Redistricting Commission working out changes for District 2

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Like assembling a giant jigsaw puzzle, an independent Redistricting Commission is busy redrawing all nine City Council district boundaries trying to make them all fit.

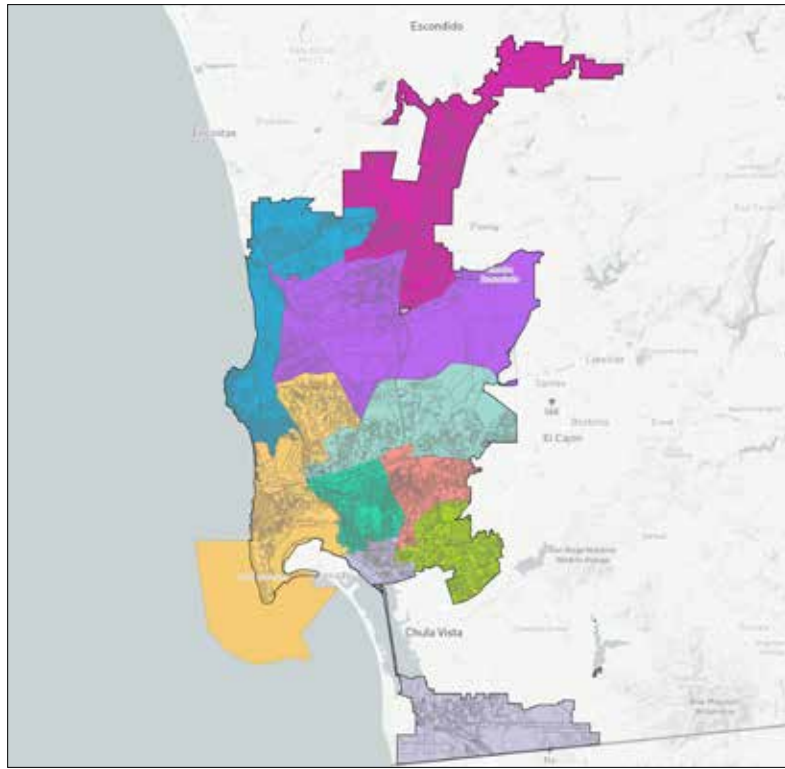

But it is a task easier said than done. And how will those most impacted by the realignment feel about the boundary changes?

With the Redistricting Commission's vote scheduled in December on a final map, Peninsula residents and others along the coast are making suggestions as to how, and how not, the boundaries they've been accustomed to for the past decade should be changed.

Presently, the current redistricting map proposed for all nine districts, District 2, would combine most of Pacific Beach with La Jolla in one council district, while putting Point Loma, Mission, and Ocean beaches along with much of Clairemont in a separate coastal council district.

Another proposed redistricting boundary change still under consideration calls for putting all or most of San Diego's coastal communities under the roof of one council district.

That one-district-fits-all-coastal-communities map proposal has come under fire from Peninsulans and Pacific Beach residents alike, both currently in Council District 2.

"One district for the coastal zone is not realistic given both the population and the different communities from Torrey Pines to Point Loma," said Cathy Kenton, chair of Midway-Pacific Highway Community Planning Group. "I'm curious to see how this all plays out. If the plans for Midway's revitalization and redevelopment are ever allowed to take place, the redistricting in 10 years will be even more interesting."

"District 2 now (with redistricting) has a lot of Clairemont," said Don Sevrens, a member of the Peninsula Community Planning Board speaking for himself. "The Navy's potentially 45-story towers on Pacific Highway (proposed NAVWAR revitalization) will be a game-changer for the entire peninsula in terms of exiting and entering. But not something voters in D2 can have any say over."

Redistricting is the government-mandated process of redrawing political district lines every 10 years following completion of the U.S. Census, which occurred in 2020. The federal government requires that districts must have nearly equal populations and must not discriminate based on race or ethnicity.

Another requirement of redistricting is that existing districts should not have a total population deviation of more than 10% from the previous census. In 2010, there was a total district citywide deviation of approximately 4.59%.

Pacific Beach Town Council recently sent a letter to the Redistricting Commission opposing any proposed boundary change that would split Pacific Beach between two different council districts.

"We very much appreciate the compromise preliminary map that you have approved, which continues to keep the Pacific Beach community planning group area unified," said PBTC president Marcella Bothwell in the letter. "We have multiple organizations which serve this specific planned area. By keeping this area united we can continue our work in the neighborhood and community."

Added PBTC's letter: "We strongly oppose any map that divides us between districts. We do have a small ask that Mission Beach planning area be included with Pacific Beach in District 1. Pacific Beach and Mission Beach have long been contiguous and have worked closely together on many issues. The stewardship of Mission Bay by both Pacific and Mission Beach residents is vital for the well-being of Mission Bay."

