny babies to elderly seniors, like my grandma and grandpa. After finishing my internship in San Jose, I moved to San Diego to start my own practice. I just have that low exam fee to help more people who need care.

My assistants are Cindy and Lauren, and they are really great people. Our office is both friendly and warm and we try our best to make you feel at home. Our office is called GREATER LIFE FAMILY CHIROPRACTIC and we’re in Point Loma at 3689 Midway Drive, Suite G (we are in the Vons shopping center next to 24 Hour Fitness and Sport Chalet). Our phone number is 619-222-8885. Call Cindy, Lauren or myself today for an appointment. We can help you.

Your Friend,
Dr. Henry Wong, D.C

P.S. When accompanied by the first, I am also offering the second family member this same examination for only $27 but only before 11-15-2008 so call right now!

"We've always had the best Santas and the best Easter Bunnies, let's put it that way. So there was lots of community appreciation. Gary was one of those gentlemen for all the kids...he was always there," she said.

When he wasn't playing Santa to children, Glover was heavily involved in the Mission Beach community. He attended monthly meetings as a board member of the Mission Beach Recreation and Community Center at Santa Clara Point and served on a city Park and Recreation Department committee as a beach-area representative.

Glover has been recognized for his volunteerism by the city Park and Recreation Department over the past several years, Crockett said.

He also volunteered as chef of the yearly Pancake Breakfast hosted by the Santa Clara Recreation Center, Crockett said.

"He had a lot of really important roles," she said. "He was a great loss [to] our community."

Wife Pam Glover has also played an important role in the lives of Mission Beach and bay residents over the years as a past member of the Mission Bay Park Committee. She also served on the Mission Beach Precise Planning Board.

Y3K brings the party to RT's Longboard

By BART MENDOZA | BEACH & BAY PRESS

The cover band business is a tough one. Changing musical trends, format shifting nightclubs and fickle audiences make longevity in the competitive club scene a difficult prospect. Now entering its 10th year, local cover band Y3K has proven to be an exception to the rule, adapting and thriving on the local circuit. Though the band's name, does have connotations of the 1999 computer melt down scare, Y3K percussionist Preacher Patterson said the band's name variation has staying power built into it.

"Meltdown? Nothing like that," Patterson said. "Keyboardist John Weber and guitarist Ed Been founded the band and they wanted a name to last the millennia."

He admits that club goers sometimes get the name a little wrong. "People will come up with variations. We get a kick out of that. But once you get it, it sticks," he said.

The band, who perform at RT's Longboard Grill on Friday, Oct. 17, also includes vocalist Andi Judge and drummer Rocko. They have seen many changes in the local club scene since their inception. Indeed, Patterson considers this show to be a return to the beach area after the shuttering of several of their regular venues. They last performed in the area in 2004 at the Catamaran Hotel's now defunct Cannibal Bar. The former nightspot is now a spa.

"Venues come and go or the management flips for something different," Patterson said. "That's why we favor clubs with a track record. They seem to survive when the pendulum changes."

With most group's having a life span of three years or three albums, which ever comes first, a decade is also long time to hang on to a fan base, but Y3K has been able to keep theirs through a constantly changing song list and high-energy performances.

"We joke that the crowd keeps getting younger and we're heading in the opposite direction," guitarist Been said. "Lots of people have been with us since the beginning, but we've also picked up folks along the way."

For Patterson, the reasons for the band's longevity are obvious.

"I think it's because we really love each other," he said. "You've gotta have that kind of enjoyment to make it all good. You can tell it in our smiles."

The band's "all for one" attitude is also helpful.

"No one is featured in this group," he pointed out. "Rather, each can be the focus, to deliver their thing."

He notes the band's versatility as musicians to be an untapped resource for the band.

"We all can play other instruments also but haven't explored that area yet. We're waiting on John to pull out his accordion first," he joked.

While cover bands are sometimes seen as being less worthy of popularity than groups playing original music, Been isn't bothered by that perception.

"People are free to perceive," he said. "We play covers because we like them, and an awful lot of people like to sing along to songs that they know."

Y3K has close to 300 songs in their set list.

"The properties that we look for are is it recognizable, can you dance to it and can we do it justice. The biggest crowd-pleasers in their repertoire are tunes from the '80s, especially the one-hit wonder variety," Been said. "You'd be surprised how many people can do the dance moves from the 'Safety Dance' video."

The band does take requests.

"We recently had to play 'Hava Nagila' for a wedding, probably the most rocking version of that tune ever," he said.

There are tunes they would rather not play, though purely on principle.

"To date, we've never played 'Brown-Eyed Girl' or 'Brickhouse,' and hopefully we never will. For the right amount of money though, anything is possible," he said.

Y3K performs at RT's Longboard Grille, 1466 Garnet Ave. Friday, Oct. 17.

Bolts get payback with big win over Pats

By BOB HURST | BEACH & BAY PRESS

With their backs to the wall, and possibly their season on the line, the San Diego Chargers responded with a big win at home on Sunday, Oct. 12 night over the New England Patriots.