"On Nov. 13, the commission voted 7-2 to approve Map 74956 as the Preliminary Map submitted to the City Clerk on Nov. 15," said Lora Fleming, chief of staff for the San Diego Redistricting Commission.

Tenants at OB apartment complex claim management group breached contract

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

After receiving a 60-day notice to vacate, tenants in an Ocean Beach apartment complex are complaining of improper treatment by their management company, which they claim is forging ahead with remodeling plans to their detriment before they're out.

The dispute is between residents in the two-building apartment complex at 4802 Orchard Ave. and their property manager, Lifestyle Property Management Group, Inc.

"It was rumored for a long time and was made official Nov. 4," said Sam Montero, a tenant in the complex of his notice to vacate. "The stated reasons are remodeling and repairs. But they started remodeling, demolishing, even before issuing us our notice."

The two-building apartment complex at 4802 Orchard Ave.

"The apartment complex has been almost uninhabitable, and the stress of finding a new place right now is intense," said Taylor

Owen, another remaining Orchard Avenue apartment tenant. "The percentage is at its highest rate of people looking for apartments. I have been scammed and let down many times throughout this process. The landlords have given zero compensation for what they have put on our plate."

"We knew this would happen when it was bought by a new owner and the first thing done was to remodel the pool area, which blocked it off in the dead heat of summer," said another resident in the same apartment complex who requested anonymity.

"There have been a lot of issues. They never gave us the name of the owner just the name of a shell company. I had to shower at work due to my tub backing up. As far as the noise, dust, et cetera, yes major issues. It's a really bad time too due to the lack of housing and people paying cash to buy properties and remodel them. We were able to find a place still in OB. but nowhere near as nice."

Montero said what he'd like to see is "fair compensation for alleged breach of contract terms that were made. One of them being repairs and demolition. And the other issue is the water is cloudy. How safe is it?"

Montero has filed formal complaints with both the Better Business Bureau and the City of San Diego's Code Enforcement Department.

After repeated attempts, Lifestyle Property Management Group, Inc. could not be reached for comment.

City Council approves vaccine mandate for City employees

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

San Diego City Council voted 8-1 on Nov. 29 to pass an emergency ordinance requiring all current – and future – City employees to be fully vaccinated against COVID-19 or face termination.

The sole dissenting vote was cast by the only Republican on the nine-member City Council, Chris Cate from District 6, who is terming out in December 2022.

The vaccine mandate was made effective on Dec. 1. City contractors will also be required to be fully vaccinated, but they have until Jan. 3 to fulfill that requirement.

"Thank you to my colleagues for their support for this important item," said District 2 Councilmember Jennifer Campbell. "San Diego County has had roughly 400,000 confirmed cases of COVID-19 and 4,325 people in our county have lost their lives from it. Those 4,325 people were someone's parent, someone's spouse, someone's child.

"We must do everything we can to prevent the spread of this deadly virus and save lives. As City employees, especially those of us in charge of public safety, we must set an example, and act accordingly, in the interest of keeping San Diegans throughout the City healthy and safe."

Mayor Todd Gloria thanked the City Council following its vote noting it was a "team effort" to get the item on an agenda. Noting he was a student of history, Gloria then alluded to the 1918 flu epidemic that hit San Diego, during which the City Council then failed initially to vote in favor of implementing safety measures to address the pandemic immediately, though they did so ultimately after more deaths.

"This council has learned the mistakes of the past," Gloria said during a press conference.

"They understand the times we find ourselves in. And they understand that bold action is necessary to get us out of this pandemic. Let me be clear: Vaccines are the way out of this pandemic."

Added Gloria: "While we are still working to anticipate the operational impacts of this decision, what we know is that there have been operational impacts to date – missed trash collections, the two police academies that have been suspended, the fire academy that was suspended, the number of times that we've had to have operational changes to our fire-rescue response because we had over 30 firefighters quarantining. We are being impacted today, and that is why this action was so very necessary. I want San Diegans to be able to interact with the City's workforce with confidence."

Concerning the prospect of City employees losing their jobs, Gloria said: "I don't want to lose any member of our City family. I hope that none of them choose to leave City service. But more importantly, I don't want to lose any of them to COVID-19. And sadly to date, we've lost a few."

"I hope that those who have yet to take the vaccine will choose to do so. I hope they'll do it for their health, the health of their loved ones, and their co-workers. I hope they'll do it for their City."

"I encourage all eligible San Diegans to get vaccinated," said Cates. "Moving past this pandemic requires us to work together and make smart decisions."

Cates, however, warned that the City needs to recognize "the big picture" in addressing the vaccine-mandate issue.

"A citywide vaccine mandate would create an alarming situation in which the San Diego Police Department could lose hundreds of police officers overnight," he said.

Homeless shelter opening soon in former Pier 1 Imports on Sports Arena Boulevard

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Midway-Pacific Highway Community planners in November were told that a homeless people shelter being developed in their neighborhood will open soon.

“All the tenant improvements are complete and supplies are starting to come onsite,” said Lisa Jones, executive vice president of strategic initiatives at the San Diego Housing Commission, about the now-vacant former Pier 1 Imports building at 3220 Sports Arena Blvd., which is being converted into a shelter. “We anticipate a soft opening sometime between Dec. 6 and Dec. 10.”

In October, Jones told Midway planners that the new facility will be a more progressive, much smaller shelter, 44 beds up to a maximum of 50. This is in contrast to other larger shelters in San Diego, which can house 150 up to 324 beds, such as the shelter at Golden Hall downtown.

Midway has an increasing amount of homeless and a growing number of encampments strewn throughout the district. Alpha Project homeless providers will be partnering with the City and County to operate this new shelter’s day-to-day operations providing onsite 24/7 security. There will be a dedicated contact available at all times at the new shelter, and there will be a hotline number area residents can call should problems arise.

Of the new shelter’s purpose, Jones said: “The goal isn’t to open this site and get a bunch of people into it real fast. That’s not the model. The focus of the shelter’s community-based outreach teams will be on identifying folks who they think this is an appropriate intervention for and building a relationship with them. The idea is to ramp it up slowly, probably over a couple-month period.”

Noting that the need right now “outstrips the resources” in responding to and addressing homelessness, Jones described recruiting and training shelter staff as “challenging.” Given that the new Midway shelter is a smaller, more interpersonal model, Jones added staff recruitment, usually taking six to eight weeks, could take longer, from 12 to 16 months.

Asked by Midway-Pacific Highway Community Planning Group chair Cathy Kenton what the average number of contacts it takes interfacing with homeless to get them off the street and into shelters, Jones replied: “This is a new type of shelter. We’re learning as we go. But it’s not uncommon for it to take five, 10 interactions with them to build trust where they become convinced that what’s being offered to them is valuable, which gets them to make a different decision.”

Jones added she will contact Midway planners offering them personal tours of the facility soon once the building is furnished and staffed. “Right now it’s an empty building,” she said.

Ocean Beach palm trees on Newport are safe for now

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

A fight by OB neighbors to save a dozen or more palm trees on Newport Avenue from being cut down because their height allegedly interferes with incoming plane flights is not over.

“Though the temporary restraining order was denied by the judge on Nov. 10, she left some doors open for us, and the City has agreed not to do anything as far as (removing) the trees are concerned,” said attorney Marc Applebaum, noting a lawsuit he has brought on behalf of a Point Loma couple and other neighbors continues. “Because of the litigation, there is kind of a cease-fire in place.”

Applebaum has been in contact with a couple of other attorneys who have litigation pending against the City’s arborist. “What we’re probably going to do is file a lawsuit in state court, but we’re conferring with our clients,” he said.

The attorney said the reason why the judge denied his request for a temporary restraining order was that she found that “my clients did not own the trees, that the City owns the trees, and they can do whatever they want with them.”

“However, some case law has been established, which states that even though [the trees] are on City property, that they’re owned by the residents,” said Applebaum. “So we’re still digging into it all and doing more research. Probably we’re going to be filing a case in state court or amending the federal complaint. The good news is the trees are safer now.”

Ocean Beach neighbors have sued the City in an attempt to block the scheduled emergency removal of several Newport Avenue palm trees, arguing the trees are healthy and historic and not a threat to incoming aircraft as the San Diego County Regional Airport Authority claims.

Afghan refugee becomes a resettlement coach in San Diego

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

In the 1990s, Jazz Cannon was an Afghan refugee forced to flee her war-ravaged country and live in limbo for 10 years in Pakistan.

Now she's a proud American citizen, author, activist, and accredited immigration resettlement coach in San Diego.

Cannon is also sharing her harrowing personal story while helping new Afghan refugees assimilate to Western culture, a difficult transition.

"I spent many nights fearing for my life as missiles shot by my home, shattering our windows," said Jazz (her adopted name), whose family was hunted by the mujahideen (Islamic guerrilla fighters) for having ties to the previous ruling administration. "We had to go from one city to another to try and keep ourselves alive.

"When the situation got really bad, we had no other option but to cross the border to Pakistan because it was too dangerous for us even to fly. We would have been apprehended."

While fleeing to Pakistan with her family in a bus, Jazz said her father was pulled over for interrogation and asked his name. "He said his name was Charlie," Jazz said, sharing that her dad was next asked his last name, to which he replied, "Chaplain."