From Philip Rivers' three touch-down passes to a defense that stopped the Patriots cold on fourth-and-goal from the 1-yard line, the Chargers were on their game in a 30-10 rout.

The Chargers evened their record at 3-3, moving one game behind AFC West, leading Denver, which lost to Jacksonville.

"This was obviously a big game for us," Rivers said. "It was big because of the situation we are in, because it gets us back to .500 before we go on this world tour here the next couple of weeks."

The world tour Rivers refers to is a game at Buffalo on Sunday, followed by a trip to London to play New Orleans on Oct. 26.

Rivers, who went 18 of 27 for 306 yards, threw TD passes of 49 yards to Malcolm Floyd, four yards to Vincent Jackson and one yard to Antonio Gates.

The icing on the cake was beating the Patriots, who the Chargers lost to in the AFC Championship game last season. New England had won three straight over the Chargers, including twice in the postseason.

New England (3-2), which is playing without injured quarter-back Tom Brady for the remainder of the season, scored its fewest points since a 21-0 loss to Miami on Dec. 10, 2006.

The Chargers defense punished Brady's backup, Matt Cassel, by sacking him four times and intercepting him once.

"We knew that there was going to be a lot of energy in the stadium tonight," Cassel said. "We knew that they were gonna come out and try to shut us out early. They did a good job."

New England's regular-season road winning streak was snapped at 12 with the loss.

Chargers running back LaDainian Tomlinson, who has been hobbled with a sprained toe this season, became the 17th running back to rush for more than 11,000 career yards.

Rams get first win: Don't give up on the St. Louis Rams quite yet.

They pulled off a 19-17 upset win at Washington on Sunday, ending their eight-game losing streak over two seasons.

The Rams cooled off the Redskins, who were seeking their fifth straight win. St. Louis forced Washington into committing its first three turnovers of the season. Josh Brown's 49-yard field goal on the last play of the game won it.

Did the Redskins overlook the Rams?

"We hadn't thought ahead all season long until this week," Redskins running back Clinton Portis said. "The previous four games, the focus was there."

All it takes is 11 seconds: The Chicago Bears may have celebrated their comeback prematurely on Sunday at Atlanta. And many Falcons fans left too early.

After Kyle Orton's 17-yard touchdown pass to Rashied Davis gave the Bears a 20-19 lead with :11 left to play, all there was left to do was to run out the clock. But a short squib kick was followed by a 26-yard pass from Matt Ryan to Michael Jenkins on the sideline to stop the clock with 1 second left.

Then Jason Elam connected on a 48-yard field goal to give the Falcons a 22-20 win.

"We have to play a full game," Orton said. "We didn't."

Week 7 - NFL Preview & Picks

By BOB HURST | BEACH&BAY PRESS

San Diego plays at Buffalo this week in search of its second consecutive win, while other big games include the Saints versus the Panthers, Vikings at Chicago and Colts versus the Packers. Here's a look at this week's games. All times are Pacific.

Last week: 11-3
Season record: 60-28

Sunday Oct. 19
San Diego 3-3
at Buffalo 4-1, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Chargers won 24-21 at Buffalo in 2006.
Stats & Stuff: San Diego WR Vincent Jackson had a career-high 134 yards on 5 catches with a TD in win over Patriots. In the fourth quarter this season, Buffalo QB Trent Edwards is 27 of 35 for 350 yards, 3 TDs and no INTs.
Game Day: The Bolts have a spring to their step after big win over New England. Buffalo is coming off its bye week and shoots for third straight win at home. Getting pressure on Edwards could be the key for Chargers.
Pick: Chargers 28, Bills 24

New Orleans 3-3
at Carolina 4-2, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Saints won 31-6 at Carolina in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: DE Will Smith has 7.0 sacks in last 14 games for New Orleans. Carolina QB Jake Delhomme is 6-2 vs. Saints, his former team. Panthers have won 4 of last 5 meetings with New Orleans.
Game Day: Interesting matchup between the Saints' No. 1 passing offense against Carolina's No. 2 pass defense.
Pick: Panthers 24, Saints 21

Minnesota 3-3
at Chicago 3-3, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Vikings won 20-13 at home in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: Minnesota QB Gus Frerotte has won 3 of last 4 starts versus Bears. Chicago's 3 losses have been by a combined total of 8 points. Vikings swept season series last year.
Game Day: Bears must contain Vikings RB Adrian Peterson, who chewed them up for 302 rushing yards, 5 TDs last season, including a franchise-record 224 yards rushing in game at Chicago.
Pick: Bears 25, Vikings 23

Pittsburgh 4-1
at Cincinnati 0-6, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Steelers won 24-10 at home in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: Steelers have won 6 in a row at Cincinnati. Bengals RB Kenny Watson averages 5.2 yards per carry vs. Steelers. Pittsburgh swept Bengals last season.