"The mujahideen didn't know who that was," she said.

Added Cannon of the horrors of war that she experienced: "My 5-year-old cousin got shot while he was out riding his bike. My uncle got shot. He survived. My cousin didn't. My aunt's husband went missing. To this day, over 20 years, they've never found him."

But Cannon said her family found Pakistan was not safe either once they got there. "Our lives were still at stake because Pakistan was another Islamic country," she said adding, "We applied for political asylum or permanent residency. We sent letters to every single embassy from Australia to New Zealand to Poland. They all came back saying, 'We regret to inform you.'"

Jazz said it took 10 years in exile in Pakistan before she was able to finally leave Pakistan and move to the West legally.

Having been a woman in a male-dominated Afghan society, Cannon said she found out first-hand what it meant to be a second-class citizen in her own country.

"The first thing the Islamic regime did was take away women's rights," she said. "Women were not allowed outside without a chaperone. Women were not allowed to drive. Women were not allowed to vote."

After finding personal freedom in the West, Cannon said: "The greatest gift you have as a woman today is to live your life, your way."

Jazz pointed out the trauma of being an Afghan refugee doesn't end when you're resettled. "Coming to the West presented an entirely new set of challenges in terms of assimilating into Western culture," she said.

In sharing her story across social platforms, Cannon seeks to "calm new refugees' fears" while educating Americans about the plight of refugees fleeing their own country to become strangers in a strange land.

Cannon wants Americans to understand how refugees struggle to assimilate to life here, how women are impacted under the Taliban laws, and how to stay motivated despite adversity.

Most importantly, she wants Americans to understand how to help new refugees coming to the country today. Toward that end, Cannon started a Tik Tok channel that has gained 300,000 views in a few weeks.

By sharing what it took for her to work through adversity and hardships, to create a life that never would have been possible for her before, Jazz is helping Afghan refugees build a better life in their new adopted home.

She has a book coming out soon titled "For Azaadee," meaning "for freedom." For more information,

2021 Holiday Gift Guide of Ocean Beach

SHOP LOCAL: Buying gifts in Ocean Beach matters to the community

BECOME AN ADVOCATE

It's easier than ever to find a local movement supporting shopping locally. Joining one is even easier. Shopping local is even more crucial now than ever, as so many small businesses try to survive the pandemic.

In most cases, the best way to show love for you local business in to buy from them. The holidays are a great time to give back to your small business community by spending your dollars there.

But what happens when you go beyond the purchase? How much can you achieve by becoming an actual voice in the conversation promoting the act of shopping locally into the mainstream?

JOIN THE MISSION

Community-focused organization, like Ocean Beach Merchants Association (OBMA) are continually seeking volunteers to help get the word out on their efforts. Choosing to devote your time or resources toward the overall growth of the small business landscape can have a big impact on your community.

Individuals looking for everything from clothing to home improvement services to office supplies can look to small businesses to fill those needs:

- Ocean Beach has unique and personalized gifts that you can't find anywhere else.
- Look for small businesses for any and all of your shopping needs. Chances are items sold by big box retailers also are sold by small businesses. When the options are the same or similar, purchase from a small business instead of its big box competitor.

- Readily provide recommendations of small businesses with which you have done business. Too often people are quick to complain about places that have failed them, but those same people don't think to say kind words about companies that went above and beyond. Share great experiences on social media or through word of mouth.

- Talk to small business owners first if you have an issue. It's tempting to go directly to social media to complain about something, but such complaints can have a dire impact. Always take issues to the manager or business owner first to see if a resolution can be reached. A manager may not be aware of an issue at all. Give small businesses a chance to make it right before taking things public.

- If you own a small business, rely on other small businesses to fulfill your needs.

Small businesses have experienced unprecedented setbacks due to COVID-19. By supporting small businesses, communities can help them regain stable footing.

Find local businesses through the OBMA directory at OceanBeachSanDiego.com or reach out to OBMA at 619-224-4906 and they will point you in the right direction. (In a world that doesn't answer the phone-we do. Think of us as the OB Concierge)

Gifting from the Heart of OB!

Ocean Beach businesses offer a wonderful section of local, meaningful gifts for the holidays!

Friends and family will appreciate that you took the time to give them gifts that not only bring you the joy of giving, but which support the community and businesses that make Ocean Beach one of a kind!

Ocean Beach Holiday Parade returns with rockin' good time

Holiday Auction and Party, and Crooked Tree IPA are back

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

The cornerstone of Ocean Beach Town Council's 42nd "Holidays in OB" celebration this year as always will be the community's parade kicking off at 5:05 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 4.

The OB holiday theme for 2021 is "Rockin' Around the Crooked Tree." That theme pays homage to the beach community's left-leaning, specially selected Christmas tree.

A suitable specimen is chosen every year, and then firmly planted in the sand near OB Pier days before the parade. It is decorated by children and others in the community and remains up until Jan. 2, 2022.

The crooked tree over the years has become an enduring symbol of OB's offbeat vibe and bend-but-don't-break attitude.

All of the many Yuletide events are planned and executed by OB Town Council, which also handles the annual Christmas tree selection and implantation in the beach.

Traditional Format

The year-end holiday extravaganza in 2021 could just as easily have been themed "Return To Near Normal."

"We're back to the traditional format," said Corey Bruins, OBTC president and parade committee chair. "We've got a pretty good foundation and good template down for the traditional format."

REVERSE PARADE

Last year due to COVID, the OB

Crooked Tree IPA label.

COURTESY PHOTO

Parade had to innovate to be held. Organizers, forced to get creative, came up with the idea for a "reverse" parade with stationary floats set up at a cordoned-off Dog Beach. Parade-goers drove through with their vehicles to see all the floats and displays in the parking lot, which was set up in a welcoming way with a little trail for folks to follow.

Of last year's parade, Bruins said, "All things considered, it went well." But he noted, "It was an adventure. Last year broke the chain of tradition being the first time in four decades that it (parade) wasn't held with the same format. But we kept it going."

Added Bruins of 2020's reverse parade: "We were starting from scratch, making it up as we went along. But we were happy to do something instead of giving up and doing nothing."

Last year's reverse parade was also notable for another reason. "I don't know of any other event that has shut the entire Dog Beach parking lot down. That was a first," noted Bruins.

PARADE ROUTE

Some 100 floats and parade

entries are expected for the 90 minute parade on Dec. 4. The parade commences immediately following the lighting of the Christmas tree.

The parade route runs from Sunset Cliffs Boulevard down Newport Avenue, turning the corner at Abbot Street where entries will be reviewed by judges. Parade entries will be judged on: Best Use of Lights, Best OB Spirit, Most Unusual, Best Kids Group, Best Performance, Best Live Music and Best Overall.

There will be a special VIP deck section set up on the Wonderland/Surf Lodge building deck where guests can have the best views and will be served snacks and beverages.

HOLIDAY AUCTION & PARTY

The 2021 Holiday Auction and Party is scheduled for 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11 at The Holding Company, 5046 Newport Ave. Join the OBTC for their holiday party and auction to benefit the Food and Toy Drive and other community initiatives.

Proceeds help the OB Town Council brighten the holidays for more than 150 underprivileged families and seniors across the community. If you are interested in donating an auction item, contact Cameron@obtowncouncil.org.

CRAFT FAIR & BREW

There will also be a craft fair held in Veterans Plaza Park as part of the OB holiday festivities. Also, look for a collaborative OB beer – Crooked Tree IPA – brewed especially for the occasion whose namesake is, once again, the community's crooked Christmas tree.

HOLIDAY LEGACY

Bruins noted the beach community owes a debt of gratitude to The James Gang Printers in town who started OB's numerous Christmas traditions.

"It all started with the James Gang brothers 42 years ago who brought down the first tree and people followed them," Bruins said. "A couple of years after that they needed to raise some funding to keep the parade going and that's when the Holiday Auction and the Food & Toy Drive got started. Everything got started with the tree."

Ocean Beach Holiday Food & Toy Drive to help out less fortunate

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

Ocean Beach Holiday Food & Toy Drive co-chairs Stacie Woehrle and Cameron Reid are ramping up to provide food and gifts to more than 150 needy local families and seniors this year.

"We're volunteer-driven and last year we had to limit the number of volunteers participating in sorting and packaging due to COVID," said Woehrle, about the food and toy donations, which will be distributed by volunteers working out of OB Masonic Lodge at 1711 Sunset Cliffs Blvd. on Saturday, Dec. 18.

"We're going to be back to normal, with vaccinations we were able to bring a lot more people back," said Reid about the charity community drive culminating Dec. 18 with the participation of as many as 60 community volunteers at the lodge.

"We still need volunteers to deliver presents and food that they will load up in their cars," added Reid of the annual food and toy drive sponsored by Ocean Beach Town Council, which works with local churches, schools, and the YMCA to identify needy area families.

"We don't do any screening," Reid said of the recipient selection process. "We just go and serve those folks."

Reid added some recipients living out of their vehicles "come to us and pick things up" adding, "It is a very emotional hand-off. Unfortunately, we see some of the same families year after year."

Woehrle praised the community involvement in the drive that she characterized as a "joyful scene" at the Masonic Lodge. "We get involvement and contributions from a lot of different organizations," she said noting recipients are generally in 92107 and 92106 ZIP codes.