Game Day: Bengals ship is sinking fast.
Pick: Steelers 30, Bengals 17

Tennessee 5-0
at Kansas City 1-4, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Titans won 26-17 at Kansas City in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: Tennessee's streak of 8 straight regular-season wins is the longest current streak in the NFL. Chiefs offense ranks 29th in league with 254.4 yards per game.
Game Day: The Titans, the only unbeaten team left, aim for their first 6-0 start in franchise history.
Pick: Titans 24, Chiefs 20

Baltimore 2-3
at Miami 2-3, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Dolphins won 22-16 at home in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: Baltimore RB Willis McGahee is averaging 91.8 rushing yards per game in 7 games against Miami. Dolphins' 22-16 OT win over Ravens last Dec. was their only victory of the season.
Game Day: Dolphins are 4-0 at home vs. Ravens and look to continue that streak.

Pick: Dolphins 20, Ravens 19

San Francisco 2-4
at N.Y. Giants 4-1, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Giants won 33-15 at home in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: 49ers LB Takeo Spikes has INT in 3 consecutive games. Giants DE Justin Tuck has 5.0 sacks in last 6 games.
Game Day: New York expects a giant turnaround from Monday night's loss at Cleveland.
Pick: Giants 31, 49ers 10

Dallas 4-2
at St. Louis 1-4, 10 a.m.
Last Meeting: Cowboys won 35-7 at home in 2007.
Stats & Stuff: Dallas' Jason Witten has 352 catches for 4,133 yards since 2004, the most in the NFC for a tight end. Rams are 6-2 at home when Steven Jackson runs for 100 yards.
Game Day: Cowboys QB Tony Romo is out for up to 4 weeks with a broken finger on his passing hand, so Brad Johnson takes over. Johnson is 4-0 in starts versus St. Louis.

Pick: Cowboys 23, Rams 20

Detroit 0-5
at Houston 1-4, 1:05 p.m.
Last Meeting: Lions won 28-16 at home in 2004.
Stats & Stuff: Detroit allows the most yards per game in league at 421.6. Texans are fifth in NFL offense, averaging 362.6 yards.

Pick: Texans 28, Lions 14

Indianapolis 3-2
at Green Bay 3-3, 1:15 p.m.
Last Meeting: Colts won 45-31 at home in 2004.
Stats & Stuff: Indianapolis is 20-6 against NFC under coach Tony Dungy. Packers' Donald Driver has a catch in 101 consecutive games, second-longest streak in team history next to Sterling Sharpe's 103.
Game Day: The Colts seem to be back in a groove, but it'll be a challenge to upend the Pack at Lambeau Field.

Pick: Colts 27, Packers 24

N.Y. Jets 3-2
at Oakland 1-4, 1:15 p.m.
Last Meeting: Jets won 23-3 at home in 2006.

Stats & Stuff: Cleveland's 455 offensive yards in win over Giants was most since Week 2 of last season. Redskins WR Santana Moss is averaging 15.3 yards per catch (tie for 19th in NFL).
Game Day: Cleveland has been playing better over its last 2 games while Redskins are coming off upset loss to Rams. Washington gets back with strained back muscles,” Upp continued. “But our junior Jenny Richey stepped up and had 11 kills while sophomore Nicolette Rice stepped in and played the whole game and did a real good job.” Lady Buc setter Megan Upp had 31 assists against San Diego. Nayeli Davila was “serving real well,” according to Upp, including five ace serves.

Backcourt specialists Belden and Megan Upp led the defensive stats with the most digs.

“We have also gotten real steady play from junior Kelsey Lawlor,” Upp said.

“We have a young team and our sophomores are really contributing — I’m very pleased,” Upp said. “There are no big egos on this team. There is a great team atmosphere — whether it is off the bench or the starters, everyone is doing their part. I’m excited about the second half of the season.”

The Lady Bucs’ record stands at 11-4 after playing all the Eastern League teams in the first round of league play.

PAUL DOUGLAS | BEACH & BAY PRESS
Mission Bay High School's Lady Bucs varsity volleyball team, 11-4 in Eastern League play, hosts league leaders Patrick Henry High Thursday, Oct. 16.

Mission Bay had two narrow losses to Serra and Coronado along the way. “We had match-point in both matches and let it get away — it was so close,” Upp added. “But I think we can do better in the second half (of the season) and finish the close ones.”

Mission Bay returned only two starting players from 2007, Megan Upp and Kelsey Lawlor. But with seven juniors and sophomores on the '08 squad, the future is looking good for the girls volleyball program. The ranks of the JV and novice teams are full of growing talents too, according to Upp and program coordinator, girls PE coach Crystal Frasca.

The varsity team includes seniors Upp, Belden, Richey and Joy Libs. The juniors include Marlee Glasgow and Lawlor. Sophomores on the squad include Davila, Haili Hanna, Liz Choate, Rhoades and Rice.

The Lady Bucs will host league-leading Patrick Henry High Thursday, Oct. 16, at 3 p.m. They will return to their home court Oct. 23 and 28 for games against Kearny and OLP.