Delivery day for the care packages is Dec. 18 and begins in the morning with volunteers loading up cars with goods. Woehrle said it's a labor of love. "Some people bring their kids and everyone sort of gets involved," she said adding, "Some people make multiple deliveries. It's great fun."

Of their efforts, Reid noted: "This is a great way to engage a lot of

Woehrle said the annual food and toy drive is a fulfilling experience for volunteers.

"It's so rewarding, which is what drives me to want to participate," she said. "This is my fourth food and toy drive. We hope to improve every year, effectively broaden our reach to more families and seniors. We just love doing it."

Holidays begin as crooked Christmas tree arrives in Ocean Beach

Realtor Catrina Russell donates this year's arboreal tradition

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

It is urban lore that the annual donated crooked Christmas tree in Ocean Beach always leans to the left.

And this year's specimen, furnished by Ocean Beach Realtor Catrina Russell, which was firmly embedded in the sandy beach at the foot of Newport Avenue on Nov. 30, is no exception.

Russell related how she and her boyfriend bought a property in 1999 on Long Branch Avenue that a friend of hers had rented previously and planted a small pine tree in the front yard.

"We moved in and I used to decorate that tree every year for Christmas without even needing a ladder," recalled Russell. "It was cute and I have always loved that tree. The property has a very special place in our hearts because that is where we lived when we got married and had our two children. We have watched that tree grow over the years, and it is now time to remove it."

Added Russell: "It is so big and crooked now that we are worried it poses a threat to our next-door neighbor. We have resisted removing it because we love the tree but now have no choice. The only thing that makes us feel better about it is that it is going to be the OB Christmas tree this year."

"I have been friends with the girl that planted it since I was in seventh grade and she is the reason I moved to OB. So the whole circle feels very special to us. We love the fact that a little piece of our family's history in OB can now be part of our favorite celebration of the year – the OB Holiday Parade."

That story is typical of the varied donated Christmas trees that Larry Thayer, now more a tree "consultant" than a tree "mover," has experienced in transplanting and moving trees to the sand in OB over the years.

"I got involved with it (Christmas tree) about 20 years ago," said Thayer noting, "It was Claudia Jack in the Ocean Beach Main-Street Office then that got me into it."

In terms of picking out just the right specimen tree, Thayer noted: "We like to get them somewhere in OB. The closer the better. Some of them are pretty big."

When a tree is offered for donation, it's Thayer's job to inspect it first. "We just look to see if it's feasible (to move)," he said. "Is it too big to be taken out safely? That way we decide if that tree is a good candidate."

Thayer recalled the first tree he helped move was on Adair Street and took 4 1/2-hours to move. But Russell's donated tree this year will be a cinch compared to that one, he said.

"It's not a very big tree even though it looks kind of big," Thayer said. "This tree is maybe 30 feet, and we've had trees that were 40 to 50 feet. If we start at 7 a.m., it will probably only take us a couple of hours, with 10 minutes drive to the beach, to get it moved over and put in the ground."

Thayer likes the smaller donated Christmas trees because they have that "Charlie Brown factor" making them all the more lovable.

Concerning donated trees being left-leaning, Thayer commented, "They all want to go every which way or the other."

Thayer said transporting the Christmas tree to the beach every year has become a spectator sport. "It's a really big deal for the residents who know it's the OB tree and like to take pictures and honk their horns when it goes by," he said.

Corey Bruins, Ocean Beach Town Council president and parade chair, spoke of the process involved in implanting the big tree in the sand each year.

"We keep a list on file of folks who've indicated they'd like to have their trees donated," he said adding once a suitable tree is found, Bob's Crane comes out to transport the tree along with the help of San Diego Police Department.

"There's a big giant drum underneath the sand," noted Bruins. "We pull the top off and plant the tree in the ground."

Bruins said it's no accident the community's Christmas tree is crooked.

ORIGIN OF OB'S CHRISTMAS TREE & PARADE

OB's Christmas tree planting is a tradition dating back more than four decades started by one of OB's cornerstone businesses, The James Gang printers. "Actually, it was my late brother, Rich James, who started it," said Mike James of his family's business and their historic contribution to the beach community's annual holiday tree planting and festive parade. "Rich brought the first tree down in 1980 from Mount Shasta, a 70-foot Star pine," said Mike. "It was his idea to have a giant tree at the beach."

That first tree planting was what got the first OB parade kick-started as well.

"The night after they put the first tree in the sand, my brothers went from bar to bar in OB handing out kazooos that you hum into and makes noises," Mike said. "They all marched doing this impromptu parade down the middle of Newport Avenue to celebrate the tree."

There has been a tree, and a parade, ever since in Ocean Beach.

"We put guidelines on the tree, kind of like how you put tension on a tent to make sure it stays up in the wind," he said. "But when the tree doesn't have a root structure anymore, you don't have that tension, and it's manually just going to start to lean a little bit."

Added Bruins, "Last year the tree looked pretty straight when it first went in. We had several folks come by and complain."

Ocean Beach runner striding to a different beat

By FRANK SABATINI JR. | THE BEACON

Ocean Beach resident Christy Collins wears two career hats. One of them is conventional. The other one very much isn't. Yet from within both professions, she helps clients look and feel their best.

Collins alternates between working as a hair stylist and coaching people how to exercise while under the influence of cannabis. The latter is a concept that was studied a few years ago by the University of Colorado, which reported nearly 82 percent of its 497 participants said marijuana increased their motivation to exercise.

More recently, The New York Times touched on the subject in a July article titled, "Can Marijuana Make You a Better Athlete?" The general consensus in that piece was less conclusive.

But Collins and scores of other cannabis users say they discovered the answer years ago.

"I first stumbled upon combining cannabis with running in 2014 because I had a significant amount of weight to lose. I saw the runner's physique but hated every minute of running. Yet when I used cannabis, I couldn't stop moving," she recalled. "It happened so organically."

Before long, Collins had dropped 50 pounds and adopted her own regimen. She then spent the next seven years developing customized programs for others through a business she launched called HighStryde.

In lieu of ellipticals and weights, Collins steers her HighStryde clients into walking, trotting or running—or a combination thereof. The times and distances of the "high strides" are entirely up to the individual, although starting out with 30-minutes sessions is ideal, she noted.

Currently, she holds free orientations about the program and its different training packages at 2 p.m. the first Sunday of every month at various spots along Sunset Cliffs. Online registration is required at highstryde.com, and attendees are allowed to bring friends and family members.

And as of early November, Collins began working with the U.S. Weed Channel for an upcoming segment spotlighting her business. The channel recently got picked up by Apple TV and Roku, and it broadcasts in 141 countries and supposedly reaches 56 million viewers

For more information about HighStryde training sessions, or to sign up for the free orientation sessions and introductory outdoor workshops held on occasion, visit highstryde.com.

"I'm beyond excited at the opportunity to get this message of health and wellness out globally," Collins said a few days prior to the film shoot, which was scheduled to take place in Ocean Beach.

Marijuana and its bevy of extracted products became legal for recreational home use in California in 2018. For the Highstryde sessions, Collins recommends smoking cannabis at home before setting out instead of ingesting it in the form of gummies or other edibles. In addition, she strongly advises clients to opt for sativa, the cannabis strain that serves as a mental stimulant compared to its sedating, opposite strain of indica.

"Smoking sativa propels us. It provides the motivation when all you have is the desire. But I've learned that sativa edibles act a lot like indica in that they make people sleepy," she said.

In regards to dosages that should be taken of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the psychoactive constituent of cannabis, Collins says it depends on the experience level of the user. "That's why I like to have vetting sessions. For clients who are new to cannabis, they should go with low-dose products that the dispensaries can recommend. Otherwise I tell people to stick with doses they are used to."

And what type of client does HighStryde attract?

"It's a conglomerate of anybody and everybody, ranging from legal age to retired seniors," said Collins while pointing out that "high-level workers and people in stressful jobs find this to be a particularly relaxing and comforting escape."

The majority of people taking part in HighStryde, she adds, do it for the weight loss. "But I find that men tap into the meditative aspect of the program more than women. That meditative mode kicks in during the strides—and you kind of forget you are exercising. But either way, you are moving. You're off the sofa, out of the house, and into the fresh air. Your body just knows what to do."

Remote training sessions are made possible through a "Stryde Guide" book and several videos Collins created. Access to those materials is included with the program.

"The three menaces to any chimney, fireplace, or stove."

Every year there are over twenty thousand chimney / fireplace related house fires in the US alone. Losses to homes as a result of chimney fires, leaks, and wind damage exceeds one hundred million dollars annually in the US.

CHIMNEY SWEEPS, INC., one of San Diego's leading chimney repair and maintenance companies, is here to protect you and your home from losses due to structural damage and chimney fires.

Family owned and operated and having been in business for over 30 years, Chimney Sweeps Inc. is a fully licensed and insured chimney contracting company (License # 976438) and they are certified with the National Fireplace Institute and have an A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau.

For a limited time, readers of this paper will receive a special discount on our full chimney cleaning and safety inspection package with special attention to chimney water intrusion points in preparation for the rainy season.

Ride the Point draws more than 700 riders for charity

By DAVE SCHWAB | THE BEACON

On Nov. 12, 742 bicyclists ages 5 to 94 in 26 teams including 100 family fun riders participated in the eighth annual Jim Krause Memorial Charity Bicycle Ride for Pancreatic Cancer Research.

The event, sponsored by the Point Loma Rotary Club, began and ended at Liberty Station and included 6-, 25- and 62-mile exclusive routes through scenic San Diego. Proceeds from this all-volunteer event stay in the community to fund pancreatic cancer research at UC San Diego Moores Cancer Center and other Point Loma Rotary Club civic projects.

The charity fundraiser was followed by an after-ride healthy lifestyles expo with booths, entertainment, and refreshments. Teams included SDYC, S4EA, Veteran's Village, Cyclery Bike Shop, and Team Esther for the second year. Riders came from all over: Los Angeles, Orange, and Ventura counties, Big Bear, Tahoe,

Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin, Utah, Baja, California, Tijuana, Italy, and Germany.

Several VIPs rode including former San Diego Mayor Kevin Faulconer; Shelly Zimmerman, former SDPD chief; Dixon Smith, former Navy regional commander; Dr. Andrew Lowey (MCC researcher); Steve Hegg, former Olympic gold medalist; Andy Hanshaw, executive director SDCBC; Andrew Krause (son of parade namesake Jim Krause); Steve Ford (Jim's riding buddy); Dan Orr of Coronado Rotary Club and Rotary Cycling2Serve.

The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond with in 30 days. Read the information below. You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court. There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. Manuel Correia PHOTOS BY PHILLIP BRENTS

BY SCOTT HOPKINS | THE BEACON

Point Loma High's Sophie Compton capped an incredible high school career when she ran to a first place finish at the CIF cross country championship meet held Nov. 20 at Morley Field.

Compton topped a field of 92 runners over a 2.96 mile course to take the Div. III championship

Pointer runner wins CIF cross country title with a time of 17:58.9.

In the boys' final, junior Manuel Correia received a third place medal for his finish over the same course with a time of 15:36.7, about 20 seconds behind the first place finisher in a field of 112 runners.

For Compton, first place finishes have become routine this season as she won a total of eight different meets before becoming the section's top runner.

Prior to the CIF finals, Compton won the Wolf Pack Invitational (1.5 miles), the UC Postal-2 Mile, the Ian Cumming/Tim Latham Invitational (2.5 miles) and the 28th Annual Kit Carson Cross Country Invitational (2.75 miles), each time recording personal best times.

Leading up to the CIF finals, Compton won the Western League Cluster No. 1 and No. 3 races (3.11 miles) before winning the league finals Nov. 10, also at Morley Field.

In the state meet on Nov. 27, over a 5,000 meter course at Woodward Park in Fresno, Compton turned in an admirable tenth place finish with a time of 18:21.0, just 43 seconds behind the winner. There were 209 runners in the event.

Meanwhile, Correia was only 20 seconds behind the winner of the CIF Div. III boys' title, a gap he will be working to erase in his senior season.

Correia earlier won the 28th Annual Kit Carson Cross Country Invitational, covering the 3.05 mile course in 16:25.3, a personal best for that distance. He finished second at the Ian Cumming/Tim Latham Invitational, running 5,000 meters in 16:03.6. In Western League Finals, Correia scored a personal best of 15:55.0 to finish second, just six seconds behind the winner.

Correia ran 20th of 207 entrants in the state meet at Fresno with a time of 15:44.8 over the 5,000 meters, just 40 seconds behind the state champion.

Other Pointer girls who competed in the CIF finals were freshmen Annie Guhse and Kaitlyn Gustafson, sophomore Emma Hess, juniors Ava Lantis and Kathryn Duby, and senior Camille Leute.

Boys running in CIF Finals included sophomore Sebastian Palmer, and seniors Victor Rojas, Gustavo Osorio, Jaeden Holenda-Diaz, Reid Weigel, and Jack Haleem. As a team, the Pointers finished sixth of 15 teams in both boys and girls results at CIF Finals.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The Pointer football team finished 4-6 overall but three of those losses and one win were to teams who made it to CIF finals, held last weekend at Escondido High School.

Sophie Compton

The Pointers lost to Ramona 19-14, but the Bulldogs went to the Div. III finals before losing to Mater Dei Catholic 37-10.

The Pointers defeated Patrick Henry 37-28 in head coach Joel Allen's first victory.

The Vortex Of Happiness

Lanz Correia not only specializes in the Ocean Beach and Point Loma area, he also specializes in selling unique properties like The Desert View Tower. This property boasts over 90 acres of stunning desert views. The Desert View Tower was originally built between 1922-1928. Includes three quaint homes, and a covered Balinese yoga and activity platform. The included adjacent rock caves, aptly named Boulder Park, feature large stones sculpted by an out-of-work engineer, Merle Ratcliff, during The Great Depression.
